

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1879.

Read extracts from speeches of Messrs. Pendleton and Thurman, on first page.

A new postoffice in Johnson town ship, Brown county, this State, is called Peter Cooper.

While on his exhibition tour multitudes of the zealous think they see in Hayes a veritable live president, while, as a matter of fact they are gazing upon an actual fraud.

Jap. H. Keyes, Esq., has assumed management of the Monticello Democrat. He is a good writer, a sound Democrat, and we may expect effective work from it, in the interests of Democracy and the country.

The radical party just now want considerable hell raised in the South. Something to give life and vigor to the Sherman boom in Ohio. And by the way, let all be prepared to read and hear of terrible and bloody deeds, from now until after the October election, transpiring in the South.

The "reliable" Standard and the Independent, kind of slippery Union are both after the reported defection of Baskirk. As their own Denny, whose defection is of the same nature, and the largest, should come first, we suggest that they be honest with their readers. Show 'em both up.

Gully, tried for the Chisholm murder, was acquitted, whereat a terrible howl goes up from the radical camp. But Col. Stewart E. Woodford, radical prosecutor, takes the wind from their sails completely, in his statement that the trial was fair in every particular, and the accused very properly set free.

A prominent and wealthy radical the other day remarked that but for the European demand for the American crop, wheat would sell to-day in Jasper county at 25 cents per bushel. That radical, although a gold-fid, don't seem to attribute any prosperity that may exist to John Sherman's financial policy.

George Waggoner, a ninety-three year old pioneer, left his home in Brown county, this State, Tuesday morning, on foot, determined to accomplish the feat of walking to Indianapolis, where he will attend the Old Pioneer Association. He was professed free transportation, but accepted the ticket only as a means of getting back home.

Leviastown (Pa.) Democratic Sentinel: Imagine yourself quietly regarding your mail on your morning meal all unconscious that the roof under which it is spread is on fire. That was the experience of Hon. J. B. Belford and his family at Denver on the morning of the 3d ult., when the firemen rushed into their presence with the appalling announcement. Of course they stood not upon the order of getting out and giving place to the firemen. The house with the mass of its contents were eaten up by the fire.

Delphi Times: The many Carroll county friends of Hon. David Turpie will be pleased to learn that he is being favorably considered as the candidate for Congress by the Democracy of the Indianapolis District. And the many friends of Judge Turpie, in this his old district, would be highly pleased to have him receive the nomination for Congress at the hands of the Democracy of the Indianapolis District. They remember with pride and satisfaction his former canvasses in this district, and the manner in which he danced Snelling Credit Mobilier Colfax over the course.

In the late Colorado radical Convention "Congressman Belford offered a resolution—"That if on General Grant's return he should decide to become a candidate for the republican nomination for the presidency, that Colorado pledge to him her vote and voice in the convention." A few years ago Belford was removed from a judgeship by Grant, at the instigation of Col. Fred Grant, Fred's daddy-in-law, and Gen. Senator Logan, whose influence to that end, as was charged at the time, and never, so far as we know, disproved, was enlisted by gift to them of a large sum of money. And now we see the representative of the rising new State get down and lick the hand which struck the blow at his reputation and aspirations.

Rev. Hope B. Miller was elected Moral Instructor of the Northern Penitentiary by the Directors, at the same meeting the other officers were selected. Mr. Miller is sure of a large audience each service for the next two years. A detestable preacher preaching to a democratic audience is right and proper enough—Calkins' Postmaster.

Modest very!!!—for a retiring luminary! Of all the members of the Prison North, whom we have known—four in number—every one of them was of the same political household of faith as Bro. James, and one of them, (Syl. Wiley), if we mistake not, was an employee in a radical newspaper office in this place, at one time. They were not all, probably, strictly politically reliable, but they were equally as much so as the author of the above choice production, judging from his party affiliations within the past six years. A negro, Bill Cooper, was the first of them all. He was for Grant first, last and all the time, and to day is an unflinching third term. But, we do not claim this showing should fix responsibility for the conduct of these men upon the radical party—unless, indeed, they hold the theory advanced by the counsel as correct. In that case, we are satisfied the Democracy would not suffer from an investigation into the political preferences of the inmates of that institution.

A radical exchange contains the following announcement:

If Northern Democrats understood fully Southern Democratic methods they will vote the Republican ticket. A committee has therefore got possession of many documents on this subject, including a lot of Capt. Wells' books on the Chisholm massacre and life in Mississippi, which will be sent to any address, postage paid, on receipt of 50 cents (half price) by the Secretary J. W. Bartlett. It is a fine campaign document.—Special from Wash.

But then Northern Democrats will not be deceived and misled by the manufactured literature of radical adventurers, carpet-baggers and tricksters. Radical ascendancy has cost the country so much in blood and treasure; its rule produced so much misery and woe; to the masses that the people will not soon again be tricked by the knaves, thieves and frauds in power. Possibly "Secretary J. W. Bartlett" may be inundated with orders from the radical committees all over the land for his "half-price" goods, and the literature so broadcast in a lavish degree—the people will consider the source of emanation, the characters of those employed, the objects sought to be accomplished, and no evil effects will result from the traffic. "Secretary J. W. Bartlett," "Capt. Wells" & Co., will no doubt reap a rich harvest in the sales of their "half-price" literature, and in that they will be content and satisfied.

The Republicans in Ohio have introduced the shot gun policy into the campaign in that State, and like the way it works remarkably well. At Kenton, on the 24th ult., A. J. Davidson, a colored Democrat, from Athens county, while making a speech was interrupted by a "mob of colored people, who had organized in a corn field near by, armed with corn cutters, stones clubs, etc., came down on the meeting with a sweep, and yelling 'that no damned Democratic nigger could make a speech around there.' Dr. Goodlove, Democratic candidate for senator from this district, backed by others, stepped before the mob, and with drawn revolver said he would shoot the first man who again interrupted the meeting. The crowd thereupon quieted down somewhat, and the speaking proceeded amid mutterings and black scowls from the mobites. At the close of the meeting the crowd again made for the speaker, and he would have fared badly at their hands but for the intervention of Dr. Goodlove and party, who, with revolvers, escorted the speaker to a carriage and thence to a place of safety." A special to the Cincinnati Enquirer, from which we take the account, adds that "the Republican central committee claim to be much pleased over this dastardly act of mob violence, saying it shows that the old patriotic war spirit is again coming upon the people." Nothing worse than this Ohio bulldozing can be found in Southern campaigns.

National Banks in the Ohio Campaign

It will be remembered by the readers of the Sentinel that early in the month of September last there was a convention of bankers held at Saratoga, N. Y. It was in all regards a notable event. It was the money power of the country in council. While all banks were requested to send representatives, the National banks were the organizers and controllers of the movement, and the great purpose of the most important speakers, in so far as the public could discover, was to eulogize the National banking system; but the real purpose of that convention evidently was to perfect plans for using money to corrupt the elections to follow during the fall months. It was a bold and infamous purpose to throttle the liberties of the people, and to bring legislation under the control of the money power. The facts in the case were brought into the boldest prominence by General Ewing in his speech at Warren, O., on the 23d ult. We copy the following from the telegraphic report to the Cincinnati Enquirer:

In the course of his speech General Ewing said: I have said, my fellow citizens, that the contest this year in Ohio is a hand-to-hand fight for the rule of the dollar against the rule of the dollar and the bayonet. In no struggle in one State heretofore has the influence and power of money been so openly and audaciously asserted. Heretofore the money power has fought under cover; now it comes up into the field. I had in my hand the proceedings of the American Bankers' association, held at Saratoga on the 6th, 7th and 8th of last month, before which association the comptroller of the currency made an address favoring all its objects, and before which Mr. Sherman was only prevented from appearing by the pressure of official engagements. The leading purpose of the association as declared in this report, are to "abolish the short weight dollars," which means the abolition of all our contracts, public and private, and to "separate the issue of paper money from partisan politics," which means to destroy all the greenbacks and commit the whole control of the paper currency to the National banks; and also to relieve the banks from taxation; and also to prevent the enactment of what the association calls the "old and odious income tax." On the day after the adjournment of the annual convention referred to, a circular was issued "to the banks and bankers of Ohio," a duplicate of which was handed to me by an officer of a National bank who is a sound Democrat, and is not in favor of the banks thrusting themselves into the arena of politics. I read the original circular, which is as follows:

THE AMERICAN BANKERS' ASS'N.
No. 247 Broadway, Room No. 4,
NEW YORK, Aug. 9, 1879.
TO THE BANKS AND BANKERS OF OHIO
As members of the executive council of the American Bankers' association, we desire to state that SPECIAL MEASURES WILL BE TAKEN TO FORWARD OUR INTERESTS IN OHIO. It is desirable that all banks and bankers become members of the association FOR THIS YEAR AT LEAST.

Yours truly,
Wm. J. Deshler,
President National Exchange Bank,
Columbus, O.

A. H. Moss,
President First National Bank, Sandusky, O. [A 204.]

Here we have a bold attempt at a corrupted movement to these powerful institutions, created by public law and subsidized from the National treasury, to elect the Republican and defeat the Democratic ticket in Ohio. Why? Only because the election of Mr. Foster this year will probably secure the election of a National bank candidate for the presidency in 1880, and fasten on the country the declared policy of the associated banks to destroy the greenbacks and the silver dollar and bank taxation.

Let the National banks beware. If they push on this combination for the corrupt use of the power of bribing, or persuading, or menacing voters, they will find that their own roof-tree will not stand the firmer for that. They will find that there is enough of courage and public virtue in the masses to execute the Seitz law against even the wealthiest and most powerful of its violators; and they will find, too, that this combination to bring their power openly to bear upon Ohio politics, will arouse an spirit of resistance among the masses that they will demonstrate to them that they would have stood a better chance of success if they had remained concealed under the cover of the Republican party, instead of thus openly appearing as the instigators of corruption, the violators of law, and the purse-holders and pronounced allies of that party.

Such an arraignment, supported as it is by documentary evidence which challenges contradiction, can not fail to impress the people of Ohio with the gravity of the danger that environs them, and to awaken in the minds of the people generally a deeper concern for the welfare of the country.

—The latest project is to build a narrow gauge road from the mouth of the St. Joe river to Plymouth, Indiana, where it will connect with the Indianapolis, Peru and Chicago road. A large committee of wealthy men in the north part of the state has been appointed to work the enterprise up.—[Indianapolis Journal.]

—Articles of association of the Kentland and Lafayette railroad—a short line running from Kentland, in Newton county, to a point on the C. & L. and C. road between Earl Park and Raub—were filed yesterday with the Secretary of State. The capital stock is $25,000, and the president of the board of directors is J. S. Hatch.—[Indianapolis Journal.]

—There is some talk of building a four-rail track on the Des Moines and Ames division of the Chicago and Northwestern railway. This is done by placing a rail on each side of those now laid, the extra rails forming a standard gauge track. By this means a narrow gauge engine could haul a train of wide gauge and narrow gauge cars, or a broad gauge engine do the same thing.—[Indianapolis Journal.]

—There is an exhibition at Peck's store the largest pumpkin ever grown in this section of the country. It measures about 5 feet in circumference and weighs about 95 pounds. The same was grown by Luke Ford and presented to D. W. Peck, who after keeping it on exhibition for a few days, will remove it to his dwelling, have a door cut in it and use it for a coal house during the coming winter.—[Remington Reporter.]

—Negotiations are pending looking to the purchase of the partially completed Plymouth, Kanakake and Pacific road by the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago railway management. Before the panic struck this country the road was graded but no iron laid. The organization which commenced this work is still in existence. The line is quite an important one, being about 100 miles in length, and running through a country which is sadly in need of railroad facilities, and if completed would doubtless be a valuable feeder to the P., F. W. and C. road.—[Indianapolis Journal.]

Warsaw Union: If there is one individual upon this earth who ought to preserve golden silence, that individual is B. B. Hayes. He must be more cheek than a government mule to pack himself over the country for an exhibition. He knows that 99 out of every 100 citizens whom he addresses either publicly or privately know that he occupies the presidential chair without law or any other process except perjury.

A number of the Republican papers of the State seem to favor the nomination of Godlove S. Orth for Governor. Why? He has all the good of a Republican—about the same that Colfax has. They are tarred with the same stick, and either would make an appropriate candidate for the Returning Board party.—LaPorte Argus.

Very innocently an Irish newspaper concludes its account of an imposing ceremony: "The procession was very fine, being nearly two miles long, as was also the prayer of the Rev. Mr. McFadden."

Rural etiquette—Guest: "Don't you know any better than to walk into my room without rapping; you see I am all undressed!" Servant: "Oh you needn't excuse yourself, mum; I don't mind."

"Woman is a delusion, madam," exclaimed a crusty old bachelor to a witty young lady. "And man is always hugging some delusion or other," was the quick retort.

A faithful brother in a Fairchild (Conn.) church recently prayed for the absent members "who were prostrated on beds of sickness and chairs of wellness."

A monarch of the size—the sherriff.

To Dolly Zimmerman.

'Tis sweet to die at the end of a life
'Tis sweet to spend our duty days;
'Tis sweet to be free from mortal strife
When the hands of our lives are near;
But, oh! to be called in the midst of morn
When with life's earliest dew;
To gild up the bud of bright promise born,
Is the saddest the soul ever knew.

A rattle wing in the golden hall,
Like the sound of the glad new year,
Bustles o'er the heavenly wall,
And a sweet, and voice we hear,
"There is a gate at a distant shrine
All studded with pearl and gold;
There is a lamp on the portal stair,
To light little 'DOLLY,' we're told."

"And clad in the robes of an angel bright,
She's watching the distant day,
And when the death-bell tolls life's gathering night,
She'll wave her bright hand down the way."
J. L. MAKER.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION.

Poultrymen and pet stock fanciers, without regard to name or location, are earnestly solicited to meet with us on the fair grounds at Rensselaer, Indiana, on Thursday, the 9th instant, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of organizing a poultry association. Objects, a systematic breeding of high class poultry, and the introduction of improved breeds of fowls. Amateurs, professional breeders and all, or intending to become, interested in improved poultry or pet stock are invited to meet with us.

—It is the intention of the "Irving Club," a literary society organized here last winter, to inaugurate a course of entertainments to be given in Rensselaer during the coming season. Persons of ability and note will be engaged to deliver lectures on subjects of interest, and thoroughly competent artists secured for concerts, etc. In order to meet the expenses of the enterprise, the price of single ticket will be fixed at 50 cents, while season and family tickets can be procured at reduced rates. The hearty support of the entire community should be given, that our comparatively isolated town may reap the benefits of this pleasant addition to its means of amusement and instruction. Announcements will be duly made.

—A marriage license was issued September 26th to Millard P. Kaessner and Anna J. Lamson.

—Mr. William Tribby, of Remington, was in town Thursday.

Fair next Tuesday.

Have you paid for this paper?

Excursion rates on the Narrow Gauge during the Fair.

Charley Clifton has rented the farm of Eld. H. B. Miller.

The family of S. Bass removed, Tuesday, to Lafayette.

Mose Tuteur will occupy the Ira Yeoman property on Front street.

Rensselaer will soon have telegraphic communication.

Will Seare is engaged at the Drug Store of Willis J. Ives.

Pidgeon and glass ball shooting at the Fair.

David J. Thompson, Esq., left Tuesday last on a visit to friends in Ohio.

Eld. H. B. Miller, Moral Instructor elect, left for his new field of labor Tuesday last.

S. O. Duval and family, of Mokence, Ill., are visiting Rensselaer friends.

The mother of Cash Hopkins, Saturday last, slipped and fell, receiving severe injuries.

Tom McCoy Marsh Rhodes, Joe Sharp and others are trailing along the Kanakakee.

George Cole the other day stepped on a piece of a broken glass ball and cut his foot severely.

Nearly 1000 pamphlet copies of the Premium List for the Jasper County Fair have been sent out.

Wheat was elevated yesterday, for the first time by the new elevator.—Cotton is paying $1 per bushel.

S. W. Dudgeon and Col. Hooley, of Goodland, visited our town Wednesday.

LOGANSPOUT RACES.—GOV. HAMPTON, the fine horse kept at this place last season by C. C. Starr, owned by Jep. Crouch, of Monticello, took first money in the trotting race at Logansport. He easily won three straight heats.—Mr. Hull, his driver, has taken him and the celebrated pacer, "Sleepy John," to Ohio, to make a fall circuit. Stock raisers in this section should encourage the owner of "Governor Hampton" to return him to this point next spring, as he certainly will improve the stock.

We understand that during the Fair a number of our poultry fanciers will organize a poultry association.

E. R. Pierce, Principal of the Institute of Penmanship, has constructed a handsome and unique sign for Doc. Wirt, Dentist.

Mose Tuteur and wife returned on Monday evening from Chicago. The Rensselaer Cornet Band gave them a handsome serenade.

Hon. R. S. Diggins, Norman Warner and Berry Paris, accompanied by their wives, left Tuesday morning to attend the State Fair, at Indianapolis.

DICK TAYLOR, the Blue-Bull Stallion owned by J. H. McCollum, will be on hand at the Fair next week. He has taken the ribbons wherever he has been shown.

Our old time friend, Harry Chamberlain, of White county, visited his brother John, at this place, the first of the week, and gave us a call Monday evening.

Mordecai F. Chilcote, Esq., of this place, started to-day for Des Moines, Iowa, on legal business. He will be absent until about Wednesday of next week.

During the continuance of the Fair we trust that all those in attendance, knowing themselves to be in arrears for the SENTINEL, will call and settle. The respective amounts are small, but in the aggregate is considerable to us.

NOTICE.—All persons indebted to the late firm of Shindler & Roberts will please call at once and adjust, as all accounts remaining unpaid on the 15th day of Oct. 1879, will be placed in judgments. ELZA I. PHILLIPS.

Prime fresh Oysters at Spencer & Legg's. They dish them up in any style desired, or will sell them by the can. Parties supplied on short notice and at reasonable rates. Give them a call.

W. F. Reynolds, of LaFayette, was in Rensselaer yesterday. We understand he has in contemplation the building of a branch from his New Albany road at Francesville, through this place to some point west.

On Tuesday morning last Drs. Jas. and Samuel W. Ritchey, Messrs. J. J. Hopkins and wife, Gus. Bingaman, Daniel Diggins, and Samuel Sparling, all over 70 years of age, took the early train to attend the meeting of the Old Pioneers, at Indianapolis.

Joseph Doolittle, who burglarized J. M. Huff's store, at Pilot Grove, in Newton county, last August, of about $40, plead guilty to the charge, last Tuesday, before his honor Judge Hammond, at Kentland, and was sentenced to two years at hard labor in the Northern Prison, at Michigan City.

The grand jury of Newton county, last week, was industriously engaged for two days. A large number of witnesses were examined, and sixteen indictments returned—three for felonies and thirteen for misdemeanors. The last were against one Horace Marshall, for violations of the liquor law. After being tried and found guilty on one, and testing the sufficiency of all the indictments by motions to quash, he plead guilty to the other twelve. The fines and costs in all the cases will amount to near four hundred dollars. He was committed to the county jail until the fines and costs shall be paid or replevied.

We are to be treated to an operatic concert next Thursday evening, under the management of George B. Conwell, who has heretofore done more toward the advancement and utilizing of home talent than any other one individual in this community. The entertainment will consist of Operatic, Musical, Pantomimes, and Duets, prepared and presented by the young people of Rensselaer. Among the leading features will be an operetta, "My New Maid," by Miss Emma Rhodes and Mrs. Ludd Hopkins; on operetta, Profundo Basso, by four persons; an operetta, "The Queerest Courtship"; and the "Two Cousins." The programme will be a full one and choice. It should be well patronized. Proceeds for the benefit of the ladies' degree in masonry.

PENMANSHIP!!!—Thirty lessons at my school, material furnished—$5 00.

The success of my Institute of Penmanship has induced me to hold evening classes in writing this winter. Room over the Narrow Gauge Clothing Store.

Classes on Friday and Saturday evenings.

This is one of the best opportunities to be found to secure a knowledge of this useful and important art. The most careful attention will be paid to CORRECT AND EASY MOVEMENTS in writing. Children will be carefully instructed in plain writing.

ORNAMENTAL PENMANSHIP—30 lessons for $4 00.

Term will begin Friday evening, October 17, 1879, but students may come in at any time.
