

Democratic Sentinel

FRIDAY APRIL 3 1885.

Charles H., eldest son of Ex-Congressman T. J. Wood, died at Crown Point, March 20th, aged 14 years. He is said to have been a lad of amiable and generous qualities.

Vice President Hendricks' choice for postmaster at Indianapolis, Hon. Aquilla Jones, has received the appointment, and now we suppose the "kid" of the Republican cannot "forgive him (Mr Cleveland) for almost anything." Bad! Too bad!

"If Mr. Cleveland will really set down hard on the hypocritical old Hoosier copperhead, Hendricks, and stay there, we can forgive him for almost anything."

The above literary gem is from the verdant brain of the "kid" of the Republican. The "kid" is a "sooner," and frequently betrays his dislike for "Hoosiers"—particularly distinguished Democratic Hoosier Statesmen.

At Kansas City, Missouri, on Thursday of last week, Orth Stein, formerly of Lafayette, charged with killing George Fredericks, in June, 1882, was acquitted. On a former trial he was adjudged guilty and sentenced to twenty-five years imprisonment. A new trial was granted with the above result.

The appointment of our old friend, Rufus Magee, Senator from Cass county, as Minister to Norway and Sweden, is a well merited compliment, worthily bestowed. The Senator has the ability, and will no doubt satisfactorily perform the duties incumbent upon him in the new field of operations. Below we copy from the Indianapolis Sentinel the proceedings had in the State Senate on reception of the news of his appointment:

The "kid" is very fearful that Mackin and Gallaher, charged with ballot-box stuffing in Chicago, may finally escape. There was one other, we believe, charged with the same crime, only more guilty, who was not even brought to trial. But then he is a Republican. Strange the "kid" can see no wrong when perpetrated by the leaders of his party—Agnes Jenkins, T. L. Linkston, and the eight associated with them in the theft of the Presidency for Fraud Hayes.

John W. Coffee, who has been on trial at Crawfordsville for the murder of James McMurden and wife, in January last, was on Wednesday declared guilty with the death of the death penalty.

Thirty-five years ago Dr. Sundelahl was pastor of Presbyterian church in Buffalo and came from that city to Washington. Among those who attended his church there was Mrs. Cleveland, the President's mother, and in all probability the little boy Grover was often taken to hear the man who will now preach to him as President.

The Chicago Times says that "When the president comes to look around for examples of "offensive partisanship," his attention may be profitably turned to the case of the convicted ballot-box stuffers in Chicago. There are, as the public learned by the trial and verdict, three of them; but since the jury performed its office the existence of one of the three seems to have been forgotten. Yet this one was, as the prosecution was forced to show, the keystone of the conspiracy. Without his aid the other plotters would have plotted in vain. That he was more guilty than the rest need not be urged, though the fact that he was a trusted public officer might be thought good evidence of deeper turpitude than that of his companions, who held no public trust. Certainly it would be absurd to claim that he was less guilty than they. Naturally there is a public curiosity to know why he was overlooked when the others were sentenced; why his bail is permitted to remain at a low figure while the others are held for $50,000. The only explanation visible is that he is thus favored because he is a republican. "Offensive partisanship" could hardly be more offensive than it seems to be in this case."

Senator Harrison paid a neat compliment to Rufus Magee yesterday afternoon, by telegraphing to Senator Miller, asking him to use his personal influence in getting the Senate to confirm Magee's appointment.—[Indianapolis News.]

The bill providing that county Clerks and prosecuting Attorneys may issue subpoenas for witnesses, during court vacations, to appear before the Grand Jury was passed by the Senate Tuesday. The bill designed to catch that class of witnesses who make visits to neighboring counties every time the Grand Jury meets.

Monticello Herald: A telegram was received at Delphi Tuesday evening, stating that Mrs. Kate Harley had been heard from in Howard county. She is reported as a raving maniac. Her husband has offered $500 for her recovery, making, with the reward advertised by the Mayor of Delphi, the sum of $700.

Senator Campbell's bill to enable persons having claims against the State to prosecute the same before the Circuit and Superior Court was passed by the House Tuesday by a very decided vote. The general sentiment is that the measure will prove an economic one, as much time in every session is consumed in disposing of this class of business.

A dispatch from Logansport to the Indianapolis Sentinel says that the citizens of Logansport feel gratified and honored that Senator Rufus Magee has been appointed Minister Resident to Stockholm. The news of his appointment was received with much pleasure Tuesday noon. The best citizens unite in congratulating Senator Magee on his appointment.

The joint resolution for amending the Constitution by regulating the terms of State officers so that they shall hold for terms of four years each, and making them ineligible to re-election, was called up in the House Tuesday afternoon and passed by a vote of 76 to 6. The joint resolution relating to county officers, making like provisions, has been passed by both bodies, and the two amendments will doubtless be submitted at the same time to a vote of the people. The unanimity with which these resolutions have been passed in the two houses seems to indicate a demand on the part of the people for such a change, and the friends of the measures are satisfied that the people will adopt them.

CIVIL SERVICE AND TENURE OF OFFICE.

The Washington Editorial correspondent speaking of the binding force of the tenure of office act, says:

Not one-tenth of the Government employees are affected by the civil service bug-bear, and the tenure-of-office law goes for nothing. If these statements are true, and they can be proved to be so, where is the necessity for allowing members of the Republican party to draw the salaries while the Democrats are supposed to do the voting? The tenure-of-office act was passed to retain Republicans in office when President Johnson, returning to his first love as a Democrat, proposed to turn many of them out. It is a Republican effort in the interest of the Republican party, and it is passing strange to find Democrats weak enough to be governed by it. Such fledglings, whether officials or civilians, are not aware that in order to give Grant full sway this law was so repealed or modified by a Republican Congress that the Senate confirmation is not now essential to holding office. The power of the President to remove and appoint at pleasure is yet intact, and on this point Sections 1,767, 1,768 and 1,774 of the Revised Statutes of the United States are very explicit. Let our leading officials read them; let the Supreme Court, if necessary, pass upon them; let everything be done that is not inconsistent with right, so that the rascals may be turned out and their places given to honest and deserving Democrats. To this sentiment the "just so" of millions of American citizens can be had for the asking.

Congratulating Mr. Magee.

It would be difficult to depict the manifestations of delight in the State Senate yesterday in approval of Hon. Rufus Magee's appointment as Minister of this country to the courts of Sweden and Norway. Senator Foulke congratulated the Senate and the country on the excellence of the selections, saying that it disclosed the highest type of wisdom on the part of the appointing power. He was followed by Senator Johnson, of Tippecanoe, Senator Thompson, of Marion, and Senator Campbell, of Hendricks who declared that the Democrats, in the measure of their enthusiasm, did not exceed the Republicans.

After a short recess during which Mr. Magee's hand was shaken in hearty congratulation, Speaker Jewett spoke alluding to the fact that he and the gentleman this day honored, something over twenty years ago were students together in the State University. Then, as now, continued Mr. Jewett, young Magee was noted for his industry and truth, and his aversion to every character of artifice and chicanery. The integrity that has characterized his action in this body won the friendship of his fellow-students. Tears that could not be concealed attested Mr. Magee's feelings, which to have avoided in response to a tribute so cordial and sincere, he must have been something more than human. Having recovered a Sentinel reporter said: "I understand that you have not solicited, and that you were surprised by the appointment. Who suggested your name to appointing power?"

"Mr. McDonald," was the answer. "I owe all that I am to that grand man. Through his influence twenty years ago I secured a place on the editorial force of the Sentinel, and from that day to this he has been my best friend."

As an evidence of Mr. Magee's popularity with his brother Senators, the Senate took a recess, after adopting in the order given the following resolutions:

By Senator Smith of Jennings:

Resolved, That the Indiana Senate congratulate President Cleveland for his good judgment in selecting the Senator from Cass, Hon. Rufus Magee to the position of Minister to Norway and Sweden, and that the Senate now take a recess for ten minutes in honor of the Senator from Cass.

Senator Johnson of Tippecanoe:

Whereas, The President of the United States has appointed Hon. Rufus Magee, the Senator from Cass, American Minister to the court of Sweden and Norway.

Resolved, That the Senate of Indiana express the great satisfaction and entire approbation of this appointment, and consider it a fit tribute to the eminent ability and worth of one of its most prominent members.

Resolved, That the Senate of Indiana cordially congratulates Hon. Rufus Magee on the distinguished honor conferred upon him by this appointment.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be and hereby is instructed to forward certified copies of these resolutions both to the Secretary of State, Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, and to Hon. Rufus Magee.

By Senator Foulke:

Resolved, That the Senate unanimously and with out distinction of party communicate to the our sense of the honor conferred on our body, as well as of the eminent fitness of the appointment of the Hon. Rufus Magee as Minister resident of the United States to Stockholm, and that we feel assured that in this appointment the United States will be most ably and fitly represented at the court of Stockholm.

WORK FOR JUDGE LYNCH.

Grave Times at the Capitol.

Austin, Texas.—Not a night has passed this week without the commission of from one to three burglaries, attended with several attempts to outrage. About midnight last night two negroes broke into the servant's room of Col. J. H. Pope and assaulted two pretty Swede domestics. The ruffians fired one shot which narrowly missed the face of one of the girls, and then seizing her inflicted severe bodily injuries. They were prevented from accomplishing their diabolical purpose by the appearance of Attorney-General Templeton, when they fled in the dark. Subsequently one of the girls returned to her room, and had scarcely entered before the scoundrels assaulted her the second time and shot her in the back, inflicting a wound which will probably prove fatal. The whole Swedish population is aroused, and has raised a reward of $200 for the arrest of the perpetrators of the infamous deed.

The servant girl of County Attorney Morris, who was absent from home, was assaulted last night, but her cries brought a gentleman to her relief and the assailants fled.

Mr. Dudley Wooten's residence was visited for the like purpose, but the servant girl saved herself at the point of a revolver.

Negro ruffians also visited the home of Col. Rutherford, but the alarm was given and they retreated.

These continued outrages have aroused the indignation of the white population, and a vigilance committee is talked of. If the guilty parties are discovered there is hardly a doubt that several lynchings will follow. The entire town is in arms and trouble between the whites and negroes is feared. It is believed that the latter are making a systematic effort to run all white domestics out of the city, although a number of colored servants have suffered. Severe consequences are inevitable, unless the outrages cease.

Frederick Zard, Sr., died Tuesday last at the residence of his son, near Marlboro, in this county, aged about 94 years. He was found dead by the person who entered the room with his breakfast.
