MEETING OF THE DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF JASPER COUNTY.

Pursuant to notice, the members of the Democratic Central Committee of Jasper county, Ind., met at the Committee rooms, in Rensselaer, on Saturday, May 31st, 1884, and the following proceedings were had, Ezra C. Nowels in the chair, to-wit:

The basis for delegates to the Judicial and Representative Conventions was agreed upon. Each township is entitled to one delegate, and one one additional for every fraction over fifty votes cast for Secretary of State Myers, at the last election, as follows:

Township.	Delegates.
Hanging Grove,	1
Gilliam,	1
Walker,	2
Barkley,	3
Marion,	5
Jordan,	1
Newton,	3
Keener,	1
Kankakee,	1
Wheasfield,	1
Milroy,	1
Union,	3
Carpenter,	4
No. of Delegates,	27

The basis for delegates to the County Convention, to be held in Rensselaer, August 9th, 1884, was fixed at one delegate for every 10 votes, and one for each fraction over, east for Secretary of State Myers at the last election, and is as follows:

Township.	Delegates.
Hanging Grove,	4
Gilliam,	5
Walker,	6
Barkley,	11
Marion,	20
Jordan,	5
Newton,	7
Keener,	2
Kankakee,	4
Wheasfield,	3
Milroy,	3
Union,	6
Carpenter,	15
No. of Delegates,	91

The delegates to the Judicial and Representative Conventions will be selected at the same time and place as those for the County Convention, provided the conventions are not called for an earlier date. In case the Judicial and Representative Conventions meet first, it is recommended that delegates be selected on the Saturday previous.

John G. Culp, Joel F. Spriggs, Lewis Rich, B. H. Patton and W. L. Brinagle were appointed a Committee of Ways and Means.

The several townships are recommended to select delegates to the Conventions named, on the first Saturday in August next.

It was moved, and carried, that Committee and Club rooms be secured for the campaign, at the rate of $4 per month.

EZRA C. NOWELS, Chairman.
JAMES W. DOUTHIT, Sec'y.

The Galveston News says:

When Jack Logan was accused, recently, of making an assault on the memory of Lindley Murray, he said that it was a dirty Democratic lie, that he never saw nor heard of such a man.

A new town in Tom Green county, Texas, is called Damsight, to express the enthusiasm of Texas Democrats, and also to signify by how much J. Guano Blaine will not be elected.

The late Charles Reade once wrote that a little lawyer was the greatest asset God ever made.

Navy Department Frauds.

[Jap Torpen in Logansport Pharos.]

Grover Cleveland is by no manner of means the man I take him to be, if as President he would allow an officer so convicted as Chandler is, to remain in his Cabinet. The case is now prominently before the country. "an each of the Republican factions carry a tattooed man to the polls? The Journal, however, of a recent date publishes a number of extracts from the press that clearly exonerates Mr. Chandler and convicts Mr. Hendricks of slandering an efficient public servant. The following from the Terre Haute Express is a sample:

Mr. Hendricks was anxious to slander a member of the President's cabinet, and he did so by charging that the Secretary failed to investigate the matter of fraud after he had been informed that fraud existed. That was the point of his speech, and it was meant to reflect upon the integrity of the Secretary of the Navy. But when Mr. Hendricks is shown that he is mistaken he does not say a word of explanation, but delivers himself of a general charge against the department.

The editor who edits the Express, Mr. George M. Allen, is himself a member of the department, at $1,500 per year and perquisites. Voting the Republican ticket, writing things for the Terre Haute Express, and drawing his salary from the Government, is the gifted Mr. Allen's only avocation in the wide, wide world. Has the general Government any right to pension a fellow for services to the Republican party, however brilliant his genius? If it has, then the position of Mr. Allen fails to furnish additional reason why the party now controlling the Federal offices should go. How many more Post assistant paymasters, stationed all over the country, to distort truth and debauch the public mind, are there? Here is a man paid out of the National Treasury to run a Republican paper in Terre Haute. The office he holds was created exclusively in the interests of the party. No page of modern history, in any civilization on which I ever stumbled, reveals grosser corruption. That such practices have been allowed to exist this long is a sad commentary on the temperament of the Times. The Terre Haute Express is not a disinterested witness.

LIE NAILING.

Governor Hendricks Puts Another Batch of Republican Lies to Rest.

A Sentinel reporter yesterday called the attention of Governor Hendricks to a Washington special of the Commercial Gazette copied into the Journal of Wednesday morning. Among the lies cited was one which read as follows: "He early left his church and went to another because his minister preached a loyal sermon."

The Governor laughed at this newly coined lie and exclaimed, "Well, I never belonged to but one church, and that one I belong to yet and never have left it."

"They seem to be lying about you almost as freely as during the canvass of 1876?"

"Yes," Mr. Hendricks replied "but do you notice that these lies do not stick any better than they did then?"

"They say that you were unfriendly to Mr. Lincoln, and refused to support him in his prosecution of the war?"

"Well," replied the Governor.

"I have some first-rate Republican authority to refute that story, and that is Mr. Lincoln himself. In March, 1865, only a short time before he was assassinated, I went to the White House to bid him goodbye. I was a member of the United States Senate, and that body had just adjourned and I intended coming home immediately. I frequently called to see him and was always warmly welcomed by the President. On this occasion, as I was about leaving him he took me warmly by the hand and said: "Hendricks, I know you are a democrat, but you have always treated my administration fairly, and I think it is due to say to you that in a short time things will assume a shape over there (pointing in the direction of the Potomac River), when I can have a general jubilee."

"I was so impressed," continued Governor Hendricks, "with Mr. Lincoln's broad, charitable and Christian views regarding the proper solutions of the questions growing out of the war, that when I came home I told my friends that the Democratic party would not be a distinctive organization very long; that Mr. Lincoln intended to adopt such a policy toward the South that we would be compelled to support him whether we wanted to or not, but his assassination followed shortly after that, and another line of policy was adopted. I favored the necessary appropriations to carry on the war and the encouragement of enlistments of men by bounties. I liked Mr. Lincoln very much. He and I were the best of friends."

Thus one by one the lies are disposed of. As the genial candidate for the Vice Presidency remarked, "they don't stick."

To The Dissatisfied Ones.

[Boston Pilot.]

To the dissatisfied ones we say as we have said to ourselves: Look around, and see where you are going if you leave the Democratic fold.

Democrats belong to a party of beliefs, duties, principles. Can they desert it for a party of offices, men and privileges?

Looked at with ethical or practical eyes, the exchange would be deplorable folly. The Republican party is tottering on its last legs; its work is done; it has nothing but the spoils to live for. The most selfish but the most clear-sighted of its members are flying from it, as rats desert a sinking ship. Their "moral objections" are pretense and excuse for the desertion; the same men accepted Hayes and Garfield, the one coated with a false title and the other stained with a personal history quite as dark as Blaine's.

To Irish-Americans in particular we say: What is the record of the Republican party in relation to you for the past twenty years? What American citizen of Irish birth has it protected abroad? What shameful outrages on American citizenship has it not allowed when England was the perpetrator and citizens of Irish extraction the victims?

Not one Republican has been moved to redress these astonishing evils, except President Arthur's; and he had to whisper and smile his objections, because he represented the Republican party. Mr. Blaine's voice during all those years, and when he sat in the cabinet as secretary of State, would have been powerful to correct; but it was never raised—not once.

We say to Mr. Blaine now that had he been a defender of the right of naturalized citizens when those citizens were thrown into foreign prisons, untried and uncharged, the Pilot would support him today, and a million American of the Irish race would vote for him in November.

But he did not do it, and his pretensions of fair play and friendship are now sheer humbug. He and his party have a lesson to learn from all this; and so has the Democratic party. The advantage of the
