No Hope for Congressman Smalls. (Washington Post.)

There is no hope for Congressman Smalls. He can not escape a three years term in the state prison of South Carolina except through the clemency of Governor Hampton, and there is no reason to suppose such clemency will be extended, for the circumstances of his case will not justify it. On the 11th day of November, 1877, he was convicted of taking a bribe, and his sentence was pronounced. He appealed to the supreme court, and the appeal has now been dismissed. Mr. Smalls is, therefore, liable at any hour to be sent to the state prison to his home to enter upon his penitence. For the past year he has been visiting with the republican party in Hampton. He was the candidate of that party at the late election, and is the subject of a portion of Mr. Hayes' message. He has been held up to the country as a political martyr. He is simply a vulgar criminal.

We were exposed last week to a pitiless storm, that wet our feet and stockings, and indeed our person all over. In fact we took a cracking cold, which brought sore throat and severe symptoms of fever. The good wife asserted her authority, plunged our feet in hot water, wrapped us in hot blankets, and sent our faithful son for a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. I is a splendid medicine—pleasant to take, and did the job. We slept soundly through the night and awoke well the next morning. We know we owe our quick recovery to the Pectoral, and shall not hesitate to recommend it to all who need such a medicine—Tehuacana (Texas) Presbyterian.

The Romance of Arithmetic.

"The most romantic of all numbers," says a writer in Chambers' Journal, "is the figure nine, because it can be multiplied away, or got rid of in any way. Whatever you do, it is as sure to turn up again as the baby of Eugene Aram's victim. One remarkable property of this figure (said to have been discovered by W. Green, in about 1754,) is, that all through the multiplication table the product of nine comes to nine. Multiply by what you like and it gives the same result. Begin with twice nine 18; add the digits together, and 1 and 8 make 9. Three times 9 are 27; and 2 and 7 make 9. So it goes on up to eleven times nine, which 99. Very good; and the digits; 9 and 9 are 18, and 1 and 8 are 9. Going to any extent it is impossible to get rid of the figure 9. Take a couple of instances at random. Three hundred and thirty-nine times nine are 3,051; add up the figures and they give 9. Five thousand and seventy-one times nine are 45,339; the sum of those digits is 27; and 2 and 7 are 9. M. de Maivan found out another very queer thing about this number, namely that if you take any row of figures, and reversing their order, make a subtraction in sum of it, the total is sure to make 9."

Referring to the purposes of the Potter Committee, the Washington Post says:

"The Committee will go for the bottom facts, and Mr. Hayes himself will be invited to take the stand, and tell the country what connection he had with the outrageous frauds that were perpetrated in his interest. He will be asked to explain certain checks signed by himself when Governor of Ohio, and on which money to aid in carrying out the Radical scheme was drawn. In order to refresh his memory the Committee will show him the original checks. The president will be given an opportunity to inform a patient people how he came to give away one of the returning board rascals and the thieves who helped them. In the campaign of 1876, John Sherman, candidate of the Republican party, and certain members of the syndicate ring will be called upon to tell what use was made of certain large sums of money which were spent in the campaign of 1876.
