

Legions of Pharo: Captain Cyrus Vignus, one of the very old subscribers of the Weekly Pharo, renewed his subscription to day, taking tickets No. 91 in the sixth annual distribution, a number that corresponds with his age.

Tariff reform must be the watchword. There is no longer any reason for paying high subsidies to induce them to do business in this country. They are compelled to do enough in saving the bulk of the national debt to pay.

Miss Aurelia Hoy, one of the most indefatigable workers in the temperance cause in this State, died at Indianapolis recently. At the time of her death she was 880 late editor of the Monitor and secretary of the State temperance committee.

There is a little graveyard at North Haverhill, Mass., where rests the remains of McKintosh, who led the Boston tea party. He died in 1810 or 1811 at the house of a man named Hurlburt, who had him laid off as a public pauper, and his grave is unmarked.

The Lafayette Courier says: "A benevolent looking old man last week obtained the signatures of a number of farmers west of here to petitions asking the legislature to tax church property the same as other property. The farmers were much astonished when they received notice by mail from certain parties here that they held their promissory notes payable in thirty days, for sums ranging from $25 to $300. There's music in the air and we are promised innumerable suits on notes in the near future. The benevolent looking old party was last heard of north of here, but has disappeared and it is thought went over in Illinois to reap rich harvests there."

There was an investigation of the causes which led to the Danville riot. It was brought about by an effort on the part of the Mahone leaders to excite race prejudices, to array the blacks against the whites by lies and other reprehensible methods. They failed, as many colored men voted the Democratic ticket, a thing they dare not do in Indiana without subjecting themselves to abuse. The outrages on the ballot box by Indiana Republicans have never been investigated. Arthur says frauds were perpetrated to carry the election in 1880. Fishback says Governor Porter and Senator Harrison hold their places by frauds at the elections in 1880. And yet there has never been an investigation.

The Boston Herald remarks that "one of the oldest and most successful manufacturers of cotton and woolen goods in Massachusetts said yesterday that the true policy for the future prosperity of the country is the abolition of the duties on raw materials, in order that our manufacturers can compete with their rivals in the world's market. He expressed perfect confidence that we could compete even in a high grade of productions if we were not handicapped by the high tariff. This manufacturer speaks from 50 years' experience with all sorts of tariffs. He believes in protection for infant industries but he says that this country is now adult, with full powers and does not need nursing."

In every election which has taken place since the Republican party has come into power, that party has had two issues which it constantly pushed to the front. One was the "bloody shirt" and the other the "business interest". Upon these two strings it has been wont to play most dreadful and discordant music to the ears of timid people. The score on "business interests" was intended to reach the ears of the commercial and industrial part of the people, and the dreadful outrages at the South was meant to paralyze the benevolent and philanthropic people of the country, whose delicate sensibilities could easily be flamed by skillfully told stories of desperate assaults upon the inoffensive and harmless colored trooper. Of course, the old plan won't work so well this time, because the people are getting tired of being run by Republican ghosts, but it will try the old dodge just the same. It is but a sorry attempt to save a discouraged party from defeat, but as it is the best they can do, perhaps we ought not to criticize them too severely.

It will be the last time they will use it, and let them make the best of it. Evansville Courier.

The New York Times the other day alluding to the apprehension that a revision of the tariff would disturb the business interests puts the apt inquiry if business was not already disturbed and if this disturbance mainly because of overproduction was not the outcome of excessive production? The Times since returning to the subject makes these sensible observations:

The tariff is a business question. It does not follow because action must be taken upon it that that action must be either toward absolute free trade or toward the maintenance of protection. As it stands the tariff is unequal, it is moderate as to some articles and oppressive as to others; it is a tariff for revenue as to some, protective as to others, prohibitory as to still others, and as to a large number of articles it is simply absurd and stupid. The business men of the country are much more interested in having its evil removed, its nonsense eliminated, and its oppression relieved than they are in the effect of any changes upon one party or the other. If the Democrats in the House and the Republicans in the Senate would treat the matter from a business point of view, they would show their wisdom and their patriotism, and would very safely ignore the capricious criticism of purely partisan journals on either side.

Where is Levine's candy factory? answer Rensselaer Ind. where they make all kinds of pure candy every day.

Mr. Ralph Fendig has just returned from Chicago, where he has been for some few days, looking through the market, and reports that he has secured the nicest and cheapest lot of goods it was ever his luck to secure, and requests the readers of the SENTINEL, and everybody else to call and see them.

Prof. Levine is actively engaged in arranging his establishment handsomely for the coming season.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

"A Literary Republic". Fifty million of people, mostly fools, was Carlyle's pointed way of putting it. The now brilliantly successful Literary Revolution—which a few months ago was supposed to be permanently doomed—assumes the opposite, that people are not mostly fools, but that they want Good books rather than trash, and the "Literary Republic" is the result. Every reader is a voter. Ballots in the first election are to be cast (by postal card), before January 1, 1884. The following are the first "candidates" for honors:

GEORGE RAWLINSON.—"History of the Seven Great Monarchies of the Ancient Eastern World." In three large 12mo. volumes, about 2,400 pages, with profuse and fine illustrations. Price reduced from $18 to $4.

JOHN RUSKIN.—"Modern Painters" and "Stones of Venice." In five handsome 12mo. volumes, about 3,250 pages, with many illustrations. Price reduced from $30 to $4.

GUIXOT and DEWITT.—"History of France, from the earliest time to 1848." Translated from the French. Profusely illustrated. In five large 12mo. volumes, about 4,000 pages. Price reduced from $36 to $5.

HENRI VAN LAUN.—"Complete History of French Literature." In two large 12mo. volumes, about 1,600 pages. Price reduced from $7.50 to $1.50.

The candidates stand separately. Vote for those you want, one or all. It will take 10,000 votes for each to elect. The 10,000 being received, the books described will be published during the present winter on the terms stated. No money is asked in advance. You can receive and examine the books before paying for them. A specimen number of the IRVING LIBRARY, giving samples of type, paper, and other particulars, will be sent free to any applicant. Address JOHN B. ALDEN, publisher, 18 Versey St. New York.

WHAT FOR?

A boy and girl a sleighing went,
And neither of them cared a cent
How fast they rid.
While on they slid—
What for, and where?

The air was very cold and raw—
The little boy, he froze his jaw.
Still on they sped
In their little sled—
What for, and where?

The little girl, so young and fair,
Lost nearly all her golden hair.
They went so fast,
Their friends they passed—
What for, and where?

The horse, of course, got badly scared,
And run, and pitched, and kicked,
And reared,
On went the pair—
Now almost there—
What for, and where?

The boy and girl were tumbled out—
She sprained her ear he broke his foot—
Then up they got,
And off they sot—
What for, and where?

For Levine's little candy store—
To get some candy—Nothing more—
They got it, too,
And so many you—
What for?

Why from 11 to 40 cents a pound;
and our nice, sweet magnolians and delicious cream candies and chocolate goods, owing to a heterogeneous difficulty, at prices to suit all.

Wish you all a Happy New Year!
