

The Democratic Sentinel

OFFICIAL PAPER OF JASPER COUNTY.

FRIDAY, MARCH 3, 1882.

An exchange says: "If there is any bigger a ride toward a Stalwart administration than the appointment of Conkling to the Supreme Bench, it is the appointment of Pinchback Surveyor at New Orleans."

J. V. W. Kirk makes Wedding Dresses a specialty.

On the year ending December 31, 1881, the United States imported diamonds valued at $5,727,000, upon which a duty of 10 per cent was paid, while articles of prime necessity, such as the people generally require, were taxed all the way from 25 to 200 per cent.

J. V. W. Kirk has just returned from Chicago with a nice line of Samples.

B. Frank Dern, who has been with his brother Dr. Dern in the grocery business for the past year has gone to Rensselaer and will engage in the grocery business with two of his brothers. Success.—Brookston Reporter.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says: "For the first time since the War there is a fixed purpose on the part of Republican leaders to make a 'square stand up right' in the South." Not at all. They contemplate no "square stand up right" anywhere. They are entirely incapable of making such a fight in the North or South, East or West.

If you want a pair of Kid Gloves, call on J. V. W. Kirk.

Mr. Edgar E. Erwin and wife were yesterday the guests of the Misses Hulda and Eupha Miller. Mr. E. is one of the promising young men of Rensselaer, and they were on their return from Michigan where they had gone to be married, being unable to get a license in this State on account of the youthfulness of the bride.—Michigan City Dispatch.

J. V. W. Kirk takes great pleasure in getting anything a lady wants in the line of Dress trimmings.

The Republican party was routed entirely at the recent election in Philadelphia, ten democrats and two republicans being sent to the common council, and twenty-three democrats and eighteen republicans to the select council. This is a sign of no ordinary import. The vote of Philadelphia alone has kept Pennsylvania in the Republican line; outside of that of corruptest of corrupt cities the democrats have a clear majority of fifteen thousand.

Much is heard of the demand for civil service reform, and the necessity for reformation in the military branch of the government is liable to be overlooked. A few days since General Meigs was retired by order of the President, on account of age, he having passed the allotted years of sixty-two. One Colonel Rucker, the father-in-law of General Sheridan, was appointed in his place, although he was over seventy. This is but one point in illustration of the system which prevails under a Republican administration.

J. V. W. Kirk is bound to sell Dresses cheaper than ever before.

Gov. Porter, in referring to the radical rally at this place September, 1880, remarked recently to the Republican representative, Mr. Marshall, "that the horse-back demonstration in his honor, given at that time, was the finest affair of the kind he had ever seen." Had he witnessed that on the day following he might have added—"except one." We are inclined to believe, however, as Mrs. Porter was pressed to substantiate the Governor's statement, they both enjoyed the fun of giving our neighbor "taffy."

The following letter was sent to the chairman of the "National Tariff convention" during the session in New York, and a copy placed in the hands of every delegate attending the closing meeting:

The New York Free Trade Club, November 25th 1881.

Hon. Warner Miller, chairman of the National Tariff Convention:

Dear Sir—The New York Free Trade club would respectfully ask the consideration of your honorable body to the following questions and would be most happy to give a wide circulation to the answers you may be pleased to make.

Very respectfully,
Graham M. C. D. M.

Questions.

What is the difference between manufacturers who combine and strike for higher prices for the goods they make, and workmen who combine and strike for higher prices for their services?

Where is the Protectionist who, after demanding and getting government protection, which insures higher prices for the goods he makes, does not consider the workmen, who are compelled to seek the protection of Trade Union to insure him in getting fair pay for his labor?

What is the Protectionist who, except by way of log-rolling—is not a Free-Trader in every thing he wants to buy—a Protectionist only in what he wants to sell?

Are not such business undertakings as claim to be able to exist only through enforced contributions from the community practically pauper concerns?

No answer to date.

The New York Herald remarks that a tariff for protection in the United States to-day, under the pretense that it is in the interest of the working man, is the monumental legislative crime of the century. It is pure downright robbery." "The present tariff extracts from the labor of the country $130,000,000 more than the legitimate expenses of the Government, extravagant as they are." At the result "the doors of the Congress are darkened by a mob of schemers and plunderers devising ways and means to fasten the terrible burden of tariff taxation upon the people and at the same time make way with the proceeds for their own benefit. A full treasury means a rich insolvent, arrogant, corrupt lobby, and that is the spectacle which the Capitol presents to day." Tariff reform is now the supreme demand, and agitation should increase and be continued.

The following preamble and resolutions were adopted by the Anti-Mormon meeting held at the Court House, in this place, on the evening of the 22d ult:

While we recognize the Constitutional doctrine that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof;" and the further doctrine, "that all men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to their own consciences;" and while these are essential principles of Liberty and Free Government, at the same time, it is just as necessary and essential that no man, or set of persons, shall be permitted to violate and override the laws of the country; Therefore,

Resolved, That persons guilty of the crime of Polygamy be punished with the severest penalties known to law.

Resolved, That Congress should enact such laws as will forever erase from the fair fame of our nation the terrible blot of Polygamy.

Resolved, That it is the duty of the Executive and Judicial Departments of the Government to enforce the laws against Polygamy, and bring all offenders thereof to a speedy realization of the truth, that the way of the transgressor is hard.

Resolved, That there has been enough temporizing with this monstrous crime, and we demand of the President of the United States, of Congress, and of Judges and law officers of the Government that it be suppressed at once.

Resolved, That there is a home for the Cincinnati commercial, in referring to the foregoing says that Senator Beck is welcome "personal" and "unpleasant." Well, yes; that does sound rather "personal" and somewhat "unpleasant," at least to us.

Living Witnesses.

The hundreds of hearty, and healthy looking men, women and children, that have been rescued from beds of pain, sickness and well nigh death by Parker's Ginger Tonic are the best evidence in the world of its sterling merit and worth. You will find such in almost every community.

THOUGHTS OF THE PAST.

It is night, and as her mantle calmly settles over me I can hear the patter, patter of the rain-drops as they fall. And still the throbings of my aching heart, But silently it thinks while the tears unbind start.

Yes, my thoughts are roaming backward through a little while-watched existence and the bright church-bells chime, To a dark and shady pathway that I have so often trod. When I went to church with mother to praise and weep.

Oh, those happy days of childhood; my feet were free from shaves, my mind not bad. My soul had not its load of sin, my mind had not its load of sin.

For in my early walks through life, with mother as my guide, Could I not the narrow way for sin's path? Eark and wide!

No more her hand will lead me in the way that I should go. But I know that my heart aches and the tears that now are falling wet the flowers as they grow.

Notice that now is falling wet the flowers as they grow.

Oh, those happy days of childhood; my feet were free from shaves, my mind not bad.

For in my early walks through life, with mother as my guide, Could I not the narrow way for sin's path? Eark and wide!

Yes, my weary brain, my weary heart, My weary mind is ended; I shall not long remain.

And then I shall be loved ones that have just come to me, to me, on earth—my angel mother again.

And be with them forever upon that golden shore.

Jan. 4, 1882. MIGNONETTE.
