Refuting Secretary McPherson's Absurd Claim to Honesty of Republican Administration.

(Washington News Dispatch to the World.)

Washington, Sept. 11.—The Democrats held a huge ratification meeting here this evening. There was an immense parade, including a large number of Democratic clubs from this city, Virginia and Maryland, accompanied by fire works, cannon, transparencies and banners. They were addressed from three stands, among the speakers being George A. Post, E. J. Ellis, Gen. Rosecranz, Senator Jones, of Florida, Phil Thompson, Casey Young and others. Mr. Post read a statement in refutation of Secretary McPherson's assertion that defalcation under the Republicans had been practically nothing. He showed that the defalcations under Lincoln, after deducting collections, were $24,857,972, the stealings under Grant, $13,139,129; under Hayes, $1,724,523; under Arthur he charged up $4,000,000 stolen by Star-rovers, but not collected through lack of energetic prosecution, and adding Burnside's steal of $85,000, Morgan's defalcation $116,000, Navy department's frauds of $200,000, the defalcation of Marshall of Pittsburgh $153,000 and defalcations of minor officers, after deducting collections from bondsmen, $1,550,800, making the total under Arthur $6,004,800, and the grand total of steals under the Republicans $45,527,625, against $24,441,829 from Washington to Buchanan inclusive.

Dudley in Ohio.

Commissioner Dudley stopped in Columbus, Ohio, the other day on his way home from Washington. It seems that he had a supply of 'soap' in his grip and stopped to place it. A special says: 'Last week an able emissary appeared upon the field, in the person of Pension Commissioner Dudley, rich in his experience in the soap campaign of Dorsey in 1880, in Indiana, and in the first money that has been brought to Ohio this year for the use of the Republicans. He was met here by Senator Plump, of Kansas, and the Republican State Central Committee was called together to hear the glad tidings that ample funds would be furnished. Governor Foster was present and gave his advice. Foster is the first man that every debauched Ohio with money in a political canvass, and he is the best agent that could possibly be selected to keep it debauched, if some one will only furnish the funds, for the year's flurries in 'Wall street have cut off his surplus cash.'

Senator Plumb evidently comes as the ambassador extraordinary from Blaine and his managers. He is in Cincinnati this week trying to form an advisory campaign committee of wealthy Republicans to act with the regular local committee, which is composed of the 'b'hoys,' and which many Republicans are afraid to trust.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Another Journal Bolts Blaine.

(Special to the New York Times.)

Cleveland, Sept. 10.—The Pottery Gazette, one of the strongest Republican papers published in Columbiana county, has come out for Cleveland and Hendricks. This journal is the organ of the boss potters, and has wielded great influence politically in the district. It has always been radically Republican.

Blaine had a good opportunity to twist the tail of the English lion, in the McSweeney case, but he didn't even have the nerve to procure a substitute to do it for him.

Cleveland German Independents.

(From the New York World.)

Cleveland, Sept. 6.—The Independent German Club, which has a membership of 3,200, held a meeting here to night and ratified the Democratic ticket. Ex-Lieut. Gov. Mueller, a former Republican leader, made a long address, in which he said:

Grover Cleveland will use his best endeavors to bring nearer to a conclusion the solution of the labor problem. His modest resources prove that higher purposes in life have guided him than the acquisition of riches, and Blaine is here again Cleveland's opposite. Who ever has heard it said of Blaine that he has ever used one of his influential positions in public life in thinking of or promoting the well being of the laboring masses; that he has ever utilized an opportunity or carried through a measure in order to better the lot of the laboring and producing people? He has better understood how to plunder them, as the jobbing business or his letters to 'My dear Mr. Fisher' show.

Senator Blaine's violent opposition to the Thurman Anti-monopoly bill and his vote against this just measure is enough to brand him as a tool in the hands of the Pacific Railroad monopolies. Indeed, his Republican colleague, Senator Edmunds, publicly charged him in consequence of the course he took on the Thurman bill with being the agent and attorney of Jay Gould.

Kind Word's for Hendricks.

Indianapolis Times (Rep.)

December 9, 1883: Hon. Thomas A. Hendricks and his wife will sail on the 12th inst. for an extended tour in Europe. Mr. Hendricks is not only one of the foremost Democrats of this State, but he is one of the foremost men Indiana has ever produced. He has for years occupied a prominent position, both in the State and in the Nation, and as he now goes away to seek rest and pleasure amid the scenes of the Old World, he will be followed by the good wishes of thousands of his fellow citizens, who will earnestly hope that he and his estimable wife may not only find the rest and pleasure they anticipate, but that they may be safely returned to their home. Indiana will always be proud of Thomas A. Hendricks. As much as men may differ from him in political views, they all accord him the possession of abilities of the highest order, and worthy all the honor he has received from his party. The Times adds its wish to those of others that Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks may escape all dangers of such journeys and eventually return to Indiana in renewed health, and filled with pleasant recollections of their trip.

An Old Commoner.

(Jan. Thru in Part Sentinel.)

Geo. W. Julian is to-day one of the grandest men of the age, and Mr. Hendricks may well say 'to be complimented by him is the highest tribute that could possibly be paid me.' By native force of character he early burst the bonds of obscurity—a widow's son in the backwoods of Indiana, and the light of his wisdom illumined the dark places and directed national thought during the night of our country's greatest perils. On all the questions now universally conceded right—the home-stead law, Know-nothingism, anti-slavery, he has spoken, not only from the highest plain of statesmanship, but with an elegance surpassed by no English classic, and the poor man of America, whether white or black, never had a sincerer or more eloquent friend.

TELL-TALE PALACES.—Washington Special to Chicago

News, Ind.: Large-sized photographs of James G. Blaine's $100,000 palace in this city have been taken and are now being distributed throughout Maine and the New England States. The object is to show how the high-toned members of Congress can accumulate money and build for themselves palatial mansions on a salary of $5,000 a year. Mr. Blaine has rented his house, which is said to be one of the most elaborately furnished in the country, to Mr. Leiter, of Chicago, for the trifling sum of $13,000 per annum.

The Mulligan letters should be photographed in connection therewith. They would undoubtedly be recognized as the key to the possession of such palaces.

It is not to be wondered at that Senator Edmunds refuses to give the man his active support, of whom he once wrote: "Whenever Thurman and I have joined hands against Jay Gould and fellows of that sort, in the Senate, Blaine has invariably started up from Gould's breast-works, musket in hand, to defend them."

While Mr. Friedly was addressing a Republican meeting the other night a Republican in the audience arose to make some remark on the tariff. 'Now that is a Democrat,' said Mr. F.; 'I can tell him by his red face,' etc. Which goes to show that you can't sometimes always tell.—Davies County Democrat.

Of Course.

(From the New York Herald, Sept. 11th.)

Mr. Stephen B. Dorsey is reported by the Sun to have but a poor opinion of Governor Cleveland.

On the other hand he thinks very highly of Mr. Blaine. Of course.

Of Mr. Blaine, The Baptist Weekly says: "The grounds on which religious and independent papers opposed his election in the first instance unhappily still remain."

The 12th Consecutive, Annual Inter State Exposition will be held in Chicago September 3 to October 18, inclusive. Except possibly, the old American Institute, the Chicago Industrial Exposition is, we believe, the only organization of its class which for a long series of years has held its exhibition without intermission, or which has been uniformly successful in the high character of its display or in financial results. Having only $163,000 from subscriptions to its capital stock in 1873, it has paid its current expenses, made all necessary repairs and expended over six hundred thousand dollars on construction and personal property accounts, and is entirely out of debt to-day. The average annual attendance of visitors paying admission is about $400,000 or 10,000 per day for forty days. No similar organization in America can show any such record of well deserved success. Like the city of Chicago and the Northwest its progress has been without parallel.

For the current year, we are informed, the applications for space have been even more numerous and urgent than ever before. The mammoth building is full to overflowing with novel and interesting exhibits in all departments. No pains or expense have been spared by the management to render the exhibition attractive and usefully educational.

All transportation lines in the northwest will give their lowest excursion rates to visitors. Admission to building, adults 25 cents; children 15 cents. The Exhibition will be open every day except Sunday from 8 A. M. to 10 P. M.
