OFFICIAL PAPER OF JASPER COUNTY.

FRIDAY JANUARY 18, 1884.

Gov. Hoadly was inaugurated at Columbus, Ohio, Monday last.

In the House, on Monday, Mr. Wood presented a bill to admit lumber, wood pulp and salt free.

Gen. Tom Brady's father died Monday at Muncie, aged 81. He was an old citizen, and much respected.

The Grand Opera House at Latayette took fire in the basement, Monday evening. Damage about $500.

The 15 per cent. tariff tax on plate glass enables DoPauw to substitute his name in place of that of Bishop Asbury on the university at Green castle. We believe the workmen in the glass works have not been proportionally benefitted by the extortionate tariff duty.

We doubt whether Logan can give much momentum to his boom at this time by making a four days' speech against General Fitz John Porter, though he may be stupid enough to make the experiment. The Springfield Republican says: "It is a disgrace to the country that such a question should still be considered on strictly partisan grounds, but the public knows well 'twif Fitz John Porter had not been a Democrat he would have been long since relieved of his wrong sentence. True, even though sad. Perhaps it were better said, however, that had he not been a Democrat there would have been no wrong sentence of which to relieve him. One reason why the War lasted so long was that Democratic officers not only had to fight the enemies of the Union at the South, but to do it handicapped by the constant and frequently active enmity of the Secretary of War and his pets.—Boston Post.

"Dirty dog" Logan, as the grand statesman and patriot Douglas pronounced him, finds mere congenial companionship with repentant rebels like Longstreet, guerrilla Mosby, and Fort Pillow Chalmers.

Senator Garland, of Arkansas, the other day, in the Senate, in the discussion of the question of polygamy said he had always thought the Edmunds legislative prescription for the Utah polygamy distemper was like prescribing a corn-plaster to cure consumption. He abstained from expressing a like opinion of the prescription advocated so patriotically by the Senator from Illinois, (Cullom), which may be compared to a prescription of St. Jacob's oil to cure a chronic case of moral depravity—but he closed out the frantically constitutional Senator from Georgia (Brown) by remarking that the proposition had been judicially settled that people can not shelter themselves from the consequences of crime by pleading the tenets of their religion.

By the laws of Utah, polygamy is a crime. Why don't the government of Utah punish the persons who commit that crime? This is all there is in the Utah question. All the legislative corn-plasters that great statesmen can bring in as foundations for displays of constitutional eloquence can not inject anything more into it.

GOOD WORDS FOR OUR CONGRESSMAN.

The Washington Evening Critic says: "Representative Thomas J. Wood, of the Tenth Indiana District, is one of the hardest working members in the House. The calls of his constituents are immense, and he gives them all personal attention. He is a friend of the soldiers, too, and has introduced several bills for their relief; one to equalize the bounties; one to pension the prisoners who suffered in Confederate Prisons, and another to increase widows' and minor children's pensions to the amount received at the time of the decease of the husband or father. His bill to limit the jurisdiction of United States Courts is attracting some attention. It kills royalty swindle all over the country. Wood has the most difficult District in Indiana to carry, but he is fully equal to the emergency. He has several times been called to positions of honor and trust by the people of his District and has never failed to overcome large majorities. He served several years with distinction in the Indiana State Senate. He is gritty to the bone, and claims to be able to fight his battles without any help, and 'By the Eternal' he will come into port all right. He is preparing for the introduction of some more important bills. The Critic predicts that Wood will become one of the most active and able members on the floor of the House. His name has been prominently mentioned in his State for the Governorship. He would make a hot race, as he has a way of stirring up the Democrats to work for him that few men have, and he never offends the opposite party in any word or act in his canvass. At present he is making the best Congressman the old Tenth District of Indiana has ever had."

COMMUNICATED.

FATHER HEALY died at the residence of Dr. C. Scott, in White county, Indiana, on Monday, January 7, 1884. The deceased was born in St. Albans, Vermont, in 1806. In 1854 he moved to Cass county, Indiana, residing there for a number of years, then moved to Jasper county, Indiana. His home for eight of the last years of his life was at San Francisco, California until May, 1883, when he returned to White county, where he was at the time of his death. He leaves a wife and five children, Mrs. Madison Makeever, Mrs. Dr. C. Scott, and three sons in California. His wife was taken sick a few days before he was, and is still very low, but it is hoped she will yet recover.

Logansport Pharos: Father Healy, formerly a resident of this county died a few days ago near Monticello. Mr. Healy moved to Cass county in 1854 and resided here for several years.

The Peru Sentinel champions Judge Turpie, of Indianapolis, for Governor. "A more deserving or braver man than Judge Turpie could not be nominated," says the Valparaiso Messenger.

Monticello Herald: J. Wigmore received an order yesterday for a pair of crutches to be sent to Miss Nellie Ryan, St. Joseph, Mo. The order came through Mr. M. Witz, who carried Wigmore's fame to Missouri on his recent visit to that State.

Congressman Belford, of Colorado, recently said: "I am a Republican, but I am ashamed of the official holding aristocracy that has grown up under twenty-three years' Republican administration and which our hypocritical (civil service reform) commission aims to perpetuate. If the Democrats elect their Presidential candidate in 1884, I hope they will fire out all the duds from the fat places they have been holding so long." Belford's early Democratic training once in a while comes to the surface. We hope yet to hear from him expressions of regret and shame for having ever acted with the Republican party.

The bill of expenses of one of the detectives employed by Attorney General Brewster (and it is only a sample of what extensively prevails in the official establishment of that distinguished Judge) includes charges for fourteen drinks taken at as many different saloons. If the government detectives were in pursuit of evidence upon which to convict the star-route thieves, there seems to have been an unnecessary quantity of whisky consumed. If, however, they were detailed by Mr. Brewster to find where the best whisky could be obtained for the department of justice, their bills are intelligible and within reasonable bounds.

On New Year's day Hon. John P. Carr, of White county, presented each of his children as a New Year's present, a warrant deed for 240 acres of good land free from incumbrance. His children's names are as follows: Lillie Allen, Wallace Carr, John Carr and Noonie Becker.—Lafayette Courier.

ARM IN ARM.

The St. Louis Spectator's "Town Talker" says: "It is a curious fact, but nevertheless true, that you never see a lady and gentleman walking arm-in-arm in this city, except in coming from the theatre or late in the evening. In the daytime, if a lady should promenade, having hold of her escort's arm, most people would turn their heads to look at the couple. In the Eastern cities such a sight is by no means so rare; yet even there the custom is very far from general. In European cities, on the contrary, it is the universal habit. Why is it that American damsels are so shy of clinging to a gentleman's arm? Probably it arises from her naturally self-reliant and independent nature. American girls do things which would shock the sensibilities of their European sisters. More latitude is allowed them in their actions; their independence is fostered. To be hyperbolical, it may be the vine clinging to the oak; but our American belle needs no support, and as the act of taking the arm implies per se the necessity of protection, it is averse to her ideas. Perhaps, too, it is thought to be a sign of 'spooniness.' Whatever it is, the fact remains that our girls object to perambulating the streets in the glare of the sun with their arm through those of their escorts." Now-a-days one involuntarily takes a couple arm-in-arm in the daytime to be provincial.

It was his first letter home from boarding-school, and it read as follows: DEAR FATHER—I write you before I write ma becoz I know you like to see ma mad. I think I will get along with my lessons first-rate. The garden here is full of chickens, which makes the walking bad. In history I've got as far as Alexander the Great. He carried a sword to cut knots with. There is an apple orchard half a mile off. The boys play ball in it; after that there ain't much apples. The minister's son was licked this morning for going a fishing on Sunday. He caught lots of fish, and says he is going again next Sunday. I think I like the minister's boy a good deal. Send me some marbles as soon as you can, also a jack-knife and a top. Two of us boys left a piece of wet soap at the head of the stairs just before day-break, and by the time the cook got to the bottom she was too sick to get breakfast. We have prayers regular every day, and the teacher reads out of the Bible, but I don't think it's so bully as playing tag in a hay loft.

From your affectionate son, SAMUEL—Brooklyn Eagle.

WHAT FOR?
A boy and girl a sleighing went,
And neither of them cared a cent.
How fast they rid,
While on they slid—
What for, and where!

The air was very cold and raw—
The little boy, he froze his paw.
Still on they sped—
In their little sled—
What for, and where?

The little girl, so young and fair,
Lost nearly all her golden hair.
They went so fast,
Their friends they passed—
What for, and where?

The horse, of course, got badly scared,
And ran, and pitched, and kicked,
and reared,
On went the pair—
Now almost there—

What for, and where?

The boy and girl were tumbled out—
She sprained her ear, he broke his snout—
They up they got,
And off they set—
What for, and where?

For Levino's little candy store—
To get some candy—Nothing more—
They got it, too—
And so may you—
What for?

Why from 11 to 40 cents a pound;
and our nice, sweet magnolias and delicious cream candies and chocolate goods, owing to a heterogeneous conglomeration of unforeseen difficulties, at prices to suit all.
