Mrs. James D. Brown, wife of a prominent farmer of Kirkland township, is seriously sick, suffering from an unusual injury, that of a floating condition of a kidney, which was torn loose from the supports of the back, during a strain she received in a fall. Last Friday Mrs. Brown went to the barn to close the doors, and while swinging them shut she slipped and fell. At the time of the accident she was suffering from appendicitis, but the report of the doctor today is that the kidney was torn loose in the fall. Mrs. Brown is sixty-four years of age, an advanced age which makes the injury the more serious. Her husband is at present serving on the regular panel of the jury.

Miss Harriet Wertzberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wertzberger, is gaining laurels in her chosen work; that of millinery, and will leave Friday for New York City, where she goes to study designing for the season, having been offered a position as designer in a large wholesale house in Indianapolis. Miss Wertzberger has had much experience in her chosen work, and for the past year has been manager of a large millinery establishment at Delphi. She has been growing more and more in excellency, until her originality and artistic work has been recognized by those who are considered the best, hence the offer from the Indianapolis wholesale house, which is quite an achievement in the millinery world. For while many are gifted with the talent of imitating the productions of others, not all are given the gift of original designing which falls to the great artists in any profession, and Miss Wertzberger's friends are rejoicing with her in her recognition. She spent Christmas with her parents here and left today for Indianapolis, where she will spend a few days before going to New York.

Christmas, always a happy period, was made more than usually merry for the Rev. L. W. Dornisief of the St. Peter's church in Root township, for he was presented with a valuable horse, a present that he will derive much pleasure from. The horse was the gift of a large number of his congregation, than whom by the way, there are no better people on the face of the earth. They are the very salt and Rev. Dornisief is willing to sanction the opinion that they are liberal and all right. The St. Peter's church, known as the Fueling church, is in the midst of a happy and thrifty people who believe in passing Christmas cheer around. The Rev. Dornisief thoroughly appreciated the present and desires to thus publicly thank the kind folks who remembered him so substantially.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—"Confronted with a deficit of $17,479,770, the present administration of the post office department began its operations. This was the largest deficit in the history of the postal service. So long as the deficit in the department aggregated only a few millions of dollars annually, little attention was paid to it; but when, in the last few years, it leaped upward to $10,000, and finally, in 1909, exceeded $17,000,000, ordinary business prudence suggested that the causes be definitely located." These are statements in the annual report of Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock, made public today. Concerning results of inquiries into the deficit, the postmaster general says: "Recent investigations have shown that the two great sources of loss to the postal revenues are second class mail matter and rural delivery. The loss on second class mail matter has been increasing for many years, until it now amounts to $64,000,000. The loss from rural delivery, a service begun hardly a dozen years ago and of unprecedented growth, reaches as high as $28,000,000. In these two items alone the postal service now suffers an annual loss of more than the entire national deficit of the last fiscal year."

After five years in the west, most of which time he has been in the vicinity of Denver, Colorado, Charles Peterson unexpectedly turned up here Monday for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shafer Peterson. The visit was most unexpected to the parents, and Charles insists that it was in the nature of a Christmas present, though a little late. He will remain here for a day or two and then go further east on business for the real estate firm of which he is a member. He will be here for about two months, with excursions through the east during that time, and his wife and son, Thomas, will arrive next month to join him here in a visit. Charles has been quite successful in his western home, and in connection with the real estate business operates a publishing plant. That the climate agrees with him is evidenced by the fact that he has taken on considerably more avoirdupois, and is a pretty fair specimen of western brawn and muscle.

Fred Lawrence, a man aged about fifty, who worked at the Hotel Murray in this city for a long time, and who left here some six months ago, to accept a similar place as night clerk at the Bliss hotel at Bluffton, was caught red-handed Monday, and confessed that he had been systematically robbing Clem Stair, who conducts a cigar case in the Bliss. The Bluffton News tells the story as follows:

Lawrence had started in with a scheme to systematically rob the cash drawer in the safe in the hotel office, in which Mr. Stair kept his cash. Some weeks ago a key to another drawer out of the half dozen in the safe was missed, and it was thought to have been lost, but it developed this morning, as Lawrence confessed, that he had taken this key and watching his opportunity filed it out so that it corresponded to the key to Mr. Stair's cash box which it would open. He had then started in on his plan of extracting ones, fives, and tens, as he thought the pile would stand without detection.

Last Friday night Clem missed a one dollar bill, but being afraid Lawrence might have spent it he did not push a search then, but when a five came up missing this morning out of a deposit of $148.50 he felt sure Lawrence would still have it, and he called Sheriff Lipkey and together they proceeded to Lawrence's room. At first Lawrence made emphatic denial but Clem told him that he had been watched last night by a man stationed in the dining room, who saw him go into the safe. Believing this to be true, Lawrence broke down and confessed without waiting to be searched. He turned over the missing bill, No. 36,843,984, and confessed to taking $36.50 previously which he turned over out of about $55 which he had in his pocketbook.

Lawrence has been keeping company with a lady here who is in business, and many believe what he was only waiting an opportunity to make a haul from her and get away, and he probably would have finally made a big haul at the Bliss and fled had he not been detected in time.

BOB SAURER HAS MEASLES.
Bluffton Man Forced to Lay Down in Clerk's Race.

Robert Saurer, residing on Miller street, was quarantined at his home Sunday, with a severe case of measles. Mr. Saurer had not been feeling very well for two or three days, and on Saturday became quite ill while attending a family Christmas dinner at the Ed Bartlemy home and was taken home in a cab suffering from a sort of bronchial fever. The next day the measles appeared. Mr. Saurer is one of the candidates for the democratic nomination for county clerk, and the sickness will make it impossible for him to make a further canvass before the primary on January 8th. It is supposed he became exposed to the measles some place while campaigning over the county.

A trained nurse was secured from Fort Wayne to take care of Mr. Saurer. The case is pronounced one of the most severe that has come under the observation of local physicians.—Bluffton News.

Decatur friends of Marion Smith are just learning of his marriage, which, as nearly as can be learned, took place a week ago last Sunday, the bride being a popular young lady of Mt. Pleasant, Mich. Marion has been in the real estate business at Mt. Pleasant during the past year, going there from Midland, Mich., where he had been engaged in business two years. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, of this city have received word of the marriage, but as yet have learned none of the details, except that the wedding has taken place. The groom was one of the best known young men of the county and a graduate of the Decatur high school. His friends here extend to him their best wishes.

W. E. Kidd, who for the past three years has been in New York state, is here for a visit with his parents, Milton Kidd and wife, living near the Washington M. E. church, west of the city. The visit came as a surprise to the parents, who knew nothing of his intended visit until they went to church Sunday morning as usual and found the son, sitting there in the pew. Since going east Mr. Kidd has become quite a successful poultry man. He worked seven months as attendant in one of the largest poultry plants at Amsterdam, N. Y., and a year at the W. B. Condee poultry plant in Syracuse. This plant is one of the most up-to-date in the world, and has a hatching capacity of 21,000 eggs at one hatching. Mr. Kidd then took a course in poultry husbandry in the New York State College of Agriculture, graduating this year. Though the college makes all efforts to place its graduates in positions, Mr. Kidd was the only one out of fifty-four to receive an immediate position, with a recommendation from the professor of poultry husbandry. He is now in charge of the poultry department of the Clifton Springs Sanitarium, Clifton Springs, N. Y. Where others failed he has made a success of the plant, and the employers are enlarging that department to three times the producing capacity of the past season, which will be about 5,000 ducks and 5,000 chickens.

The building committee of the Knights of Pythias lodge, including Orral Harritt, O. L. Vance, James Hurst, E. B. Lenhart, Dan Erwin and J. L. Gay, have been very busy the past few days selecting furniture, carpets and other things for the new K. of P. home, which is rapidly nearing completion. The furnishings, in accordance with the building itself, will be of the best, and all in all, the home will be one of the finest and most complete in this part of the state. The lodge expects to hold its first meeting in the new home next week, though the dedication will not take place until the first of February.

A revival service will begin next week at the Methodist church in preparation for which cottage prayer meetings will be held this evening at the homes of various members of the church. The Rev. D. of Muncie; the Rev. D. H. Guild, of Wabash; the Rev. Fred F. Thornburg of Knightstown; and the Rev. Powell of this city. The quartet has taken part in many revivals in the state and are a recognized power for good. The ministers will be here three days next week and three days the following week.
