OPTIMAL PAPER OF JASPER COUNTY.

FRIDAY JANUARY 25, 1884.

Col. Bennett H. Young has resigned the presidency of the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago R. R. and will accept the presidency of the Southern Exposition.

Twenty-one prisoners in the jail at Indianapolis have been sent to the pest-house with small-pox, and a dozen others are affected to a slight degree.

Jas Nutt was acquitted at Pittsburg, Pa., of the murder of Dukes, and after examination as to his present mental condition released.

It now appears that Mr. Payne, whom the democrats of Ohio lately elected to the U. S. Senate, has not and never had any interest in the Standard Oil Company. This news will be very comforting to our republican friends who have lately lost so much sleep on that account.

Monticello Herald: M. N. Harris, of Jasper County, was brought before Esq. Hammell Saturday for stealing lap robes, harness and other articles from Henry Bennett, of Idaville. He plead guilty and was bound over to the circuit court in the sum of $600. Officers Bennett and Ballinger had a hot chase after him and caught him near Remington with some of the stolen goods in his possession.

Dispatches from Washington announce that "Congressman Wood, of Indiana says he doesn't care for the fight the New York papers are making on him because of his bill for removing the duty on wood pulp. He says a large majority of his constituents support him in his measure, and he proposes to crowd it to a passage.

The Indiana Republican club here is in a sweat-box over the charges made that it was instrumental in having the assessment circulars so soliciting campaign funds distributed to the Indiana employed in the departments. It is known positive that such is the case. The civil service law forbids Federal employees from soliciting political contributions, but it does not prohibit others from doing so. To avoid violating the letter of the law the club employed a well-known collector here to make the assessment, agreeing to pay him a percentage. This he proceeded to do in strict violation of the law which the Republicans made. The matter has called forth a great deal of comment here, much to the detriment of the reputations for consistency of those who constitute the Republican club.

A $20 Bible Prize.

The publishers of RUTLEDGE'S MONTHLY offer twelve valuable rewards in their Monthly for February, among which is the following:

We will give $20 to the person telling us which is the longest verse in the Old Testament Scriptures by February 10th, 1884. Should two or more correct answers be received, the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner February 15th, 1884. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents in silver (no postage stamps taken) with their answer, for which they will receive the March Monthly. In which the name and address of the winner of the reward and the correct answer will be published, and in which several more valuable rewards will be offered. Address RUTLEDGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Easton Pa.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE for February opens with one of the most charming steel-engravings we have ever seen, called "Two Little Customers." Besides this, however, are several other beautiful embellishments, among them a splendid colored pattern. There is also another engraving—"Homeless and Blind"—illustrating a pathetic little story. The double-sized colored fashion-plate—a specialty of this magazine—is even more beautiful than usual. As for stories, though always good, they are this month unusually so. Mrs. Ann S. Stephens continues "Her Sea-son in Washington," a novel that promises to be the best she has ever written. There is also a powerful story called "Jule." Altogether this is a very superior number. We do not see how any lady can get along without "Peterson." The terms are but Two DOLLARS a year. Great deductions are made for clubs, and elegant premiums given for getting up clubs. Now is the time to get up clubs for 1884. Specimens are sent gratis, if written for, to persons wishing to subscribe or get up clubs. Address PETERSON'S MAGAZINE, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Washington Irving.

The writings of the most honored of American authors are at last made accessible to all readers, and in such varied and beautiful forms as to delight the most fastidious taste, and at prices so low as to be an astonishment to book buyers, and a consternation to book-sellers of whom the "Literary Revolution" makes no account. As examples, we have "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" for three cents. "W. M. F. Koest's" ten cents "The Sketch Book" 20 cents, these in paper binding but large type; in neat or elegant cloth or half Russia bindings, his "Choice Works" are published at prices varying from 30 to 45 cents, and his complete works (excepting "Life of Washington" in the super-CAXTON EDITION, six volumes, over 5,000 pages, choice typography, elegant binding, for only $4. Specimen pages, or large descriptive catalogues are sent to any applicant on request, and orders over $5 in amount are filled to be paid for after arrival and examination, on reasonable evidence of good faith being given. Address JOHN B. ALDEN, publisher 18 Vesey St. New York.

JANUARY CHOICE LITERATURE.—The January issue of this excellent magazine, which begins a new volume, contains the following interesting and valuable array of contents: The New Nero, by Theodore Watts, an entertaining study on the way poets and artists treat child-life; The Political Condition of Spain by an eminent Spanish authority; Luther in Politics by Karl Blaib, one of the most scholarly and brilliant of English essayists; Alexander Von Humboldt, a biographical and critical study by the President of the University of Berlin; The Ethics of Aristotle, a delightful and scholarly study by E. M. Clark; Evolutionary Ethics and Christianity, a very strong article by Goldwin Smith; Ancient International Law, by H. Brougham Leech, one of the highest living authorities; Outcast Russia, a very powerful and harrowing article by the imprisoned Prince Krapotkin. Also a brief on containing articles. In Milford Sound, by Harriet Kays; the Scramble for Wealth, by a London Artisan; Popular Banking, and People's Banks, from Chambers's Journal, giving especially valuable information concerning people's banks in Germany; Reminiscences of Thorwaldsen; Evolution and Mind; and Science Notes, by W. M. Williams. All this, in large type, and excellent magazine form, for ten cents, or monthly at $1 per year. JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 18 Vesey Street, New York.

There has been another walking-match. The only walking-matches that we now take any interest in are those that disappear mysteriously from our match-safe. That necessitates our blackmailing all our friends for a light for our cigarettes.

NOTICE OF ASSIGNMENT.—Notice is hereby given that William T. Perkins has made a general assignment of all his property to me in trust for the benefit of all his bona fide creditors, that I have accepted same trust, given the required bond, and that the same has been approved by the Court, this 17th day of January, A. Where is Levine's candy factory? answer Rensselaer Ind. where they make all kinds o' pure candy every day.

Mr. Ralph Fendig has just returned from Chicago, where he has been for some few days, looking through the market, and reports that he has secured the neatest and cheapest lot of goods it was ever his luck to secure, and requests the readers of the SENTINEL, and everybody else to call and see them.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Ali who are indebted to R. Fendig are requested to call and settle, either by cash, or note, within the next 30 days, as I wish to close my books for this year.

R. FENDIG.

Quality not Quantity is what you get at Levine's candy factory. When you want fine goods do not be deluded by low prices for cheap adulterated candy. We guarantee all the candy we manufacture pure and free from adulteration. Levine's candy factory.

Go to Fendig's.

Mrs. Barbauld's Childhood.

One can fancy the little assiduous girl, industrious, impulsive, interested in everything—in all life and all nature—drinking in, on every side, learning, eagerly wondering, listening to all around with bright and ready wit. There is a pretty little story told by Mrs. Ellis in her book about Mrs. Barbauld, how one day, when Dr. Aiken and a friend "were conversing on the passions," the doctor observes that joy cannot have place in a state of perfect felicity, since it supposes an accession of happiness. "I think you are mistaken, papa," says a little voice from the opposite side of the table. "Why so, my child?" says the doctor. "Because in the chapter I read to you this morning, in the Testament, it is said that 'there is more joy in heaven over one sinner that repents than over ninety and nine just persons that need no repentance.'"

Besides her English Testament and her early reading, the little girl was taught by her mother to do as little daughters did in those days—to obey a somewhat austere rule, to drop curtsies in the right place, to make beds, to preserve fruits. The father, after demur, but surely not without some paternal pride in her proficiency, taught the child Latin and French and Italian, and something of Greek, and gave her an acquaintance with English literature. One can imagine little Nancy, with her fair head bending over her lessons, or, when playing-time had come, perhaps a little lonely and listening to the distant voices of the schoolboys at their games. The mother, fearing she might acquire rough and boisterous manners, strictly forbade any communication with the schoolboys. Sometimes in after days, speaking of these early times and of the constraint of many by-gone rules and regulations, Mrs. Barbauld used to attribute to this early, formal training something of the hesitation and shyness which troubled her and never entirely wore off. She does not seem to have been in any great harmony with her mother. One could imagine a fanciful and high-spirited child, timid and dutiful, and yet strong-willed, secretly rebelling against the rigid order of her home, and feeling lonely for want of liberty and companionship. It was true she had birds and beasts and plants for her playfellows, but she was of a gregarious and sociable nature, and perhaps she was unconsciously longing for something more, and feeling a want in her early life which no silent company can supply.—The Cornhill Magazine.

WHAT FOR?

A boy and girl a sleighing went,

And neither of them cared a cent.

How fast they rid,

While on they slid—

What for, and where!

The air was very cold and raw—

The little boy, he froze his paw.

Still on they sped

In their little sled—

What for, and where?

The little girl, so young and fair,

Lost nearly all her golden hair,

They went so fast,

Their friends they passed—

What for, and where!

The horse, of course, got badly scared,

And ran, and pitched, and kicked,

and reared,

On went the pair—

Now almost there—

What for, and where?

The boy and girl were tumbled out—

She sprained her ear he broke his snout—

Then up they got,

And off they set—

What for, and where?

For Levine's little candy store—

To get some candy—Nothing more—

They got it, too.

And so may you—

What for?

Why from 11 to 40 cents a pound;

and our nice, sweet magnolias and delicious cream candies and chocolate goods, owing to a heterogeneous conglomeration of unforeseen difficulties, at prices to suit all.
