

Newspaper Decisions

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered willing to continue their subscription.

2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their subscription, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have notified the publishers, and the papers are sent to the nearest direction, they are held responsible.

4. If subscribers move to other places without notifying the publishers, the papers are sent to the nearest direction, they are held responsible.

5. The courts have decided that "refusing to take periodicals from the office or removing and leaving them uncollected, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud."

6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.

7. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice to the publisher at the end of their term, if they do not wish to continue, and if they otherwise the publisher is authorized to sell it on and the subscribers will be responsible for it as an express notice, with payment of all arrears sent to the publisher.

Kate Field wants men to wear knee breeches and Miss Swishelm wants them to wear no breeches. But we, the two, the masculine sex is beginning to get a little flabbergasted.—Courier-Journal.

"The tariff we have is a protective tariff. What the critics want is a revenue tariff, or free trade. But we all know the country doesn't want that."—New York Tribune.

You are assuming more than you can establish. The tariff that we have represents the rings that grow out of special interests, and is not constructed upon any principle whatever. It is neither for protection nor for revenue fairly, but for the aggrandizement of organizations of business men, who own members of congress, and use them as a part of their stock in trade. Substantially, the tariff as it stands is unscientific, flagrant, shameless and inexcusable discrimination against the many and in favor of a few. The pretense that it is founded on any principle is thoroughly false.—Cincinnati Commercial.

Jake Eaglesbach, has moved into his new rooms, which are handsome and neat. He extends a cordial invitation to his many friends to call.

ANY SUM FROM $500.00 to $10,000 on first mortgage real estate security on five to ten years' time.

FRANK W. BABCOCK.

The Madison Courier (Republican) defines its position on the prohibitory amendment as follows:

We happen to be among those republicans who are "against prohibition, but in favor of submission to the people," etc.

This is the same good Lord, good Devil theory espoused by our neighbor, and the writers of that sheet may rest assured it will be submitted provided a majority of the people are in favor of the amendment and so declare themselves at the next election by sending up a legislature that will pass it. Then the constitution will do the submission. The advocates of the idea expressed by the Courier exhibit a degree of cowardice and fear that if the question of adoption or rejection is to be determined in the election of members to the legislature they may be defeated. They very much desire their followers to go to blind, trust to submission to determine the matter, and on submission divide up. Hon. John M. Butler, of Indianapolis, generally taken as authority, by radicals, says:

"The real question is, are we to elect a legislature that believes enough in these amendments to put them before the people—not whether they are to be submitted, but whether they are fit to be submitted."

Ex-Judge Livingston Howland says:

"It is clearly the theory of the constitution that before an amendment thereto can be submitted to the people it shall pass the ordeal of two legislatures and be by them discussed and acted upon on its merits."
