

THE EAGLE. OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE COUNTY. LOCAL & MISCELLANEOUS.

FRIDAY, May 13, 1866. New Advertisements. Universal Cough Remedy. Mennewell. Land for Sale—James R. Bobo.

JACK FROST.—Jack Frost was on the rampage Monday night, playing sad havoc with early vegetables, fruit etc.,

We call the attention of all desiring a pleasant and profitable employment to the advertisement in this paper headed "S1500 per year."

SOMETHING NEW.—McLean and Brothers have secured the services of an experienced cutter, and are now prepared to do first class work in all branches of Merchant Tailoring.

ALMOST A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Monday last, Capt. E. Daily, while examining a revolver in the Fancy store of C. Crabbs, accidentally discharged one of the cylinders, the ball passing through the window, wounding a horse in the fore leg, and in its flight passing uncomfortably near several of the passers by. The horse had an ugly looking flesh wound, but, we think, was not seriously injured.

PERSONAL.—Joseph H. Jones, who has lately taken charge of the Jay county Republican, has been in town during the week, looking after the interests of his paper in the way of subscribers. As it is the only paper in this senatorial district in the interest of the Republican party, he aspires to make it the organ of the district. Aside from political views we wish him success.

Gen. Shanks was attending court during the week, and holding wakes among the faithful, with an eye to securing the Republican vote of this county for himself at the Congressional Convention, called to meet in Wabash on the first day of August next.

COMMON PLEAS COURT.—In consequence of Judge Borden being suddenly called away from Fort Wayne, on matters of urgent importance, no business was transacted until Tuesday afternoon when W. W. Carson Esq. entered his appearance as Judge pro tem. Consequently, at present writing, Wednesday night, very little business has been completed, though there is considerable under way. We therefore defer our Court items until next week, when they will be outlined in full.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—In our special columns and to which the attention of our readers is asked, will be found notices of the most reliable and standard New England Medical preparations, known as Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne—and Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills. They will be noticed from month to month, and to the invalid will be found truly important, and from Physicians is invited the greatest freedom of correspondence and enquiry for formulas or any explanation touching purely official preparations—they are sold by all dealers in medicine.

CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE.—We learn from the Jay County Republican, that "Maj. Wm. H. Vance, late of the 47th Indiana, is the Union candidate for Representative in the State Legislature from Adams county." Go from home to learn the news is an old saying, and in this instance applicable to the present case. Where, when, or by whom the nomination was made we have yet to learn. Another fact we have learned that the Major is already stumping the county, and putting the announcement of the Republican and the action of the Maj. together, there is little doubt but there has been a midnight meeting of the Loyal League, recently, some place in the county. The Republican thus eulogizes the Major:

"The unconquerable Unionists of Adams County could not have selected a stronger or more acceptable candidate; under his leadership they will make a gallant fight next fall. Having fought the enemies of a free Government so bravely and successfully on the battle field, we are glad to learn and proud to announce that he has entered the lists against its more insidious foes."

The last pitch battle with the Democracy that we have heard of the Major being engaged in, was in Jefferson township, last spring, and we are glad to learn he is in the lists again, for we admire pluck. Up and at 'em again Major.

INTERNAL REVENUE.—In a late number we spoke of matters connected with the assessment of the Internal Revenue, since which we have received the decisions made by the Treasury Department, covering exemptions and deductions, which will be found on the outside of this issue.

By referring to the article it will be seen that farmers produce raised and consumed on the farm for 1866, will be exempt. We are not advised whether the rule will apply to the present assessment or not. The only way to test the matter will be for some of our farmers to file their appeal ten days prior to the visit of the District assessor, who will then act upon the matter.

THE PEOPLE.—This is the title of a new literary paper just started in New York, of which we have received the first number. It is published in quarto form, and about the same size as the Mercury and Ledger. Judging from the initial number it will prove, we think, a valuable addition to the newspaper literature of the country, and will become deservedly popular with the mass who encourage all laudable efforts of the kind. Terms of subscription, $2 50 a year, with the usual deductions to clubs. Address, PEOPLE PUBLISHING CO., No. 5, Frankfort St., N. Y.

Common Pleas Court has been in session this week—speaking of the members of the bar, a wag who says the only ones of note are McLean and Frank Miesse. An allusion to the legal fraternity of course.

President Johnson and the Republicans. Mr. Howe said no President was ever under greater obligations to a party that elected him than the present executive. He was made a candidate by a party against which he had been opposed all his life, and ought above all other Presidents to be tolerant on opinions differing from his own. When the war broke out he was made a Brigadier General for fidelity to the Union. He was sent to Nashville. He stayed there and did his duty; and, grateful for that duty done, we said to him, because he had been faithful over a few things, we would make him ruler over many, and we did make him Vice President of the United States, commended to us, as I said before, by the single fact that he had been loyal in the beginning of the struggle, and had been faithful to our trust. It so happened that when he had been made Vice President, a terrible disaster overcame the country, and he became President of the United States. The fact was then developed that there was a difference of opinion upon some points of policy between the President and the great body of that party which had been instrumental in making him President, upon questions which we thought, and which I, for one, know are vital and fundamental, if there are any vital and fundamental questions in national politics. He found that he was in harmony with those who opposed his election, and at variance with those who had given him the election."

The above statement of Senator Howe is very important to President Johnson. Though made by an enemy to accuse and reproach, it fully vindicates President Johnson; indeed, it shows that he could not but pursue the course he has, without being a hypocrite, false to his conscience and his past life. It admits: 1. That President Johnson, in his political principles, had always been opposed to the Republican party. 2. That he was not nominated and elected by the Republicans with any view to, or promise by him of change in his political creed, but simply because he, like the great body of the Democrats, went for maintaining the Union by war, when the dominant party refused to allow the use of any other mode. 3. That the President, now that the war has ceased and civil administration is devolved upon him, is simply acting upon his known political principles which always were antagonistic to those of the Republican party. We hope to hear no more of Johnson's treachery.—Indianapolis Herald.

Massacre by the Indians at Fort Goodwin. SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—A special messenger arrived yesterday at Los Angeles, bringing a dispatch from the commander of Fort Goodwin, in Arizona, announcing that Fort Goodwin, in Arizona, had been taken by two thousand Indians, and the garrison, numbering one hundred and seventy-four men massacred. All were killed except one, and the fort burned. The man who escaped was hunting at the time, and witnessed the commotion from a distance. He saw the fort burning, and heard the firing of guns during the fight, which lasted several hours. It is supposed the Indians gained admission to the fort under the pretext of entering into a treaty of peace, which General Mason had instructed the commander of the fort to make.

It is stated that within a month after the opening of the New York Inebriate Asylum, over 1,500 applications were made by wealthy parents for the admission of their daughters, who had contracted intemperate habits from the use of liquors at fashionable parties.

How Mr. Seward prepares His Speeches.

There is, certainly, a spice of truth in the assertion that Mr. Seward's speeches are composed, and frequently put in type, before they are delivered; but the reason for doing so, and the manner of doing it, are generally misunderstood. He is somewhat fastidious as to his style, and dislikes to be incorrectly reported, but yet we doubt if Mr. Seward ever wrote a speech in his life. For the purpose, however, of avoiding errors, and more particularly to guard against being charged with saying things which he did not say, it is his habit to rehearse his speeches before they are made in public. This is usually done in a private room, the speaker walking back and forth, or sitting down, at pleasure, while some friend, or a professional reporter writes down his words as he speaks. The manuscript is then given to the printer, and, if time allows, the speech is read and corrected by Mr. Seward before it is given to the world.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. Franklin and the South Carolina Planter.

A friend relates to us that the Summer before the war at the house of a hospitable South Carolina planter, he was up one morning with the sun and was about to venture forth on a morning walk, when he was checked by the planter at the door.

"You cannot pass, Sir Too early." "Two early! Why, my dear Colonel, what says Dr. Franklin?"

"Early to bed and early to rise will make a man healthy and wealthy and wise."

"Very fine, sir; but all a fallacy. Early rising and the inhalation, upon an empty stomach, of the morning malaria of this country North and South, have been the death of thousands—the death of thousands, sir, from the time of Capt. John Smith to this day. Wait till after breakfast, fortify your stomach with a cup of hot coffee, and then the noxious vapors of the night being exhaled by the sun, we will take a morning ride."

"But, my dear Colonel, I am always fortified with a wine glass of HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS."

"Ah, then, sir, you may stick to Dr. Franklin. Hostetter's agent at Charleston supplies me, and I am expecting a box to day with my wagon. Those Bitters, I find, are a sure protective against all the fevers resulting from malaria. Doctor Franklin holds good, sir, even in the swamps of South Carolina, if fortified with Hostetter's Bitters."
