The Republican platform, in so many words, demands of the next Legislature to pass the amendment and submit them to the people without any reference to the proper exercise of the judgment of that body on the merits of the proposition. Such conduct would be in violation of the sworn duty of the members.

Ah, yes, dear 'Uncle Dick.' It takes brains to make puns. It requires much more brain force to run a newspaper. You cannot do either. It takes brains to run a newspaper. In the interest of the radical 'ring,' and in this you miserably failed, notwithstanding the assistance of others with their '$100 to beat Newsels, by G-d!' The secretaryship referred to, which you in your native modesty decline to accept, requires but a very moderate amount of brain force, and as it will not conflict with any political principles entertained by you, we hope your suggestion will receive favorable consideration.

Remington News: As was expected at the convention last Saturday, Fred Hoover received the nomination for State Senator. That the selection is acceptable to the Democratic party is certainly true, and no better man could be found in the district. The writer has been personally and intimately acquainted with Mr. Hoover for years, and although opposed to him in politics, is proud to number him among trusted and tried friends. He has for years been identified with agricultural and commercial interests of this and Newton counties, knows just what the country needs, and should be the choice of the people to make him one of our legislators, he would undoubtedly consider the good of the country far more important than success of party. The writer is authorized to state that Mr. Hoover is in favor of the submission of all proposed amendments to the people, and if elected will use his entire influence to that end. Those who know him need not be told as to his temperance principles, for he is known as an enemy to intoxicating drinks in all their forms. Here at his home Mr. Hoover will receive much more than the party vote.

The Democracy speak out in their platform. In pronounced, emphatic language they declare opposition to the proposed prohibitory amendments. While, at the same time, they favor submission, if done in accordance with the Constitution, and at a general election, in order that a full vote may be had upon them. Per contra: The Republican platform professes to favor submission even should the amendments not meet the approval or judgment of the next Legislature. That would be contrary to the spirit of the Constitution. The Republican platform recommends submission at a special election, where a full vote would not be had, through fear that if submitted at a general election it might interfere with their success. The platform expresses no judgment for or against the amendments.—In fact, their journals pronounce the charge that they favor prohibition as silly. What cowardice!

PROCEEDINGS OF THE TENTH DISTRICT DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

Pursuant to call, the convention met in the Court House Square at Winamac, on Tuesday, August 22d, 1882, and was called to order, at 1 o'clock p. m., by A. B. Crampton, Esq., chairman of the Democratic Congressional Central Committee. Judge D. D. Dykeman, of Cass county, was elected permanent chairman, and Charles H. Price, of Jasper county, secretary, and all the editors of Democratic papers in the district present. The roll of counties was then called, and all of them were found to be represented.

A committee on Resolutions was appointed, as follows: Lake county, John Lehman. Porter " John Welch. Newton " Thomas Boswell. Jasper " David Gray. Pulaski " Wm. H. Thompson. Fulton " Isiah Conner. Cass " John C. Nelson. Carroll " John C. Odell. Wito " Eli Herman. Benton " Patrick Keefe.

Upon the roll of counties being called, the following gentlemen were placed in nomination: Hon. Thomas J. Wood, of Lake county; Hon. Milo R. Smith, of Fulton county; Hon. Samuel R. Jacobs, of Cass county; and Hon. George Burson, of Pulaski county. The first ballot resulted as follows: Wood, 88; Jacobs, 44; Smith, 39; Burson 16. The number of delegates to the convention being 188, eighty votes were necessary to a choice. Before the next ballot was taken, Jacobs, Smith and Burson withdrew their names from the convention, whereupon the Hon. Thomas J. Wood was declared the unanimous choice of the convention as its candidate for congress, amid loud shouts of enthusiasm from all parts of the assembled multitude. Mr. Wood being loudly called for, approached the stand and made a stirring speech, thanking the convention for the distinguished honor conferred upon him; he said that he would willingly labor to secure his election, and expressed the belief that he would carry the democratic banner to victory. He was followed by Mayor Jacobs, Hon. Geo. Burson, Prof. Holcomb, candidate for Supt. of Public Instruction, and Judge Dykeman; all of who made excellent speeches. The committee on resolutions, through their chairman Judge John C. Nelson, submitted the following report: "Your committee appointed on resolutions would respectfully submit the platform adopted at the State Convention of the Democratic party held at Indianapolis on the 2d day of August, 1882, as the platform of this convention, and ask that the same be affirmed and adopted by this convention." Said report was adopted by the convention.

The convention was the largest that has been held for years. Every county being represented by earnest and intelligent men. Harmony marked the entire proceedings of the convention, and the best of feeling prevailed. Everyone seemed to feel that with such a candidate as Thomas J. Wood to carry the standard of our party, the Tenth Congressional District will be snatched from the pincers of Republican districts next November.

Concerning Mr. Wood the Logansport Pharos says: "This gentleman is aged about forty, and socially is much like Willard Nash. He is an attorney by profession, and stands at the head of the bar at Crown Point. Personally he makes a good impression at the start, and an acquaintance improves the good opinion one gains of him. He is rather large of stature, with dark hair, light whiskers and a fine form. He makes a good speech and talks well in private conversation. As a political canvasser it is said of him that he has no superior between the lakes and the Ohio river. In his own county he cannot be beaten. Lake county gives usually a majority of nine hundred republican. In the face of this fact, Wood was elected Prosecuting Attorney of that county some years ago by 350 majority. Two years later his majority was 900. Four years after that when he ran for the senate from Lake and Porter counties, his majority was more than two hundred. These counties give for the republican state ticket a majority of 1,500. Wood's popularity is credited to his winning personal ways and to the fact that in his official acts he has never gone back on his constituents. He has the greatest influence with the German people, and can count on receiving their solid support. In Lake and Porter alone this vote amounts to about 2,400, of which probably 1,200 are republican. A German from Lake, who supported DeMotte in 1850, told us that Wood would receive three-fourths of the votes of the German republicans in case he received the nomination. If this proves true, his election is assured."

Kentland News: At the democratic representative convention, held at Rose Lawn last Saturday, Mr. Thos. Buswell was nominated as candidate for the legislature. Mr. Buswell is a thrifty, honest farmer, of Washington township, Newton county. He is a man of strict integrity and good ability. He appreciates the wants of all classes of people in the district and if elected will make an able representative.

NO RELIEF FROM THE CRUSHING TAXATION.

The sham which originated in the House of Representatives pretending to be a relief from taxation, but which was really contrived in the interest of the banks, of the proprietors of patent medicines, of the dealers in perfumery and of the monopoly of manufacturing matches, may now be regarded as dead and done for.

Alarmed at the signs of public resentment against Congress, the Senate committee sought to propitiate favor by adding steel and sugar to the other items. When the bill was reported to the Senate in this changed form, the door was at once opened to amendment. The Democrats were placed in a position to test the sincerity of the Republican side by proposing real measures of general relief, all of which were quite as germane as the amendments which emanated from the Republican caucus.

The Record shows how these propositions were received, and it also shows that, after days of discussion, the Republicans abandoned their bill and took up instead that enormous swindle which Secor Robeson proposed and carried through the House to secure his monitor job, and to punish a number of officers who had disapproved of his corrupt management of the Navy under Gen. Grant. This retreat leaves the Republican party in a grave dilemma for the fall elections. The reckless profligacy and prodigality of this Congress exceeded all experience.

The farmers, the mechanics, the laborers, and the plain people, as Mr. Lincoln called them, who pay the great body of the taxes by the sweat of their brows, have cried aloud for relief; and they have cried in vain.

Congress adjourned leaving a discreditable record. It has voted away the people's money in wild extravagance, without any honest attempt to reduce the burdens that weigh upon industry and enterprise.

If the Democrats are at all wise in their nominations and presenting the issue of retrenchment and reform, as they did in 1874 history will be apt to repeat itself in the experience of the coming elections.

ABOUT CATARRH AND BRONCHITIS.

(American Agriculturist.)
 The general prevalence of catarrh affections is indicated by the great number of advertisements of nostrums for their "sure cure." There is perhaps more money wasted for quick medicines of this kind than for almost any other class. Many of the ailments of people are imaginary, and in such cases any inert medicine, or one simply a stimulant, if pushed strongly enough to enlist the faith of the purchaser, will often prove effective. A catarrh is an actual disease, and something more than faith in a nostrum.

Catarrh is a disease characterized by an increased production or secretion of mucus by mucous folds in the various passages. So we may have catarrh of the stomach, catarrh of the intestines, of the bladder, of the throat, or of the lungs, or it may be confined to the nasal passages. Most diarrheas, and frequently dysenteries, are merely intestinal catarrh.

Catarrh is often the result of general weakness or debility, arising from any cause, such as insufficient food, mental anxiety, foul air, etc.; also of taking cold, or exposure to dampness, sudden changes in the weather, or an unusual season.

From the above it will be readily understood that the best preventive, and often the best remedy, is to secure a vigorous condition of the whole system, by nourishing food, exercise, pure air, and if need be, by bracing up with simple tonics, as quinine.

Nasal catarrh, which is popularly understood by the word catarrh, refers to the mucus inflammation of the air passages extending through the nose over to the throat. At first it affects only the direct opening, and is easily remedied. If long continued, or suddenly severe, the inflammation may extend up into the numerous bony cavities between the eyes and in the middle of the forehead, and it is more difficult to reach, and if continued long, it destroys the bony structure.

Simple Remedy for Catarrh and Bronchitis.
 It is now generally known that Carbolic Acid is strongly disinfectant and very usefully applied to putrid sores or purulent wounds. Wood Creosote is similar, is decidedly antiseptic, and quite volatile. It is therefore natural to suppose it would be useful when applied to catarrh and bronchial affections which arise from diseased or putrefying mucus. We learned of its use for this purpose from Dr. Pescetto, a leading physician in the noted Italian Medical School in Genoa, Italy. We have recommended the following statement in many cases with the best results. It can do no harm, is simple and is eminently worthy of trial, both for pulmonary and chronic catarrh.

For Bronchitis.—Get from the drug store a little good Wood Creosote. Put two drops of it into a bottle holding a pint of water. Pour in a little more than half a pint of clear water, and shake it well; also shake well always before using it. Take a mouthful of this, throw the head back, gargle it some time in the throat, and then swallow it. Repeat this every two hours, more or less, so as to use up the liquid within 24 hours. For each subsequent 24 hours use three drops of the Creosote in 3 to 4 gills of water. This 3 drops a day may be continued as long as any bronchitis appears. Two to four days is usually enough though it may be continued indefinitely without harm.

For Catarrh.—Prepare the Creosote water as above, in any amount, at the rate of one drop of Creosote to one gill of water (4 drops to the pint), or a little more water if the Creosote be very strong and the water too irritating. Make a fresh mixture once in two or three days, and as much often as more is needed. Take a handful of this water, previously well shaken, and sniff it through the nose into the mouth, and eject it. A little good down the throat will do no harm. Do this two or three times, occasionally during the day. In fact, keep the nasal passages washed out with the Creosote water. Its vapor will even penetrate the bony cavities, and also be drawn into the lungs with useful results. It destroys the putrid mucus, and tends to prevent its further secretion. It is useful for any discharges from the nose or lungs produced by colds or general weakness.

For bronchitis, and especially for catarrh, good rare cooked beef or other nourishing food, and quinine if needed, to obtain and retain a vigorous system, are capital aids to the Creosote or any other medicine.
