

One copy one year, $1.50
One copy six months, .75
One copy three months, .40
Advertising rates on application.

NEWS SUMMARY

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

The Ozar has returned to St. Petersburg, where he had a most enthusiastic reception. A cable dispatch says profound gloom prevails in Constantinople. The Sultan and a majority of the people are anxious for peace, but they are overruled by a party of Pashas who know that the end of the war will bring them heavy punishment. A small element is determined on war to the death, and demand a levy on mass and the unfurling of the flag of the Prophet.

A London dispatch says the fear of England going to war is dying out there, but the Government still maintains a watchful preparation. The total Russian loss by the war to Dec. 20 is $8,412.

A Turkish dispatch from Erzerum says it is believed the step of that place will soon begin, as the Russian forces are overwhelming, and Russian infantry is advanced into the plain of Erzerum.

A cable dispatch says the Serbians have taken Alkapanak, on the Sava river, after eight hours of fighting, and are advancing on Virov. Severe weather prevails over the whole east of Europe. The Danube is frozen over, and the bridge has been carried away at Biala.

Another change has been made in the Turkish Cabinet, Said Pasha becoming Minister of Marine and Raoud Pasha of War. The British Minister, Layard, has spoken unofficially in London, and has said that the Turks "at England will aid them, and they are fast regaining courage. Their depleted paper currency has taken a sudden rise.

The following words are attributed to the Ozar in reply to a denunciation headed by Prince Gortchakoff: "I am not a man of war, but I am a man of peace. I will not consent to mediation, and am armed against intervention."

A St. Petersburg Journal says the Porte's request for mediation will be declined, because, according to international law, mediation is only possible when solicited by both belligerents. Otherwise mediation becomes intervention.

It is rumored that Osman Pasha, the commander-in-chief at Plevna, is to be tried by a Russian military court for the slaughter of the wounded. Several engagements of the past summer.

There seems little doubt that England has consented to accept the office of peacemaker, and will undertake to bring about an adjustment between Russia and Turkey. The announcement is made by the British Government has acceded to Turkey's request, and will try what can be done toward peace.

Reinforcements ordered for the Russian army exceed 250,000 men. The Army of the Danube, numbering 90,000 men, is also being formed. Russia has bought 200,000 rifles in Berlin.

A London dispatch of Dec. 29 says: "I am informed, on good authority, that in English military circles war is considered almost inevitable. Arrangements are completed and regiments called for an army of 80,000 men, and steps are already taking toward the formation of the nucleus for a reserve army. Profound uneasiness prevails here, and there is great interest in trade and finance."

There are no complaints on an unseasonable midwinter in the weather on the Danube. Russian headquarters of the Russian army near Rostusha is two feet deep; the roads are no longer passable for wagons; sledges for winter use have not been provided; the Quartermaster has not yet received supplies for the army. It is reported that the bridges will be broken by ice, completely interrupting the movement of food for man and beast.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

A cable from London says that Capt. Wiggins, an Englishman, just returned from the Jeniol and Ol rivers, in Siberia, reports that he saw no Russian troops, but that there is an open sea all the way. He reports that there is an immense commerce into Siberia from China. Capt. Wiggins, with his schooner of forty tons' burden, sailed from the capital of Siberia to St. Petersburg and anchored before the Winter Palace, where he was received by the Imperial family, and by great crowds of people. Steps are to be taken to organize a line of trading steamers, and thus open to the world the marvelous timber, grain and mineral resources of Siberia. Seven tons of gold were taken from one mine, and a ton of silver, and to that from California is sold at $15 a ton. Beef is one cent a pound. There are telegraphs everywhere, and the large cities and Russia exhibit the great spirit of enterprise that has been carried into the country.

The reconstruction of the internal administration proceeds apace in France, under the auspices of the new Ministry. The reinstatement of all the municipal councils dismissed since the 16th of May has been ordered; prosecutions for press and publication offences have been dismissed, and the triumphant republicans are gathering the spoils of victory in all directions.

The latest advices from Havana point to the conclusion that the revolution which has been going on in Cuba for the past nine years is gradually disintegrating. Bands of insurgents numbering from twenty-five to seventy are still murdering, and it was reported that many of the captured Provisional Government funds find itself without a follower.

Sonora, which has always a disturbance of some kind on hand, is enjoying an Indian war at present. A few days ago an Indian of Sonora was attacked and killed. Twenty-seven of the attacking force were killed, and the Indians went on with their cattle-stealing just as if nothing had happened.

The people of Alaska and Lorraine are petitioning the German Government to remove the military government that was placed over them at the conclusion of the Franco-German war, and for restoration of the civil authority. The Panama Star and Herald of a late date says: "A rebellion broke out at Puerbla, Arenas. The rebels, after cruelly assaulting the Captain of the garrison, set fire to the building, including the hospital, with all the patients in it, and killed a number of the men, and robbed all the commercial stores. In the confusion they were killing each other, and the houses composing the colony only half remain standing. The total number killed was forty, with fourteen wounded."

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

DOMESTIC INTELLIGENCE.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

JAS W. McEWEEN, Editor.

VOLUME.

RENSSELAER, JASPER COUNTY, INDIANA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 4, 1878.

$1.50 per Annum.

NUMBER 47.

Anything from a Dog-ear to a Prime-Letter, or a Pamphlet to a Poster, blank or colored, plain or fancy.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

the arrest of three New York brokers, Joel N. Hayes, Ferdinand Hertog and Wm. Muir.

Cornelius Hertog, of Boston, Mass., threw a lighted kerchief at Mrs. Mary L. McKean, setting her clothes on fire, and she rushed to death. Tobin was arrested.

Robert P. Parrott, the inventor of the Parrott gun, died at Cold Spring, N. Y., last week. Netter & Co., bankers in New York, have failed for $200,000.

W. H. Roberts' building, at Rondont, N. Y., was burned the other night, and his wife and daughter and James Brophy perished in the flames.

Charles E. Johnson, son of wealthy parents, and a nephew of Henry Ward Beecher, shot and seriously wounded his cousin in Brooklyn, N. Y., last week. Johnson's wife had left him on account of his violent temper, and for this reason he attempted to murder her.

A receiver has been appointed for the People's Savings Bank, of New York City. Geo. George W. McKee, the famous McKee family, died in New York last week.

Seven vessels and thirty-seven men were lost by the Gloucester fishing fleet the past season. West.

They have a summary way of dealing with house-dogs in New York. Five of the dogs were taken from the jail in Bakersfield, Kern county, Cal., the other night, by a body of indignant citizens, carried into the District Court room, tried before a regularly-impaneled jury, convicted and hung.

McCook family, died in New York last week. Another change has been made in the Turkish Cabinet, Said Pasha becoming Minister of Marine and Raoud Pasha of War.

The British Minister, Layard, has spoken unofficially in London, and has said that the Turks "at England will aid them, and they are fast regaining courage. Their depleted paper currency has taken a sudden rise.

The following words are attributed to the Ozar in reply to a denunciation headed by Prince Gortchakoff: "I am not a man of war, but I am a man of peace. I will not consent to mediation, and am armed against intervention."

A St. Petersburg Journal says the Porte's request for mediation will be declined, because, according to international law, mediation is only possible when solicited by both belligerents. Otherwise mediation becomes intervention.

It is rumored that Osman Pasha, the commander-in-chief at Plevna, is to be tried by a Russian military court for the slaughter of the wounded. Several engagements of the past summer.

There seems little doubt that England has consented to accept the office of peacemaker, and will undertake to bring about an adjustment between Russia and Turkey. The announcement is made by the British Government has acceded to Turkey's request, and will try what can be done toward peace.

Reinforcements ordered for the Russian army exceed 250,000 men. The Army of the Danube, numbering 90,000 men, is also being formed. Russia has bought 200,000 rifles in Berlin.

A London dispatch of Dec. 29 says: "I am informed, on good authority, that in English military circles war is considered almost inevitable. Arrangements are completed and regiments called for an army of 80,000 men, and steps are already taking toward the formation of the nucleus for a reserve army. Profound uneasiness prevails here, and there is great interest in trade and finance."

There are no complaints on an unseasonable midwinter in the weather on the Danube. Russian headquarters of the Russian army near Rostusha is two feet deep; the roads are no longer passable for wagons; sledges for winter use have not been provided; the Quartermaster has not yet received supplies for the army. It is reported that the bridges will be broken by ice, completely interrupting the movement of food for man and beast.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

A cable from London says that Capt. Wiggins, an Englishman, just returned from the Jeniol and Ol rivers, in Siberia, reports that he saw no Russian troops, but that there is an open sea all the way. He reports that there is an immense commerce into Siberia from China. Capt. Wiggins, with his schooner of forty tons' burden, sailed from the capital of Siberia to St. Petersburg and anchored before the Winter Palace, where he was received by the Imperial family, and by great crowds of people. Steps are to be taken to organize a line of trading steamers, and thus open to the world the marvelous timber, grain and mineral resources of Siberia. Seven tons of gold were taken from one mine, and a ton of silver, and to that from California is sold at $15 a ton. Beef is one cent a pound. There are telegraphs everywhere, and the large cities and Russia exhibit the great spirit of enterprise that has been carried into the country.

The reconstruction of the internal administration proceeds apace in France, under the auspices of the new Ministry. The reinstatement of all the municipal councils dismissed since the 16th of May has been ordered; prosecutions for press and publication offences have been dismissed, and the triumphant republicans are gathering the spoils of victory in all directions.

The latest advices from Havana point to the conclusion that the revolution which has been going on in Cuba for the past nine years is gradually disintegrating. Bands of insurgents numbering from twenty-five to seventy are still murdering, and it was reported that many of the captured Provisional Government funds find itself without a follower.

Sonora, which has always a disturbance of some kind on hand, is enjoying an Indian war at present. A few days ago an Indian of Sonora was attacked and killed. Twenty-seven of the attacking force were killed, and the Indians went on with their cattle-stealing just as if nothing had happened.

The people of Alaska and Lorraine are petitioning the German Government to remove the military government that was placed over them at the conclusion of the Franco-German war, and for restoration of the civil authority. The Panama Star and Herald of a late date says: "A rebellion broke out at Puerbla, Arenas. The rebels, after cruelly assaulting the Captain of the garrison, set fire to the building, including the hospital, with all the patients in it, and killed a number of the men, and robbed all the commercial stores. In the confusion they were killing each other, and the houses composing the colony only half remain standing. The total number killed was forty, with fourteen wounded."

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

DOMESTIC INTELLIGENCE.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

is shocking to record that, out of ninety-one bodies found, about twenty of whom were officers, not a single trinket such as would be deemed a relic by relatives of the dead was found on the bodies.

Robert P. Parrott, the inventor of the Parrott gun, died at Cold Spring, N. Y., last week. Netter & Co., bankers in New York, have failed for $200,000.

W. H. Roberts' building, at Rondont, N. Y., was burned the other night, and his wife and daughter and James Brophy perished in the flames.

Charles E. Johnson, son of wealthy parents, and a nephew of Henry Ward Beecher, shot and seriously wounded his cousin in Brooklyn, N. Y., last week. Johnson's wife had left him on account of his violent temper, and for this reason he attempted to murder her.

A receiver has been appointed for the People's Savings Bank, of New York City. Geo. George W. McKee, the famous McKee family, died in New York last week.

Seven vessels and thirty-seven men were lost by the Gloucester fishing fleet the past season. West.

They have a summary way of dealing with house-dogs in New York. Five of the dogs were taken from the jail in Bakersfield, Kern county, Cal., the other night, by a body of indignant citizens, carried into the District Court room, tried before a regularly-impaneled jury, convicted and hung.

McCook family, died in New York last week. Another change has been made in the Turkish Cabinet, Said Pasha becoming Minister of Marine and Raoud Pasha of War.

The British Minister, Layard, has spoken unofficially in London, and has said that the Turks "at England will aid them, and they are fast regaining courage. Their depleted paper currency has taken a sudden rise.

The following words are attributed to the Ozar in reply to a denunciation headed by Prince Gortchakoff: "I am not a man of war, but I am a man of peace. I will not consent to mediation, and am armed against intervention."

A St. Petersburg Journal says the Porte's request for mediation will be declined, because, according to international law, mediation is only possible when solicited by both belligerents. Otherwise mediation becomes intervention.

It is rumored that Osman Pasha, the commander-in-chief at Plevna, is to be tried by a Russian military court for the slaughter of the wounded. Several engagements of the past summer.

There seems little doubt that England has consented to accept the office of peacemaker, and will undertake to bring about an adjustment between Russia and Turkey. The announcement is made by the British Government has acceded to Turkey's request, and will try what can be done toward peace.

Reinforcements ordered for the Russian army exceed 250,000 men. The Army of the Danube, numbering 90,000 men, is also being formed. Russia has bought 200,000 rifles in Berlin.

A London dispatch of Dec. 29 says: "I am informed, on good authority, that in English military circles war is considered almost inevitable. Arrangements are completed and regiments called for an army of 80,000 men, and steps are already taking toward the formation of the nucleus for a reserve army. Profound uneasiness prevails here, and there is great interest in trade and finance."

There are no complaints on an unseasonable midwinter in the weather on the Danube. Russian headquarters of the Russian army near Rostusha is two feet deep; the roads are no longer passable for wagons; sledges for winter use have not been provided; the Quartermaster has not yet received supplies for the army. It is reported that the bridges will be broken by ice, completely interrupting the movement of food for man and beast.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

A cable from London says that Capt. Wiggins, an Englishman, just returned from the Jeniol and Ol rivers, in Siberia, reports that he saw no Russian troops, but that there is an open sea all the way. He reports that there is an immense commerce into Siberia from China. Capt. Wiggins, with his schooner of forty tons' burden, sailed from the capital of Siberia to St. Petersburg and anchored before the Winter Palace, where he was received by the Imperial family, and by great crowds of people. Steps are to be taken to organize a line of trading steamers, and thus open to the world the marvelous timber, grain and mineral resources of Siberia. Seven tons of gold were taken from one mine, and a ton of silver, and to that from California is sold at $15 a ton. Beef is one cent a pound. There are telegraphs everywhere, and the large cities and Russia exhibit the great spirit of enterprise that has been carried into the country.

The reconstruction of the internal administration proceeds apace in France, under the auspices of the new Ministry. The reinstatement of all the municipal councils dismissed since the 16th of May has been ordered; prosecutions for press and publication offences have been dismissed, and the triumphant republicans are gathering the spoils of victory in all directions.

The latest advices from Havana point to the conclusion that the revolution which has been going on in Cuba for the past nine years is gradually disintegrating. Bands of insurgents numbering from twenty-five to seventy are still murdering, and it was reported that many of the captured Provisional Government funds find itself without a follower.

Sonora, which has always a disturbance of some kind on hand, is enjoying an Indian war at present. A few days ago an Indian of Sonora was attacked and killed. Twenty-seven of the attacking force were killed, and the Indians went on with their cattle-stealing just as if nothing had happened.

The people of Alaska and Lorraine are petitioning the German Government to remove the military government that was placed over them at the conclusion of the Franco-German war, and for restoration of the civil authority. The Panama Star and Herald of a late date says: "A rebellion broke out at Puerbla, Arenas. The rebels, after cruelly assaulting the Captain of the garrison, set fire to the building, including the hospital, with all the patients in it, and killed a number of the men, and robbed all the commercial stores. In the confusion they were killing each other, and the houses composing the colony only half remain standing. The total number killed was forty, with fourteen wounded."

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

DOMESTIC INTELLIGENCE.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

Don Carlos has been expelled from France.

THE SAN ELIZARIO AFFAIR.

Why Judge Howard and His Companions Were Shot.

(Austin Tex. Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.) Maj. John B. Jones, commanding general of the Texas Rangers, was called upon by the Texas correspondent of the Globe-Democrat for the purpose of an interview on the border troubles, which was cheerfully acceded to.

"I would like to be informed somewhat about the features of the country round about El Paso, so often of late mentioned in the dispatches," remarked the Globe-Democrat correspondent.

"The El Paso on the Texas side of the Rio Grande, beginning with the Rio Franklin, to distinguish it from El Paso on the Mexican side, is a small village inhabited almost altogether by Mexicans. There are but few Americans in it. It is not the capital of El Paso county, as is the idea generally entertained.

"Cor.—What, then, is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

"Cor.—What is the county-seat? Maj. Jones.—It is a little place—a mere hamlet—called El Paso. It is twenty miles from the Rio Franklin. This is the capital. Then again, further down the river, is Socorro, containing some 350 inhabitants, all Mexicans, with the exception of a few Americans.

valor, nor altogether from want of good generality, but mainly from lack of preparation. —J. W. Forest, in Harper's Magazine for January.

CHEAP TELEGRAPHY.

A New Company Organized—The Capital Placed at Ten Millions.

(From the Philadelphia Times.) A new telegraph company, with the title of Continental, and with a capital of $10,000,000, divided into shares of $25 each, and having for its avowed object the reduction of telegraph rates, has filed articles of incorporation with the County Clerk of New York city. A number of prominent Philadelphia capitalists are moving actively in the organization of the new concern.

"The capitalists having the matter in charge claim, and back their argument by forming the company, that a perfect system of fac-simile or autographic telegraphy would be the best and the cheapest, and that the message in the original handwriting of the sender, making a more accurate and reliable transmission, also a much more expeditious one, than is possible under the present system."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."

"The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter. The company is organized with the object of showing the world that the telegraph is not a monopoly, and that the public have a right to be heard in the matter."