

In giving the assets and liabilities of our electric light and water works plant, I placed the value of same at $125,000.00. I have since promised the public a statement showing how I arrived at the value of this property which so many people thought was a real burden to the city. My statement of September 15th showed how much of the people's money was in the plant. The amounts are as follows:

Paid by taxation	$19,000.00
Extension money raised by taxation	2,950.00
Outstanding electric light orders	2,993.31
Outstanding water works orders	2,082.99
Outstanding W. W. bonds	10,000.00
Int. on outstanding orders	1,200.00
E. L. & W. W. orders in
$20,000 bond sale	14,500.00
Interest on bonds carried by city	19,140.00
Total	$71,866.30
Plant earnings used for ext.	82,564.48

Total value $154,430.78

The above is the total value of the plant determined by the amount of money invested. The trouble is that I cannot make these figures stick, because people will say that it does not matter what a property costs. Cost does not determine value. The report further shows that $19,313.00 of the fire hydrant and street light money has been retained by the taxpayers. $93,049.42 was collected from consumers. Our rate is eight cents per kilowatt and other plants show a rate of ten and twelve cents per kilowatt. If we had used the ten cent rate, we would have collected $23,262.35 more than we did. Add this to the amount retained by taxpayers and you will have $42,575.00. The above amount is for eleven years. One year the amount would be $3,870.00. Compute the interest on $71,866.00, the amount the people have in the plant by direct payments and guaranteed payments including interest, and you will see that the city has declared a little less than a six per cent. dividend on her investment of $71,866.00 besides earning $82,564.48 for extensions and the $24,875.00 of the bonded indebtedness that was paid out of the earnings of the plant. Be careful how you figure or you will run the value above the $150,000.00 mark. You want to be careful or you will make every dollar, that the city invested, worth three. These figures have been too flattering and I will have to figure from another basis. We will use the private ownership basis at ten cents per kilowatt. Our gross earnings at eight cents last year, was $30,000.00, ten cents would have brought $35,000. We spent for coal, drayage and freight $12,000.00, labor $5,580.00, you may allow for depreciation $5,420. The total expenses will be $23,000 leaving $12,000 the profit on an unknown capital. This amount will equal the interest on $200,000.00. Our eight cents per kilowatt gives us a $7,000.00 profit with a depreciation fund of over $5,000 which amount is really too high. Be careful again or you will make the plant worth $200,000.00 and you will make every dollar of the money the city invested worth three or more. In my statements, I have been exact but in all my arguments, I have given the benefit of the doubt to those of the opposite belief. I have never mentioned minimum charge once, neither have I have anything about the increased or higher power rate of the other cities. If a private firm could have secured this plant at cost, they could have bonded it for $125,000, put the money in their pockets, paid a six per cent. dividend on a $200,000 capital stock. They could have spent their summers in Petoskey, their winters in Florida, while we could spend our few hours of leisure as far north as Maple Grove park.

I believe in the people of Decatur managing their own affairs. They do not need any high priced men to tell them how to take care of their own business. When do you find a private business in this town that makes a better showing? In 1894 there was a $20,000 bond issue. This bonded indebtedness was made to cover the floating debt and to take up old obligations. Decatur then was $20,000 in the hole and no salable property to cover her indebtedness. Today she has property to cover all her indebtedness and is more than $41,000 to the good. Using the $125,000 as the valuation of the plant, everybody knows the above figures are too low. This makes a difference in favor of the city of more than $61,000 during the last fifteen years. I am glad to see that a great many fair minded people understand the object of my statements. In fact our figures have convinced the most unreasonable that our city indebtedness rose and fell during the last eleven years regardless of the water and electric light plant. Yet we have some men who have axes to grind that cannot see what has caused our troubles. They fail to see the south ward school building at a cost of.....$12,000.00

West Ward at perhaps	7,000.00
North Ward at perhaps	7,000.00
Central school building	20,000.00
Refunding bonds of 1894	20,000.00
Refunding bonds of 1898	9,000.00
Township roads 1898 to 1909	96,540.00
Interest for eleven years	61,324.00
Misc. streets and sewers	114,485.00
Special street and sewer	17,683.00
Total	$365,030.00

The above $365,000 is only a part of the huge load that our city has been carrying and paying. With all this burden, we do not begrudge the farmer this good roads nor wish the city to return to her mud streets. We have convinced the people that the credit of Decatur is good and that all our money is not going into our water works and electric light "junk pile." There are two things that a city council cannot do. They cannot manage the city business satisfactory to everybody concerned, neither can they manage the business just like they would manage their own business. Such wish-a-wash policies allow the indebtedness to slip up but does furnish the strength to pull her down. There is no politics in throwing the books open and allowing everybody know the value of their own property. There is more pleasure in helping to build up the credit of one city than to destroy the credit of a thousand municipalities. "Build up" is the motto, and every taxpayer should realize that this cannot be done without definite ideas. Publicity of our city affairs will unite the voters on rational lines, will aid in the care of the city revenue, will prompt the reducing of the city indebtedness and help to save the interest. There is no narrow politics in trying to save the credit of the city. There is no politics in working for our homes instead of the bondholder. That is business. The road is open for better things. Let us go forward and not backward. W. J. ARCHBOLD.

The Knights of Columbus lodge is arranging for another big day, to be held here in about a month, the exact date having not been fixed as yet. This is being done by the state officers. It will be known as K. of C. day and will be similar to those given here before, but more complete if the plans being made are carried out, as they no doubt will be. The event will be a joint installation of candidates from this city and Huntington, the former furnishing thirty and the latter twenty-five. The state officers of the order are expected to be present and there will be delegations from all the cities of this section, including Lima, South Bend, Fort Wayne, Peru, Union City, Muncie, Anderson, Marion, and other places, numbering in all between five and six hundred. Preliminary arrangements are now being made by the local officers, including C. S. Niblick, H. J. Yager and B. J. Kohne. A good speaker will be secured and in fact nothing is to be left undone, toward making this the biggest of all similar events ever held here. The crowds will come in early in the day and remain until evening, when the days pleasures will close with a sumptuous banquet. It is likely that the day will be set for either the last Sunday of this month or the first of next.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—John R. Walsh has failed to pay the quarterly interest of $70,000 due July 1 on the $7,000,000 note given by John R. Walsh & Co. to the Associated Banks of Chicago, in connection with the deal by which the banks took over the assets of the Chicago National, the Home Savings and the Equitable Trust company in 1905. It had been intimated in advance that the interest would not be paid. Under the agreement by which certain securities are pledged as security for the note there is no default until ninety days have elapsed after the interest is due and unpaid. To avert default, however, the interest due July 1 should have been paid today. It is expected that the banks will move toward a foreclosure on the securities pledged. But one of the provisions of the agreement is that the banks shall give twenty days notice of a default on the interest. If it will unpaid the principal and interest may be declared due and foreclosure proceedings may begin. It is possible that in these extra twenty days Walsh may be able to pay the July interest. If not, the banks will proceed with the foreclosure, which ultimately will eliminate Walsh from the Chicago Southern and the Southern Indiana, the railroad enterprises that brought about his financial difficulties. It is not improbable that the foreclosure will be drawn out for a considerable period in the courts. The securities pledged to secure the $7,000,000 note consist largely of the stocks and bonds of the Chicago Southern and the Southern Indiana and the Southern Indiana and the Southern Indiana are in a receivership, but are making fair progress under the receiver's management. The semi-annual interest defaulted Aug. 1 last year on the Southern Indiana bonds was paid recently by order of the court.

Indianapolis, Oct. 1.—The state tax board will revise the personal property list to secure a better equalization of taxation, so it was stated yesterday by John McArdle, a member of the board. The itemized list of personal property, which every taxpayer is required to fill out, contains 100 items, including everything from annuities, the number of steamboats owned to the number of dogs. In spite of its apparent completeness, however, the state tax board has discovered that the list does not include automobiles. There are a number of other items which are not definite enough, as, for example, the question is asked "how many sheep and value?" This will probably be changed "how many rams?" "How many lambs?" etc. Instead of "how many cattle, and value?" the question will likely be, "how many bulls, heifers, steers, cows, calves?" etc. The board has realized for some time that the list did not permit a fair equalization of values, in that it permitted some to escape under a too broad classification a taxation which ought to obtain, and which it is believed will under a proper revision. The board is fortified in its right to make the revision by an opinion from Attorney General Bligham. The attorney general states that the assessment laws of the state clearly give the state tax board the right to revise the assessment list, which has remained as it is for many years.

Among the best known old residents of this city are Mr. and Mrs. James Edge, who for years have resided on north Fifth street. They have many acquaintances over this section who will be glad to learn that this splendid old couple are planning to celebrate their fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day. The event occurred October 19th, 1859, and the golden wedding on the same date this year will likewise be a happy affair. A son who resides in Missouri is here and will assist his parents in getting ready for the important occasion, as will also the daughter, Mrs. M. V. E. Archbold of Fort Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. Edge are in good health and are as happy as though they were anticipating the original wedding. They are among the most highly respected citizens of Decatur and all who know them hope they will live to enjoy each others company for another half century. The golden wedding will not be an elaborate affair, but will include all the relatives and of course the day will be a most appropriate one.

Some people can't just naturally help being lucky and it looks as though Fred Martin, son of Jacob Martin of this city, is one of those individuals. It is well known here that he has large holdings in the Alaska district. He spent the summer here and on his way home in August stopped in the Coeur d'Alene country and registered for the big government land drawing. As a result he has been notified that he was one of those fortunate enough to secure a 160 acre tract of the valuable land for the price of the notary, twenty-five cents. A recent copy of the Fairbanks, Alaska, Daily Times, said:

"Lucky Fred" A. Martin, proprietor of the California, received a notice by yesterday's mail that he had drawn Number 2221, in the Flathead Indian reservation, near Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. This means that he has 160 acres of land coming to him, for an expenditure of twenty-five cents in registering, in the early part of July—that is, he has the opportunity of buying it at a price which will make it almost a gift. The big government lottery, in which 700,000 acres of land not allotted to the Flathead Indians is apportioned, began at Coeur d'Alene August 12th. According to the Missoula Herald, of the 700,000 acres there are two thousand quarter sections of land fit for agricultural purposes, and it is estimated that there will be between 2,700 and 3,000 claims filed upon. There are 40,000 acres of land classified as first class, for which the government will receive from $5 to $7 per acre, one-third to be paid at time of filing, April, 1910, and the remainder in five equal annual payments, unless the one making entry desires to prove up after fourteen months' residence, when the remaining balance can be paid. The second class agricultural land totals 75,013 acres. Mr. Martin will know after filing next April whether he will have timber, agricultural or mediocre ground. Six thousand names will be drawn. He and Frank Barthel and Fred Delinger, who all come from the same town, Decatur, Ind., registered at the same time. Mr. Martin is not quite decided which he would rather be in this instance, a farmer or a log-roller.

M. E. Brackett is just home from Chicago, where he landed a nice piece of business and which will help increase the output and earnings of the Ward Fence company for 1910. The contract was for a certain style farm fence, and the order is one that will make the company twenty thousand plunks, not a bad asset. Mr. Brackett has a few more contracts on the way and the outlook is not half bad for this Decatur manufacturing company. They expect to greatly increase their output during the coming year and from the present outlook they will easily do it.

The Ward Fence company sent out their quarterly dividend checks yesterday and today every holder of stock in that company will have received a dividend upon the amount of stock they hold. This is the third dividend declared for the year, and it will likely continue to be a permanent feature of their business.

STAFFORD SENT BACK TO WIFE

Arrested at Kendallville for Deserting His Wife.

In the circuit court this afternoon Wayman Stafford, the dwarf arrested at Kendallville yesterday for deserting his wife, entered a plea of guilty although he insisted on the witness stand that he had not intended to leave her but said he had been in hard luck and had been unable to make money enough to send any for her support. Judge O'Rourke told him to go back to his wife and she took the case under advisement. He stated in his defense that he had been "following the fair" but hadn't made any money and that he went away from Hoagland, where he kept a restaurant because the business was not paying and he thought he could make enough to tide over the winter and to pay for a surgical operation his wife underwent last winter. She is also a dwarf and was forced to submit a year ago in January to a Caesarian section to save her life. The affidavit against him was filed by Barrett Van Bunkirk, his brother-in-law. Fort Wayne Sentinel. Stafford is well known in this city.
