

A telegram from the Russian frontier states that the attempt to assassinate the Czar was not unexpected, as the police had received an intimation of the existence of a conspiracy. Several domiciliary visits in search of political criminals were made the night preceding the murder. The Czar was warned not to attend the parade.

All the European Cabinets and the entire European press express profound sorrow for the death of the Czar. The Emperor of Germany is said to be inconsolable. Gladstone, Hartington, and Granville called on the murdered monarch's son-in-law, the Duke of Edinburgh, to express condolence, and President Greely telegraphed his sorrow to St. Petersburg. Messages of condolence were also sent from the other European courts.

A St. Petersburg dispatch of March 14 says: It is now stated that the assassins who killed the Czar drove in an open carriage, and were thus enabled to avoid suspicion, and get close to the imperial sleigh. The bompas, which the murderers threw, and which did the fatal work, exploded with such force as to tear up the entire pavement around the place where they struck and to make a hole four feet deep in the ground. Both the Czar's legs were broken, the lower part of his body severely injured, and were left to hang loosely out of his coat. The assassins were disguised as soldiers.

Borsakov, who threw the first bomb, has been a student for two years at the Mining Academy. The second bomb-thrower has been arrested. He is also a young man. A Cossack and a civilian, who declined to give his name, died from injuries received by the bursting of the bomb. Altogether twenty persons are more or less injured, thirteen of whom are in the hospital. Dr. Dvorchinich, who was among the physicians first summoned to the Czar, immediately fetched the necessary instruments for amputating the legs, as they were held flat at that of Maximilian. An address will be forwarded to Russia asking that aristocracy be tried, and for just such suppression Alexander II. was killed.

At a large meeting of Communists in New York city, presided over by Justice H. Schwab, one of the speakers and the imperial family in Europe must go. In the resolution adopted the American Communists called to re-attack the Czar as they did that of Maximilian.

Julius Schwab, a New York Communist, says the assassination of the Czar of Russia is a warning to such men as Jay Gould and William H. Vanderbilt, who have caused trouble. They are oppressing the people, and for this and for just such suppression Alexander II. was killed.

On a platform near Florence, S. C., celebrated the centennial anniversary of the battle of Guilford by parades and speeches.

East. John Shriever, of Utica, N. Y., shot his wife and then killed himself.

A South Carolina lad named John Carroll, while playing with some friends on a flat rock, in Pickens county, lost his footing and fell 1,200 feet.

Col. A. G. Hodges, of Louisville, Ky., one of the oldest editors and Masons in the South, is dead.

George S. Davidson, once a Lieutenant in Lathan's Confederate battery, who fired the first gun at the battle of Bull Run, died at Etterville, Va., last week.

On the ground of insanity, Capt. Edward R. Ames, of Baltimore, has been adjudged fit for trial. He was found guilty of shooting at M. W. Hodges. The accused is a son of the late Bishop Ames, and was sun-struck while an officer in the army. He has been returned to a private asylum.

On a platform near Florence, S. C., Joseph Biggs was simultaneously killed and buried by lightning. His corpse was only discovered by a portion of his overcoat being left in sight.

Western Texas threatens to secede if the Legislature passes the Temperance and Anti-Railway laws.

The Louisi and New Orleans Transportation Company, exploded near Oscella, Ark. The sun sank immediately, and four of her crew were blown out of their own brains.

A most startling and extensive robbery is reported from New York city. In broad daylight two or more men succeeded in entering a large apartment house filled with people on a quiet street, overrunning the servants with which the house was supplied, and, breaking into the apartments of one of the occupants, carried off bonds, certificates of stock and to the value of nearly $1,000,000.

Aft completely ransacking the rooms in the absence of the occupants, they escaped without detection with their valuable booty, and left absolutely traceless behind them. The victim of this bold and skillful robbery is Mr. Abram Joseph Biggs was simultaneously killed and buried by lightning. His corpse was only discovered by a portion of his overcoat being left in sight.

In an attempt to execute James Black, at Marion, S. C., the rope broke after he had been hoisted ten feet into the air. He was restored to consciousness by means of whisky and hanged as speedily as new hemp would be dropped.

The training stable of J. S. Outfit, in Paris, Ky., was destroyed by fire and several valuable horses burned to death.

A boater in Tyler & Harrold's saw-mill, near Frankfort, Ky., exploded, killing three persons and wounding six.

The revenue officers recently raided the moonshiners on Runnet bog and Shooting creek, and had a lively time of it. A good many shots were exchanged, but nobody was hurt.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

President Garfield has appointed J. Stanley Brown his Private Secretary.

St. Patrick's day was celebrated more quietly than usual this year, both in this country and in Ireland. In the United States it took the form of Land League meetings and parades.

As the request of provision shippers has decided that the law imposing on express companies a tax of 2 per cent. on their gross receipts is unconstitutional.

West.

It now appears that the purchase of the right of way through Bear Butte cannot be made in Chicago next month by a son of the late Dr. John Haskin Griscom, of New York. It is intended to be a scientific test of human endurance, and will be supervised by several medical gentlemen.

The Wisconsin Assembly has passed a bill to make insanity for five years sufficient ground for divorce.

Some mischievous lads at New Bremen, Ohio, blew a school-house into fragments with two kegs of powder.

Brevet Maj. Gen. Emory Upton, of the regular army, shot himself last at Fort Preble, Cal. A letter left by him for an officer expresses fears that his second volume of tactics will prove a failure.

Made insane by liquor, James Tolan entered a hotel parlor at Marine, Minn., and shot his wife through the heart with a Winchester repeating rifle. She sat on a sofa, with an infant in her arms and two other children by her side.

The Cincinnati Price-Current publishes an extended report on the winter-wheat crop, embracing reports from nearly 400 points in the winter-wheat belt. The Price-Current says: "Taking all the evidence into consideration, with an indication of some increase in the acreage, the crop may now be considered generally promising, with a prospect for a yield not much, if any, less than the preceding year."

The spot where the Czar received his fatal injuries has been inclosed and covered with turf, and is guarded by sentries of the regiments of the Emperor Paul.

In the pigeon-shooting match in London, Dr. Carter, the American, was the champion-ship cup and $3,250 in money, defeating Scott by a score of 79 to 74.

The authorities in St. Petersburg have discovered a man who, under the street lighting to the riding schools, where the Czar was returning with his wife, was assassinated. It was intended to blow up the imperial carriage in case the bomb failed to do their work.

One of the first official acts of the new Czar was to grant to Siberian exiles permission to engage in commercial or professional pursuits after three years of good behavior.

The spot where the Czar received his fatal injuries has been inclosed and covered with turf, and is guarded by sentries of the regiments of the Emperor Paul.

In opening the Kerry assizes in Ireland, Justice Fitzgerald said 463 crimes had been reported in the last seven months.

The frequency of sweeping conflagrations in Tokyo, Japan, has compelled the authorities to put in operation a building order similar to the Chicago fire ordinance.

A plot to blow up the Lord Mayor's residence in London has been discovered and frustrated.

The Pope has proclaimed a jubilee to Nov. 1 for Europe, and to the end of the year for the rest of the world.

A St. Petersburg correspondent of one of the London papers says that a measure had already been prepared with the sanction of the late Czar, tending toward representative government.

Since the discovery of the plot to blow up the Lord Mayor's residence, great precautions have been taken for the safety of the Parliament buildings in London. The cellars have been carefully examined, and the police are in and around the buildings reinforced.

It has been decided to remove the Western Reserve College from Hudson, Ohio, to Cleveland. The latter city has raised the funds to purchase a site, and Ames Stone has handed in a half million dollars to aid in the transfer. The institution will take the name of Adelbert College.

The new Czar has authorized the announcement that he will first give his attention to the internal development of the state, and that his foreign policy will be entirely pacific,

The Democratic Sentinel.

JAS. W. McEWEN Editor

VOLUME V.

RENSSELAER, JASPER COUNTY, INDIANA, FRIDAY, MARCH 25, 1881.

$1.50 per Annum.

NUMBER 7.

"A Firm Adherence to Correct Principles."

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year..... $1.00

One copy six months..... 50

One copy three months..... 30

EMP Advertising rates on application.

EMP Advertising rates on application.