

A Sufferer Cured

"Every season, from the time I was two years old, I suffered dreadfully from erysipelas, which kept growing worse until my hands were almost useless. The bones softened so that they would bend, and several of my fingers are now crooked from this cause. On my hand I carry large scars, which, but for

AYER'S

Sarsaparilla, would be sores, provided I was alive and able to carry anything. Eight bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me, so that I have had no return of the disease for more than twenty years. The first bottle seemed to reach the spot and a persistent use of it has perfected the cure."—O. C. DAVIS, Wautoma, Wis.

Kraut making is the order of the day. Corn husking would be, if it was not so dry.
Grandpa McBarnes is no better, with poor prospects of his recovery.
The stone wall and iron fence that is being placed in front of the cemetery at this place is about completed, supplying a "long felt want." The trustee has purchased a piece of land adjoining the old cemetery, containing about ninety-three lots, which in connection with the old cemetery will make considerable more room for future interment.
The schools of this place feel quite proud of their new flag—a present from the old soldiers of this school district, who wish that their children be taught to honor the flag for which they fought. Why do not the patrons of other school districts do the same? Teachers bring this before your patrons and see how readily they will assist you in securing a flag for your school building.

Smith & Cowan have considerable material on the ground for the foundation of their new mill, which they contemplate erecting this fall. It will be on the site of the old one.

Pleasant Mills is to have another blacksmith about the first of next month, in place of the one who left so suddenly. The gentleman comes from Randolph county, and is well recommended. He has purchased the Frank Winans property.

While the little five-year-old son of Mrs. Flo Stetler was playing near the river with the small son of J. H. Steele, he fell in the water, and would have been drowned had not his little companion run and informed the men at work at the cemetery. The men rushed to the bank, and found the little fellow sinking for the last time. They rescued him, and after some work he was brought around all right.

S. W. Hale & Bro.

This week will witness the completion of Hale-Herr buildings and henceforth the office of the Geneva elevator will be in the Hale building, which was built by Mr. Hale especially for his use, and will be occupied by him. In the front part of the building is located the office, which is large and well furnished; just in the rear of the office will be stored the grain, seeds, salt and cement, which is extensively retailed by Mr. Hale. The rear portion of the second floor will also be used as a ware room.

The new elevator which was erected by Mr. Hale this summer is of greater capacity than the old which was destroyed by fire in June. It is equipped from cellar to garret with the latest improved machinery for cleaning and handling grain. No expense has been spared to make it the equal of any establishment of its kind in this section of the state.

For twenty-five years the firm of Hale Bros. have bought grain and dealt with the farmers of Adams and Jay counties. In all that time the Herald is safe in saying that no firm has won and kept so high a reputation for fair, honest dealing, among the farmers. They are now established and better than ever prepared for business and only ask for a continuance of the patronage bestowed upon them in the past.—Geneva Herald.
