

The Trenton Sentinel.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF JASPER COUNTY.

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 22, 1884.

James Murdock, warden of the northern penitentiary, was stricken with paralysis on Thursday of last week.

Bro. Marshall is after the scalp of the Strawberry Roan of the Fowler Era. We'll hold the hat of the Fog-Horn tootist while he ruffles Miss Nancy's bangs.

Monticello Herald: "John Harris was afflicted with mental aberration and so he didn't steal the personal property at Knoxville of which he was accused. So say the 'twelve sovereigns'."

The Monticello correspondent of the Monticello Herald says: "There was a rather sudden death about five miles west of here last week in the person of John L. Robinson, of Hanging Grove township, Jasper county. He was reasonably well known in our town. The cause of his death was some kind of a fever which is prevailing the entire family."

From the Monticello Herald we learn that W. W. Davis, on trial there on the charge of robbery of Esquire Hammelle Christmas night, attempted suicide by cutting his throat Saturday morning. The Herald says: "The doctor dressed his wound, which was only a trifling cut on the side of his throat, and examined him carefully. The prevailing impression is that he was feigning insanity, being encouraged to do so by the result of Harris' case decided in court the preceding day. Dr. Bushnell inclines to the belief that he is ailing physically, and that he made the attempt on his life while delirious from fever."

Pursuant to call the Republican mass convention met at the Court House last Saturday. There were forty or fifty present. All told, this town and township having the controlling voice. A few of the outside townships were represented—mainly by parties having axes to grind. At an early stage of the proceedings it became evident that factions were contending for the supremacy. The ball opened with a motion by Dr. Washburn, Secretary of the Board of Health, in the interest of Thompson, Chilcote and Babcock immediately joined forces to insure its defeat. After wrangling nearly the whole of the afternoon the motion with amendments were laid on the table. An "omnibus" motion was then sprung by Powell, and under its operation Thompson carried the day, securing the chairman and secretary of the committee. Carpenter township preferred Dr. Alter, but the obstinate opposition encountered induced the withdrawal of his name. The hand some, and we think appropriate, endorsement of Judge Hammond for the Supreme bench, was no doubt stigmatized by selfishness of aspirants in their scramble for place.

At the annual dinner of the Trenton Board of Trade last night, Congressman Abram S. Hewitt had been asked to respond to the toast, "Our manufactures—to the capital, skill, brains and labor thus employed we owe much of our prosperity." Unable to be present he sent a letter, in which he said: "I regret exceedingly that my duties in Washington will make it impossible for me to be present on the occasion. I regret this more because it would afford me a convenient opportunity for disabusing the public mind of some prejudices which have been seriously instilled by interested persons as to the effect of my views in regard to the reform of the tariff. The industries of Trenton are suffering from useless obstructions imposed by the existing tariff. I seek to remove the obstruction, in order that the capital and labor employed in branches of business affected by them may have steady and remunerative occupation, which is now impossible. The removal of the duty upon scrap iron, for example, which benefits no existing industry whatever, would enable every idle train in Trenton to be run day and night, and the money which is now paid for foreign rods would be largely distributed among the workmen of Trenton, who are now condemned to idleness through no fault of their own, and every business industry in the city would flourish in a corresponding degree. If the protective system be the panacea for all the sufferings of the workmen, and the want of remuneration of capital, how comes it to pass that at no time in its history were the industries of Trenton in so unpromising a condition as they are at the present time? The truth is, that they are taxed out of existence, and the workmen lack employment because they have not yet learned the bitter lesson that every dollar of taxation imposed by law is deducted from earnings which otherwise they would have for the support of their families. I do not wonder that the artisans of Trenton do not appreciate the evil effect of obstructive duties, when I reflect that for the greater portion of my life I was myself deceived as to the effect of such duties, and have been brought to my present conclusion only after an experience as convincing as it has been disagreeable."

The National Republican in an article praising Fitz John Porter to Benedit Arnold, says:

"Porter, by refusing prompt obedience to his superior in command in front of the enemy, enabled the latter to slaughter thousands of his comrades in arms and to win an easy victory."

It is unfortunate that so many persons allow themselves to be misled on this subject by partisan prejudice.

It is not true that Porter stood still and allowed thousands of his comrades to be slaughtered.

It is not true that thousands of soldiers fell on the evening when Porter received the order to fall on Jackson's flank.

It is true that Porter by saving his little corps of less than ten thousand men on the evening of the 29th of August, from an assault upon double the numbers, that would have been hopeless and useless, was enabled to fight a splendid battle the next day.

It is clear that if Porter had rushed with his ten thousand men upon twenty thousand on the evening of August 28, in a blind man's buff performance, that Pope's army, instead of suffering honorable and not to defeat next day, after a gallant struggle, would have been destroyed.

We have no personal or partisan feeling in this matter, but we must show fair play. (Indiana Commercial Gazette, Republican.)

A somewhat inconsiderate item in regard to certain trouble at Center school, in Barkley township, which was inadvertently allowed to appear in our Barkley correspondence last week, has called out a still more inconsiderate response from a "Patron" in that township. "Patron" claims in effect that the "school man" secured the victory through a refusal of the trustee to hear the "other side of the story," etc., etc.—Republican.

From all we can learn the "school man" deserved the "victory," and the trustee determined to assume the responsibility of his acts. It seems the Republican is noted for its publication of "inconsiderate" items, and it is just beginning to find it out.

MUTUAL ADMIRERS.

The Joliet (Illinois) Republic and Sun: "The Rensselaer Republican. One of the best weekly newspapers in the State of Indiana," etc.

To which the Rensselaer Republican responds as follows:

"The Joliet, Illinois, Republic and Sun, one of the best papers published in that State," etc.

Now, Bro. Marshall should correct the statement of the Joliet paper with reference to the 'independent' status of the Republican, and then extend a kind invitation to the editor to call and see the "cylinder press." Tell him "it's a daisy."
