CHARLES H. PRICE,
Chairman.

After the adjournment of the Convention, the Democratic voters of Marion township are requested to meet and place in nomination candidates for the Township offices.

HENRY FISHER, Chairman
Dem Township Committee

Bob Lincoln, Arthur's Secretary of war, is opposed to the restoration of Gen. Fitz John Porter to the army. Ah well, Bob is only a very ordinary son of an illustrious father.

The author of the Morey letter, in the campaign of 1880, has never been discovered, and John I. Davenport now asks the state Legislatures to pass a law punishing similar offenses.

The campaign is about to commence, and the Republican U. S. Senate have committees at work manufacturing Southern outrages for Northern consumption. So far they have not made much progress.

The communication of "Mentor," printed on first page of today's Sentinel is well timed, and should receive the consideration to which it is entitled from every citizen without regard to party. It presents pithy points. Read it.

Citizens of Warsaw have petitioned Congressman Calkins to secure two condemned cannons and four cannon balls to ornament a plot of ground in Oakwood cemetery, at Warsaw, set aside for the burial of deceased soldiers.

Johale Davenport who was charged with discovering the writer of the "Morey" letter, says he gives it up. Very many people, Johnnie, are very firm in their convictions that the victim of your Republican brother, Guiteau, was the author of that letter.

Well, now, what about the Morrison tariff? I submit to you, fellow citizens, that it is the most cautious and conservative measure that has ever been proposed. If we are to do anything, that is the least we can do. It proposes in the first place to put three classes of commodities on the free list namely, salt, coal and lumber. Is there any man in this community aggrieved by these additions to the free list? Is there any article like salt, which enters into animal consumption, and without which healthy life cannot be supported? Do you think that an article of that sort should be taxed? Do you in New York object to having coal on the free list? If there is any body to sell your coal to cook your food and warm your houses cheaper than our neighbors in Pennsylvania, in New York's name ought you not have the privilege of buying it? [Loud applause.] Taxes on lumber increase your rent's. Do you object to having this on your free list?

"No political party in any country ever lost political support by demanding a reduction of taxes. We Democrats do not ask it unreasonably or for mere partisan purposes. We ask that taxes shall be reduced because the people of this country are even now, in 1884, taxed under laws enacted in 1861; laws enacted for the purpose of carrying on the great civil war long since ended. The Government now has no war expenditures and the public debt is being rapidly extinguished. The framers of the Morrill tariff law of 1861 have declared publicly that it was a temporary measure, intended only to raise money for the war expenditures of the Government, and for the payment of the public debt, and that when the necessity would cease for such heavy taxation, the laws would be repealed. It was upon that ground they were enabled to pass their bill through Congress. But they have not fulfilled the pledge which they gave to the country as economists and legislators. On the contrary, they have maintained the so-called system of protection which in truth, is a system of organized bounties to the few. Even on the plea of protection the industries which have been benefited by their legislation no longer need its privileges—Hon. P. R. Belmont's recent New York speech.

An aged newspaper man once said on retiring from active life: "During the first six months of my professional career I knew all about running a newspaper—how to make everybody take it, and how to make bushels of money. Now I know nothing at all about it. I therefore feel that I am too old for the business."

BLAIR is not a reformer. His public record is stained from beginning to end with corrupt jobs and discreditable methods. In every act, from the Fort Smith bond affair as Speaker of the House to the guano claims scandal as Secretary of State, he has been dipping into rotten schemes for plunder. Why, therefore, should he be presented as a reformer?—Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot.

People may talk as much as they please about the benefits of protection to American industry, but there are sometimes stubborn facts to be met and explained, and among them the decline of American shipping is the most notable. Of the 4,190 steamers that were engaged in the trans-Atlantic trade last year, not one carried the American flag. Last year there were 166 sailing vessels engaged in this trade, of which this country furnished but two, and they were the smallest ones in the fleet. Forty years ago there were fifteen ship-yards in New York alone, giving employment to 15,000 men. Now many are there now?

Congressman Hurd, in a recent letter on the tariff to New York Democrats said:

"The tariff question, which you say will be considered, is one in which I feel a deep interest. I believe it to be to day the absorbing question of Federal politics. There is no object as to which there is more discussion or about which the people desire more information. With this an issue the Democratic party ought to occupy no uncertain position. From the day that in their first Congressional caucus the Democrats, under the leadership of Thomas Jefferson, declared for commercial freedom until now our party has opposed the monopoly of protection. Its most signal victory was won in 1844, in the election of James K. Polk over Henry Clay, the champion of protection to American industry. The last authoritative declaration of the National Democracy was for a tariff for revenue only. The Democratic party is committed by its whole history to the doctrine of low tariff taxation."
