A dispatch from Salt Lake, Utah, says: The general election in this Territory, being the first under the Edmunds law, was one of the quietest ever had in the Territory. The Mormons and Gentiles had tickets for members of the Legislature Territorial county, and precinct officers, but there had been no campaigning or canvassing on the stump or in the press. The Gentiles accepted, as a foregone conclusion, that their defeat would be overwhelming, and the Mormons realized that victory was certain. The Gentiles practically abstained from voting. Their ticket was not seen at many precincts until late in the day. The returns all show unexpectedly large Mormon majorities. It is probable the Gentiles carried Summit county.
