Card of Thanks.

On behalf of the Democracy of Jasper county Ind. we in this public manner thank Messrs. Willey and Sigler for the free use of their Opera House for the holding of the Congressional Convention for the 10th district, on the 22nd of July, 1884; to the Rensselaer Band, and to the Glee Club for delightful music.
EZRA C. NOWELS—Chairman.
JAMES W. DOUTHITT, Secretary.
Jasper County Central Committee.

In accordance with previous notice, the Democratic Central Committee met at the Committee rooms, in Rensselaer, July 22nd, 1884, at one o'clock p. m. The meeting was called to order by the Chairman, and the object of the meeting stated by the Chair, to be the consideration of the changing of the time for the holding of the county delegate convention, and after a thorough discussion of the question, it was agreed by a majority vote not to change the time for holding the convention. The chairman of each township committee, (which is the first named) met on Saturday, August 2nd, 1884, and select delegates to attend the county convention, on August 9th 1884.
EZRA C. NOWELS, Chairman.
JAMES W. DOUTHITT, Secretary.

Read carefully the supplement in to-day's SENTINEL.

On Saturday, of next week, the Democratic county convention will be held in Rensselaer to place in nomination a County Ticket. Delegates will be chosen in several townships to-morrow.

According to the Delphi Times we are exceeding aged, and can lay claim to bonny Scotland as the land of our nativity. Though our long life, however, we have never been mistaken for a negro, classed as a dude or denounced as a "dampfool."

Simon says we lie when we express the wish that he may secure the radical nomination for Representative. No we don't. We sincerely hope and believe that he will get it; and suggest that we be not importuned for our reasons, as we will not give them at present.

Frank S. Beadle, of Crown point, Post Office inspector, while returning from the Republican Congressional Convention at Monticello, June 26th, lost a $12 silk umbrella. The man who took it, he thinks, got off the train at Rensselaer. The Republican says it is "the common fate," to lose articles in that way at Republican Conventions.

The following attempt at wit was designedly written for republication in the Republican at this place. Its author is never so happy as when engaged in letting off specimens of his wit, sarcasm and ridicule. To give the item vim, it was necessary that it should owe paternity to a Democratic paper published in a neighboring town. As it is altogether harmless, in order that the "head light" of its originator may continue to beam and smile, we transfer it to the columns of the Sentinel:

(Delphi Times.)

The oldest editor in the State is undoubtedly J. W. McEwen, of the Rensselaer Sentinel. Mr. McEwen was the only Scotchman in the crew that shipped with Columbus for the discovery of America in 1492, and after chronicling that auspicious event for leading European newspapers of that day, he returned to the Old World where he remained until the breaking out of the Revolutionary War. Early in this struggle he espoused the cause of freedom and enlisted with the American patriots and was the first man to discover a pass at the Delaware Water Gap. At the close of this war he established a newspaper in Bucks county, Penn., "up behind Allentown," and remained there until the country settled up and civilization began to crowd him. In the early part of the present century he located at Monticello, this State, where he imagined he would be free from the oppression of further progress. In this supposition he was nearly correct, but the construction of the Pan Handle railway and the prospects of an early completion of the Air Line brought in a host of newcomers and Mr. McEwen disposed of his establishment and removed to the everglades of Jasper county—a region that reminds him of his first exploration of the country in 1492. Mr. McEwen has been a life-long and consistent Democrat and he was so charged in the defeat of Douglas in 1860 that he registered a vow never to cut his hair, shave, or publish an original article until the disgrace was wiped out by a complete Democratic triumph. He has steadily adhered to this determination and, we must confess, now presents rather an unusual appearance, but he is brightening up now that the prospects of Democratic success are brilliant, and we are assured that in the events of the election of Cleveland and Hendricks the Rensselaer Democratic Sentinel will become one of the principal newspapers of the age. Mr. McEwen's long experience and intimate personal knowledge of the political history of the world are sufficient to give this assertion entire credence.

EDITOR SENTINEL: I wish to say through your paper to the persons who are reviving some of the campaign lies of 1882, questioning my integrity relating to the statement that I was not a temperance man but was in the habit of drinking at the bar of John G. Reynolds, in Rensselaer, the statement being made that Mr. Reynolds should have said that I had drunk at his bar. I have no language at command that can express my contempt for the person or persons that utter such loathsome falsehoods, and for the purpose of nailing the lie I quote from miscellaneous Record, No. 6, Page 93, Recorder's office, Recorded April 13th, 1883, at 3 o'clock p. m.

State of Indiana, )
Jasper County, ) ss
I, John G. Reynolds, a resident of the town of Rensselaer, in the State of Indiana, on my oath depose and say, that during the campaign of 1882, Ezra C. Nowels, a resident of said county, and State, and candidate for re-election to the office of Auditor, of said county, did not at any time during the campaign nor at any time before or since, drink or treat to the whiskey or beer at my bar, nor to any thing else, nor did he give me money to pay for the drinks for the purpose of controlling votes on election day, as I verily believe.

JOHN G. REYNOLDS,
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 5th day of March 1883.
JAMES W. DOUTHITT, [Seal]
Notary Public.

Now whatever can be the object of those slanderers, I cannot comprehend, as I am not a candidate for office, nor do I expect to be, but expect to exercise my freedom and do all I can to advance the cause of Reform, as I understand it.
EZRA C. NOWELS.

Dr. Proust, in Paris recommends people during the prevalence of cholera to avoid chills at night, long cold baths, all excesses of labor or pleasure, and iced drinks—in short everything that can cause physical depression. He advises care in the selection of drinking water, which should be boiled. He recommends abstention from raw vegetables, and remarks that both drunkenness and indigestion are predisposing causes.

"The laboring classes constitute the main part of our population. They should be protected in their efforts peacefully to assert their rights when endangered by aggregated capital, and all statutes on this subject should recognize the care of the State for honest toil and be framed with a view of improving the condition of the workingman."—Grover Cleveland, October, 1882.

We commend the nomination of James T. Saunders for Judge of the 30th Judicial Circuit. Mr. Saunders is a gentleman of fine legal ability and of unquestioned integrity. He is a Democrat but not an active politician. He is liberal and fair-minded toward all. Republicans and Democrats alike would honor the circuit by electing Mr. Saunders.—Benton Review.

In his "Secrets of the Great Whiskey Ring" General McDonald says: "It has always been a matter of curiosity among the people of this country to learn who were among the prominent men who approached the President for the purpose of having him revoke the order transferring Supervisors. I will her state that, among others, were Senators Clayton and Dorsey, of Arkansas, Morgan, of Indiana, and Logan, of Illinois.

Promise and Non-Performance.
(Irish-American.)

Mr. Blaine, not so very long since was—as United States Secretary of State in the very position in which to exercise the noble duty in behalf of several Irish-American citizens, who were locked up—untried and uncharged with crime—in English jails. What is the record? Where was the "Plumed Knight" then? One blast upon the bugle horn of his "aggressive Americanism" were worth a thousand demagogic bids from the election huskings now. But the record is a blank—as blank as Mr. Blaine's chances of fooling the public, and especially the naturalized voters, into supporting him at the coming election.

The Baptist weekly, the Examiner, says: "Grover Cleveland is now in the second year of his Chief Magistracy of the State of New York, and it is not doing too much to place him in the front rank of the best Governors the Empire State has ever had. As General Bragg said at the Chicago convention, his best commendation is the character of the enemies he has made. He has proved himself to be a State Chief Magistrate who has placed principles above party. Having done everything well he has undertaken to do, there is the best reason to believe that if elected to the Presidency of the United States he will prove himself to be equal to its high and responsible duties. He has said, what few men could say who have received the National nomination for its highest office, that it is an honor which he has never sought."

The call for the Independent Conference in this city on July 22, which we publish elsewhere, is in the right spirit. It does nothing except request all Republicans, and Independent voters "who think the interests of good government and public morals demand the defeat" of Blaine and Logan to assemble in conference to agree upon a common course of action. What that course will be there can be but little doubt. Anti-Blaine Republicans are entirely unanimous, so far as we are informed; in their determination to vote directly for Cleveland, and thus make their rebuke of unworthy Republican management as emphatic and damaging as possible.—New York Evening Post.

It is sometimes the case that parties are factionalized because of a difference of opinion upon questions of special importance, such as the tariff, currency, &c., but the Independent Republicans refuse to support Mr. Blaine because his record is that of a dishonest man. He lacks integrity. He is known to be venal, and Independent Republican papers furnish the proof that the binding obligations of an oath were not sufficient to make him tell the truth.

Calkins Calls Prohibition a Craze.
To the Editor of the Sentinel.

Sir—In as much as Major Calkins, Republican candidate for Governor, is said to have denied the correctness of his reported Chicago interview relating to the Iowa election, and Republicans are clamoring for the proof, it is well, in justice to all parties that the facts be given, leaving the good Major to dispose of the same as he may choose. In the Indianapolis Journal of July 24, 1883, on page 4 is the following:

Major Calkins on the Temperance Question.

Interview in Chicago.
"What do you think of the Democratic claim, that they will carry Iowa this year?" Major Calkins said:

"It may be partially realized. They may elect their Governor, but they will never get control of the Legislature. If Sherman is beaten for Governor, I think the Republicans at large will have reason to rejoice, for it will be the death blow to the prohibition craze that has obtruded itself into politics prematurely. We must take into consideration that there are millions of dollars involved in the liquor business, and it would hardly be right to sacrifice this large capital. The evil must be overcome gradually, and high license is the only rational method of beginning. I am a temperance man, and am to that end a high license man." The public will look with some interest to the action of many avowed Prohibitionists, at least so far as may reflect upon their vote next November. Many thousands of Christian men and women of Indiana are awaiting with anxious solicitude to hear if the several reverend gentlemen, who attended and co-operated with the recent Republican House affair, will cast their vote for Major Calkins, who denounces prohibition as "obtruding itself into politics," and a "craze," and who says that the defeat of a Prohibition candidate would afford "reason to rejoice," or will they vote for Hon. R. S. Dwiggins, an avowed Prohibitionist and standing on a platform in accordance therewith. When the Republicans who are for the good, old and Prohibition afterward place themselves in a political attitude of some consistency, it will then be time to cease the "stop thief" cry and inquire after the spiritual condition of the Democratic party. So long as Republicans are cowardly to speak away from their party bosses, that are striving to gag the voice of the people by hypocritical pretenses, and who have cast insult into the face of every Republican temperance man, and who have perpetrated the supreme indignity of grinding out a candidate for Governor in full accord with the liquor interest, they ought to close their lips and bow their faces in shame.

All papers desiring to publish the truth are requested to copy without further notice.

PROHIBITIONIST.
Rockville, Ind., July 29, 1884.

Our first visit to Rensselaer was made last Tuesday for the purpose of attending the Democratic Congressional Convention that nominated Hon. T. J. Wood for Congress. We have heard and read much of the place, but was surprised upon visiting it to find a town of such proportions, so beautifully located and so well supplied with large and substantial business houses and magnificent residences. Its citizenship is made up of an intelligent and wealthy class of people who are leaving nothing undone in the way of improvement to make known the advantages of the town and county to that class of people who are seeking pleasant homes and rich and profitable farms. Rensselaer does not boast of a grand court house, but it has a magnificent new jail, numerous fine business houses, two good hotels and a large and imposing school building. Rensselaer is in the midst of a fine agricultural district and when it secures an east and west railroad, it is destined to become one of the best cities of the State.—Rochester Sentinel.

"The safety of the Republic rests upon the integrity of the ballot," says Mr. Blaine, "Carrying Indiana is merely a question of finance," says Chairman Jones, of the Republican National Committee, a devout believer in the integrity of the ballot—and in the value of "soap,"—Brooklyn Union (Rep.)

The Boston Herald thinks the Republican party must be rich in "duddes" and "pharisees" if it can in the one city of Boston furnish 5,000 bolters on a month's notice.

There are seventeen Republican papers in Ohio, which refuse to support Blaine and Logan.

Mr. L. Strong, of Newton township, is being urged by many citizens as a very suitable person for the Democracy to place in nomination for the office of County Treasurer.

Nat Bates is being "boomed" for the Democratic nomination for County Treasurer.

For Commissioners, E. E. Rockwood and Brons. W. Harrington are favorably mentioned.

Wash Scott, of Milroy, and William Hoover, of Marion township are being urged by their respective friends for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of Jasper county.—Honest and capable either would make splendid, possibly a successful race.

Mr. Adam Hess, of Gillam township, is urged by many friends in that and other localities as a very proper candidate for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket. Ad is a first-rate Democrat, a good citizen, and very popular among his acquaintances.
