For Pros. Attorney, 30th Judicial Circuit,
DAWSON SMITH, of Benton County.

The Republican press, in their anxiety to besmirch the character and calumniate Governor Cleveland, seem to forget their beloved, the late "Moxa" Morton.

In introducing Maj. John F. Miner, of New York, (who had just returned from confinement in the Libby prison,) early in 1862, to ex-Vice President Hendricks, Mr. Lincoln said: "Mr. Hendricks is on the other side of the house politically, you know; but I have no truer friend in Washington, and he will do as much for the soldier and for his country as any man in Congress. You may take him on my endorsement."

"U. L. C." Thompson regards it a serious reflection upon him for any one to suppose that he would thwart the wishes of a majority of his party in Jasper County. The majority for judge was given for Chilcote, Thompson, preferred Ward. He hid himself to Goodland. What he did to secure the casting of his vote of this county for his favorite, we know not. Benton, too, had a candidate. The vote of Benton was thrown in the same direction, we are informed, by two gentlemen who on different occasions expressed to the editor of the Sentinel their unalterable opposition to Mr. Ward. Thompson is given credit for this move. We may safely conclude that Mr. Ward owes his nomination to "Or Simon." One good turn deserves another, and we ask again; Will not Newton County concede the nomination of Representative to him?

As Mr. Blaine has been casting a special bait for the Irish vote he has thus challenged the reopening of his record during the Know-Nothing excitement before he became a purveyor in contracts or began to get rich out of his Congressional services.

At that time, the most innocent he has known since childhood's hours, Mr. Blaine was the editor of a newspaper. As usual with such men, he had views which he expressed with the freshness necessary to the profession. His demagoguery had not then been fully developed and as he lived in a community consisting only of a small portion of foreigners, he could doubtless afford to be frank and outspoken in the expression of his real sentiments toward them. During those halcyon days he used the following language in an editorial in the Keenebec (Me.) Journal:

"We need stringent laws to regulate the Irish immigration from Europe. If the present abuses are not corrected, and corrected speedily, we shall become worse now, for more Irish reach here in a single year than were ever transported to the penal colonies in ten years. And these convicts and felons have lately got our best upon their feet before they are allowed to vote and control our elections."

And with these facts plain as the light, demagogues will tell us that our European immigration is a benefit to us. We hope, and we sincerely believe, the day is not far distant when this whole subject will be impartially reviewed by the law making power, and the just and honorable pride of being an American citizen will suffer no blot from having our paternal rights bestowed in full equality upon those who are not of our household."

It is interesting to compare these emphatic and clear-cut utterances of the editor, having no reasons for concealment, with the noisy pretensions of friendship in these later days. Yet it was during those times that the foreign-born citizens needed support and encouragement, if ever. Know-Nothing mobs were then engaged in burning houses, destroying churches, breaking up meetings, prohibiting them from voting and murdering them in almost every important city in the North. Not only could Mr. Blaine find no words in which to condemn these outrages, but he did everything in his power to keep them going. Then the Irish in this country were compared with the penal settlement at Botany Bay and characterized as "convicts and felons."

All this is now changed. In spite of Mr. Blaine and his Know-Nothing auxiliaries and associates this, the most dangerous agitation ever known in America, has been overcome, and foreign-born citizens have not only secured the rights guaranteed them by the Constitution, but they have made themselves felt as true Americans in both peace and war. They no longer need the intervention of noisy politicians to protect them from violence or to assure them the privileges of men and citizens. Neither do they need the patronage of bitter enemies who have changed only as they have become aspiring demagogues.

But it is now that Mr. Blaine pushes himself to the front with noisy pretensions of friendship in the hope that he may thus hide his inhuman record and by the aid of foreign-born votes ride to a place where he may carry out his real sentiments. He cannot, however, hoodwink intelligent men or make the black in his record of Know-Nothing times appear white with only the Mulligan letters as a kalsomine.

Not How, When And Where. When critics object to Mr. Blaine for the reason that his character is sullied, the demand is sometimes made for day, hour, and place of the alleged delinquency. If the objector doesn't happen to have a diary in his pocket with a full bill of particulars written out at length, he is not likely to answer, as he could scarcely be expected to carry this information at his to-gue's end continually.

But this argument is not conclusive, however pertinent or knockdown it may seem. Few men can tell the day of the week they were born, or married, or even the birthday of their eldest child, or when they earned their first dollar. But they are confident, nevertheless, that they were born, or married, and that their eldest son is on hand for breakfast and mischief.

So it is with Mr. Blaine's delinquencies. They know that the Fort Smith bond existed and that there was something crooked about them. They have the evidence of their intelligence concerning the Northern Pacific bonds, while the Mulligan letters, and the sunstroke, and the guano, and the South American policy of brag and bluster, have left ineffaceable impressions of suspicion. They know that the evidence was once taken and that the verdict was made up in their own minds.

There must be serious objections to a note-book and affidavit candidate. Honest men are not anxious to be put on the rack concerning the men they support whenever they meet each other. They rather prefer to take a large view of a candidate and to agree that their own affiliations are with respectability and that the general character of the nominees they favor is honorable and straightforward. They do not care to go about loaded with enough facts to carry on a high-school and then run the risk of finding some opponent who has more facts on the other side. Winning campaigns are not conducted where this kind of arguments are necessary.

CAMPAIGN BIOGRAPHIES. Wait for the Best—The Official Lives of Cleveland and Hendricks.

For the information of the public and the party, as text books for campaign speakers and as work of reference for journalists, reliable and complete campaign biographies are indispensable. The market is flooded with trash, made to sell, and the very promptness with which some of it is made ready for sale, is indisputable evidence of its worthlessness.

Very different from the ways of ordinary bookmaking are those of Hubbard Bros., the famous publishing house of Philadelphia, who announce the early publication of the lives of the Democratic candidates, together with sketches of all the former presidents and much tabular information of interest and value.

The statistical and historical part of the volume has been prepared with great care by editors chosen for their accuracy and fairness, and their compilation is invaluable to the students of American politics.

The sketches of Cleveland which comprises about 200 pages of the book, will be written by Hon. William Dorsheimer, late Lieut. Governor of New York, and now a member of Congress from that State. He was long a fellow citizen and professional associate of Mr. Cleveland in Buffalo; his personal relation with the Governor and his extended acquaintance with the scenes and associations of his earlier political experience gives Mr. Dorsheimer special advantages for the work. His scholarship and experience as a biographer, his literary and general culture, are the best guarantees of the merits of the work.

The life of Hendricks, of the Hubbard book, has been written by W. U. Hensel, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Pennsylvania, one of the editors of the Lancaster Daily Intelligencer and of The Post. Mr. Hensel is a politician of experience and a journalist of ten years active service, in which vocations he has had opportunities to fit him for the task of political biography. Immediately after the Chicago convention he applied himself to the preparation of material for the book, visiting Indianapolis, the home of Gov. Hendricks, and by his industrious and energetic efforts, collecting the fullest history of his life and public services.

All of these features, combined in one volume, will comprise a work that is invaluable for the campaign to those who want to be posted upon its issue, and yet will be well worth a permanent place in the library.

Mr. L. Strong, of Newton township, is being urged by many citizens as a very suitable person for the Democracy to place in nomination for the office of County Treasurer.

Nat Bates is being "boomed" for the Democratic nomination for County Treasurer.

For Commissioners, E. E. Rockwood and Brons. W. Harrington are favorably mentioned.

Wash Scott, of Milroy, and William Hoover, of Marion township are being urged by their respective friends for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of Jasper county.—Honest and capable, either would make splendid, possibly a successful race.

Mr. Adam Hess, of Gilliam township, is urged by many friends in that and other localities as a very proper candidate for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket. Ad is a first-rate Democrat, a good citizen, and very popular among his acquaintances.

Over one-half of the Republican committee in Dedham, Mass., have declared for Cleveland.
