

FRIDAY, AUGUST 3, 1877.

Forty rioters are in jail at Harrisburg, Pa., awaiting trial.

Not one drop of blood was shed in Indiana during the strike. Creditable.

More than 100,000 bushels of wheat owned by parties in Indianapolis was burned in Pittsburgh, Sunday of last week.

THE DEMOCRATIC SENTINEL is now the largest and best newspaper in Jasper county. Only $1.50 per annum. Call and subscribe, and advise your friends and neighbors to do likewise.

It is said that the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad will lose their quarterly dividend now due, the officers having determined to use all the available cash to restore property destroyed by the mob.

On Wednesday last seven thousand strikers endeavored to stop a mail train at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., by uncoupling cars and interfering with employees. The train was eventually backed up, got on full head of steam and shot through unharmed.

An exodus of the colored people to Africa is by no means improbable. Several meetings on the subject have been held recently in different parts of the country, and one was announced in New York for this week, at which Frederick Douglass was to give his views. The late Senator Sumner had an idea that the colored race would work out its highest development in the West India Islands and found there a black confederation; but it may be that Africa is the promised land.

It is evident that the end of the infamies of Grant's administration has not yet been reached. At Erie, Pennsylvania, indictments have been found against the firm of L. & J. Dunlap, government contractors of that city; G. E. Fell, government inspect, or; J. W. Domineck, of Buffalo, clerk in engineer's office, and A. Bartholomew, for defrauding the government in the improvement of Erie harbor, of amounts variously estimated at from one to two hundred thousand dollars.

Gov. Robinson, in his proclamation to the people of New York, says: "The law recognizes and protects the rights of all men to refuse to work, except upon terms satisfactory to themselves, but it does not permit them to prevent other men from working who desire to do so. Unless the State is to be given up to anarchy, and its courts and laws are to be defied with impunity, its whole power must be exerted to suppress violence, maintain order and protect its citizens in their right to work, and the business of the country from lawless interruption within our borders. It is no longer a question of wages, but of the supremacy of the law, the liberty, the property, and the rights of all classes of citizens." All law-abiding citizens will say "Amen" to the above. Gov. Robinson states the law in plain words.

The Chicago TIMES says that indictments for perjury have been returned by the grand jury in the United States court at Portland, Oregon, against Mr. Stiles and two other persons who swore to certain damaging statements against Governor Grover. In relation to the senatorial election, before Mr. Morton's committee. As it would be absurd to suppose that Stiles and the others have engaged in this false swearing business merely for the fun of the thing, it seems to follow that if there has been subornation of perjury. The grand jury might do many worse things than to give this whole business a very exhaustive overhauling. The members of the senatorial committee may be supposed to know something about the means by which testimony was obtained and brought before them, and they should be favored with an opportunity to tell what they know.

A PROCLAMATION.

On Thursday evening of last week Gov. Williams issued the following proclamation:

THE STATE OF INDIANA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, A Proclamation by the Governor relative to disturbances of the peace by striking employees of railroad companies.

To the people of Indiana: Many disaffected employees of railroad companies during the strike in this state have suborned their employers as a cause of alleged grievances, and have conspired to enforce their demands by detaining trains of their late employers, seizing and controlling their property, intimidating their managers, prohibiting by violence their attempts to conduct their business, and driving away passengers and freight offered for transportation. The peace of community is seriously disturbed by these lawless acts. Every class of society is made to suffer, and the reputation of our community is threatened with disgrace among our neighbors. The disregard of law and the rights and privileges of citizens and those of sister states can not be tolerated. The machinery provided by law for the redress of private grievances must be used as the only resort against debtors, individual or corporate. The process of the courts is deemed sufficient for the enforcement of civil remedies, as well as the penalties of the criminal code, and must be exercised equally in each case. To the end that the existing combination be dissolved and destroyed in its lawless form, I invoke the aid of all the law-abiding citizens of our state. I ask that they denounce and condemn this infraction of public order, and endeavor to dissuade these offenders against the peace and dignity of our state from further acts of lawlessness.

To the judiciary: I appeal for the prompt and rigid administration of justice in proceedings of this nature.

To the sheriffs of the several counties: I propose a convention by which the duties imposed upon them by statute when they have sworn to discharge. I admonish each to use the full power of his county in the preservation of order and the suppression of breaches of the peace, assuring them of my hearty co-operation with the power of the state at my command when satisfied that occasion demands it.

To those who have arrayed themselves against government, and are subverting law and order and the best interests of society by the waste and destruction of property, the derangement of trains and the ruin of all classes of labor, I appeal for an immediate abandonment of their unwise and unlawful confederation. I convey to them the voice of the law, which they do not disregard. I trust that its administration will be so promptly headed that a resort to extreme measures will be unnecessary, and that the authority of the law and the dignity of the state, against which they have so grievously offended, may be restored and duly respected hereafter.

Given at Indianapolis, this twenty-sixth day of July, 1877.

Witness the seal of the state and the signature of the Governor.

JAMES D. WILLIAMS.

By the Governor:

John E. Newell, Secy of State.

The Indianapolis Herald says this document "fell like a bombshell among the fiery and reckless elements." A speedy and bloodless victory was the result.

REBUKE THE DEMAGOGUES!

Certain Republican newspapers, says the New York SUN, try to give a party turn to the recent disturbances by declaring that they are of Democratic origin, and that nearly all the strikers and rioters are Democrats. Nothing could be more untruthful than this assertion.

The most formidable outbreak and the most disastrous events that have marked this calamitous conflict have occurred at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, with its suburbs, is the stronghold of the Republican party in Pennsylvania. The county of Allegheny, in which Pittsburgh is situated, and where nearly all the vota of the county are cast, usually gives a Republican majority of 12,000 and in great contests it has given as high as 18,000. It has always been claimed by the Republicans and conceded by the Democrats that the mass of the mechanics and miners and other workingmen in and around Pittsburgh vote for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and, perhaps, get me dismissed, but that after all that had occurred on this campaign, neither he nor any other man could disgrace me, and, being by this time pretty well stirred up, I said that under like circumstances would I report in person, which I at once did. On the way I thought the master over, and concluded that it would be better to make a clean breast of it, and I did. The story goes: Gen. Scott into a tremendous rage. Ever since Corro Gordo was fought he had addressed me as "My Corro Gordo friend," but he now dropped that familiar name. "Gen. Shields," he thundered, "you are insubordinate and reckless in the highest degree. You have put in peril the fruits of the whole campaign; you have, perhaps, frustrated all my plans for the capture of the city of Mexico! Sir, I'll disengage you; I'll court-martial you; I'll have you tried for "service!" At this my temper rose, and I answered him plainly that he might court-martial, and