NOTICE.

THE members of the Democratic Central Committee will meet at the Cleveland & Hendricks Club Room, in Rensselaer, on WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1884, at 1 o'clock, p. m. Let there be a full attendance. EZRA C. NOWELS, Chairman. JAMES W. DOUTHITT, Secretary.

Mr. Blaine, with his usual readiness, denied his connection with the Hocking Valley mines, but the publication of the receipt for the amount his subscription, spoils his story.

The Indianapolis Sentinel is pouring hot shot into the plumed knave. Blaine's libel suit will not be pressed. The Sentinel knows too much.

10,000 is the estimated number that greeted the Tall Sycamore, at Monticello, yesterday. In the evening a procession of 2,000 men, bearing torches paraded the street.

Twenty-eight veteran Democrats, who had voted for the old "Hero" Jackson, acted as Vice Presidents at the Rally in Monticello, yesterday. Good substantial citizens, every one of them. May their lives be spared them to participate in many more Presidential elections.

A large number of the old neighbors of Gov. Gray, have furnished affidavits to the effect that the Governor never was a member of what was known as the Know-Nothing party. But the gossip, fidgety old woman, of the Republican, still insists that she knows better. She is one of that class of creatures who believe that "a lie well stuck to" is better than to "tell the truth." She is a meek and lowly follower and admirer of James Guano Blaine, the boss liar, judging from the recent developments.

E. B. Sellers and Jno. G. Timmon, of Senator, and the latter for representative, in the adjoining district, received cordial greetings yesterday from thousands of friends. They will undoubtedly be elected by handsome majorities, as they should be. Knowing them intimately, we feel assured they will reflect great credit on the positions for which they have been named.

James C. Blaine and Barnum's Show are both exhibiting in or near this State. Blaine will slip quietly into Indianapolis, make his exit quickly, and possibly visit the skating rink at Rensselaer, witness the grand farce of a 'hog on ice,' as may be represented by the old woman of the Republican. Barnum's Greatest Show will have no good reason to follow them up.

HARD TO PLEASE.

Our republican contemporaries are hard, very hard, to please. G. Warren Fisher and James Mulligan, of Boston, recently give to the world a second edition (a third edition being in abeyance) of what are best known as the Mulligan Letters—letters of the republican candidate for President of the United States Mr. Blaine hails their publication with delight and expresses a wish that "they will be printed in every republican paper throughout the land," adding: "there is nothing in them inconsistent with the most scrupulous honor and integrity." The major and minor republican organs, with one consent, declare these letters a "perfect vindication" or their candidate, and with equal unanimity disregard their candidate's wishes to publish them. James G. Blaine may be playing "bluff," or his apologists may see through other lenses the darker disclosures of the official venality of the travelling beggar for votes, but that is not the question just here. The organs of the white feathered candidate denounce the circulation of this "perfect vindication" in the wake of Mr. Blaine's peripatetic tramp as "scandalous" and "disgraceful." Are they wiser and more astute than the "magnetic" Maine man in command of the republican hippodrome?

But this is not all the eccentricity which a study of the columns of our esteemed republican contemporaries reveals. Mr. Fisher, one of the "vindicators," of whom Mr. Blaine writes in exalted praise, and gratefully for "courtesy" and "unbounded liberality" towards him, is stigmatized by his organs among other obnoxious forms of phraseology as a "broken-down drunkard;" and of Mr. Mulligan, even after the tearful and dramatic scene exhibiting Mr. Blaine on his knees imploring Mr. Mulligan, for the sake of his wife and six children, to spare him exposure, Mr. Blaine speaks in no other than words of respect, this other "vindicator," those organs denounce as a "self-convicted liar," and both as "sharpers and thieves," and as "precious a pair of sharpers as go unhung." Why this fusillade of epithets, for we have copied but a very few of the commentaries they have exhausted Webster and Worcester to employ, if the letters are "perfect vindicators," and a fortiori, those who give them to the world his "vindicators?" Really, are not our republican contemporaries of every degree eccentrically hard to please?

Another Blaine Elector Disgusted.

Dr. Forrest, a Blaine elector of New York State, has resigned. He draws the line on Blaine. Jim is doomed. His political death will occur in November. No one will ever scratch his tombstone. It must stand for a terror for political clarifications forever. A reporter called to see Dr. Forrest in New York Monday night, and inquired his reason for declining to serve as an elector.

"There is only one reason, and I have so stated it in my letter," said Dr. Forrest. "It is because I can not conscientiously support Mr. Blaine."

"Will you state why you can not support him?"

"I would prefer not to mention my reasons. They must be patent to every body."

"Were you not aware when you were chosen elector that Mr. Blaine would be likely to receive the nomination?"

"At that time I had given the subject very little consideration. Since Mr. Blaine was nominated I have regarded his choice in every light, and after careful consideration have concluded that I could not conscientiously remain on the electoral ticket. I was in honor bound to so inform the committee, which I did."

A CORRUPT SYSTEM.

The following speech was delivered by Thomas J. Wood, member of congress from the tenth Indiana district, at Royal Center, Oct. 3:

The republican party has had full power in this government for nearly twenty-four years. During that time more of the people's money has been wasted through fraud, speculation, and bribery than in the whole seventy-two years of government administration by the democratic and whig parties. Go back four years and recount the defalcations of republican officials. They cover a shameful page in our history, and include Burnside, late disbursing officer of the post-office department, $30,000, and John Hall, United States marshal at Pittsburgh, $15,000. The list is a long one. The amount of defalcations since June 30, 1881, up to June 30, 1883, amount to nearly $3,000,000. Sixty bonds were taken in hundreds of cases, and when the official became a defaulter the attorney general ordered suit brought upon the bonds, which were found to be worthless, and this vast sum of money was lost to the government, every dollar of which came from the pockets of the people. But bad as this is the worst is not yet told. There were defalcations of government officials from June 30, 1881, to June 30, 1883, of over $1,554,000, and the attorney general, knowing the bonds of such defaulting officers to be worthless, did not sue them, but compromised with the defaulters for about $441,000 leaving a total loss to the government of over $1,413,000. The sum total of defalcations in the last three years reaches the enormous sum of $3,000,000. With this bad record before the people the republican party asks to be again trusted with public affairs. Can you trust it another four years in the face of this dishonest record? I expected nothing less than this when I saw the leaders of that party spending vast sums of money in 1880 to corrupt the people and the ballot-box. Dishonest money was then sown broadcast over the country, and the result is a general defalcation of public officials. The same unholy and corrupt system is adopted this year. Your neighbor is to be corrupted, if possible, by money—money wrung from 120,000 office holders in defiance of the civil-service law. Your elections are to be corrupted. Your ballot-box to become a mockery of honesty and honest men. How will the people enforce reform and purity in the administration of this government when the ballot-box, the only peaceful resort of a free people to remedy evils, becomes

A RECEIPTABLE FOR DISHONESTY

nd corruption? Will the honest men of this country permit this corrupt system to be repeated this year? Will rascality supplant the honesty of the people? There has not been a fair and honest presidential election in this country for twelve years. Bribery, fraud, corruption, and general dishonesty, brought about by the force of unholy money, has carried the last three presidential elections. How long is the voice of the workingmen, the farmer, the mechanic and the artisan to be stifled in this way? Their newspapers publish anything, true or false. Their workers and strikers labor to slander, defame, and vilify. Can such a party be longer trusted? The republican party in congress defies every effort to reduce the government taxes. It is known as the high-tax party. The contest this fall is between high tax and low tax. The republican party wants a protective tariff, which means a high tax on imports. The democratic party advocates a lower tax, one sufficient to raise money enough to support this government and no more. It does not believe in protection beyond this amount. That is enough for the consumer to pay. What party compels the workingmen to pay $3 for $2 worth of sugar? Is 50 per cent. tax high on sugar or not? What party compels the laboring man to pay $2 for a $20 suit of woolen clothes? Is 40 per cent. on woollens a high tax or not? and so on through the list of two thousand articles. We want less tax, less defalcation and better government. This high tax on all the workingmen was not put there that he eats back a part of his daily wages for the benefit of the monopolist. Let him count the increase of price on all he buys during the year by virtue of high taxes, and subtract the sum from his daily wages, and he will find that he is less paid, at the end of the year, than the laborers of England. The laboring man does not grow rich by high-tariff tax. Who does? Not the farmer or mechanic. The monopolist is the man benefited by the high-tariff-tax. He is prosperous from the earnings of others that he has paid nothing for. Is this true? Go over to the store and you find one price for sugar, whether it is the imported or domestic article. The imported article has paid 50 per cent. tax while the domestic article has not yet they both sell for one price. The manufacturer therefore of the high tax and does not pay one cent of it. Go to the dry-goods store and you find the same thing. The imported and domestic article are in price side by side. One has paid a high government tax, the other no tax. The wealth of the country does not pay the government tax. It is paid when imported goods are purchased. The consumer pays it when he buys the goods that have paid the government tax. Now the great railroad wealth and bank wealth, and other corporate wealth pays scarcely anything of this government tax. These wealthy corporations buy none of these taxed goods and it therefore goes free of bearing a just proportion of the burdens of the government. The poor men pay it when they purchase the goods. A poor man will purchase about the same amount of woolen goods per year as a man worth $100,000 in an average family. Here the poor man pays as much government tax as the rich man. It is so on every article. Ought not this unjust and unequal law be reformed? The republican party says no. It works on the side of wealth all the while. What party created the monopolies of this country? They were created by high taxes—nothing else. The government made taxes on two thousand articles high to build up home monopolies. Do you favor such a policy? If so vote the republican ticket. The democratic party wants a fair and just reduction of government taxes. High taxes are unnecessary to bring sufficient revenue and unnecessary to protect our infant industries. They will be protected enough by a revenue tariff. That will give them over $75,000,000, protection is that not enough? What decent republican cares to give them more protection than this? A protective tariff protects a few people who need no protection. The protected few are financially the ablest of our people. A tariff tax high enough to support the government gives them ample protection.

TO FARMERS.

[From the Albany Argus.]

For many years your votes have kept the Republican party in power. The policy of that party has enriched and protected the monopolies of the country but has it improved your condition?

While the Coulds, Blaines, Dorseys, Elkins, Millers, Bradys Cornells and other monopolies have become millionaires by the use they have of your votes, have you, too, been growing rich?

While your votes have brought princely incomes of hundreds and thousands of dollars a day to them, how has your daily income increased?

Four years ago you were appealed to by these monopolies who have captured the Republican party, on the tariff scare, and you were told that ruin and devastation would follow Democratic success, and that prosperity and plenty would result from Republican victory.

You voted for the policy of the sharks who run the Republican party and how have you been benefited?

Gould and Blaine and Elkins and Warner Miller and the monopolists in your own vicinity have grown rich but how is it with you?

Is your farm worth more to day than it was then?

Is it easier to meet your payments and your interests to-day than it was then?

Do you get more for your butter, cheese, grain, pork, and other produce than then?

Do you get your clothing, groceries, tools and what you have to buy cheaper than then?

Have your taxes been reduced and expenses lightened?

Does your daily toil do much more than barely support you and your family?

Are the times good with you?

If not, is it not time for you to think of your own interests and vote for your own benefit than that of Mr. Gould and Mr. Millionaire Blaine?

Your own experience ought to prove to you that the policy of the party at Washington. The policy of the past is at Extravagance and porfoggia and careless methods have too long prevailed. The rich thrive and the poor barely live. A halt is necessary.

The farmers of New York know Grover Cleveland and they know he is the man to bring back the government at Washington to simpler methods.

A poor man himself, his sympathies and his belief lead him to enforce strict economy in public administration.

With him every dollar is weighed as so much from the proceeds of the toil of the people.

The farmers of New York know that when this city was suffering from the results of extravagance in its affairs, Grover Cleveland was called by his fellow-citizens, irrespective of party, to correct the abuse. They know that so marked was his fidelity to the charge that the people of the State at the next election made him its executive by 194,000 majority and the Republican paper at his home said "Buffalo loses the best mayor it ever had." They know that with general accord before he was nominated for president the people of this State, and the newspapers of all parties said "Cleveland is a good governor." They know that his appointments and his vetoes have received the praise of all men. They know that he has had the courage of his convictions and his convictions have been right. They know that every measure promising aid to the farmers has received his cordial support. They know that he approved the bill to prevent the sale of bogus butter and he is forcing cloverleafing out of competition with dairy interests. They know that, in every position, he has been honest and true to the people, and that, under his guidance the management of affairs of the city of Buffalo was transformed from corruption and extravagance to honesty and economy, and his administration of the great state of New York has won the praise of all the people.
