

FARM NOTES.

AN Indian fruit-grower says he put five moles in his strawberry patch of five acres to catch grubs, and they did the work so effectively that he had not a dozen plants injured by grubs and none hurt by moles. Perhaps if the experiment was tried more generally the results would be found fully as satisfactory.

PHILIP SNYDER, Vineland, N. J., thinks that poultry will not protect fruit trees from the attacks of curculio. He has tried to induce his hens to eat the curculio; but even when the latter were temptingly displayed on clean white plates, the aesthetic fowls disdainfully refused to have aught to do with the little curled-up pests.

THE Germantown Telegraph makes a suggestion which will probably seem to many old farmers novel if not unwarranted, when it says that in arranging farm-buildings it will pay well to look almost as much to the preservation of the manure as of the hay or grass, and those whose buildings have no provision for this purpose cannot spend $25 or $50 better than in putting up a shed under which the manure-heap may be protected against these adverse influences.

THE Angora goat is now successfully bred in California, Texas, Georgia, Virginia, Kentucky, and several of the other Southern States and Western Territories. Experiments in crossing the Angora upon the common goats of the country, and thus grading up the latter to a profitable wool-bearing animal, have proved quite promising. It is claimed that the climate of California suits these animals so well that they improve after a few generations and become harder and better than in their native mountains in Asia.

ONE of the most annoying pests with which growers of plants have to contend is the green-fly. On geraniums, cyclamen, and primulas it does not often appear, and from them can be easily washed. For plants on which insects appear, a dip into tobacco-stem water will be found an excellent thing. For plants in bloom, a fumigation by burning tobacco-stems in a barrel in which the plants have been placed will be found effectual. Frequent fumigations, but not too strong, are found to be best.

VARIOUS devices or remedies are given in the papers from time to time, to prevent forked apple trees from splitting. Iron bolts are inserted; iron bands are employed; ropes are used to draw the parts together; branches are drawn together and interlaced, etc. Prevention is best, and well-formed heads will not split down. Two main branches, diverging from each other at an acute angle, should not be permitted. An even and spreading head will not split, nor will any tree be liable to injury if not allowed to overbear. The practice of propping up the limbs of fruit trees indicates that the trees are not well trained, or that they are allowed to overbear, or both.

RUST.—Rust is called the "farmer's most active enemy" by the American Agriculturist. It works all hours of the twenty-four and during all seasons. In some parts of our country, where farmers leave their machinery outdoors, the loss by rust is enormous, and in nearly every township in Michigan, it is safe to say, there is agricultural machinery exposed to the action of rust. The Agriculturist says: "It is certain that if the farmers of any State would expend $1,000 for paint next year for this purpose, they would save $10,000 now likely to be utterly lost." The "purpose" spoken of is that of giving the metal and wood work of machinery a good coat of paint.

DISCUSSING the question of how to bring colts to maturity prepared for many years of usefulness, Prof. Knapp, President of the Iowa Agricultural college, says the farmers and horsemen of that State annually waste $15,000,000 by overfeeding their colts and young horses. He declares that two quarts of oats and two ears of corn twice a day is liberal feeding, but the colt would eat twice as much and not be so strong. Giving more grain makes rapid growth, but it is like stuffing an animal for market. When you desire to produce horses for endurance or breeding they must be matured more slowly. Barrenness can be produced nine times out of ten by this stuffing process. It ruins the health of stock of all kinds.

HOUSEKEEPERS' HELPS.

BROILED QUAIL.—After dressing, split down the back, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and lay them on a gridiron, the inside down. Broil slowly at first. Serve with cream gravy.

SPONGE CAKE.—Three eggs, one cup sugar, one cup flour, three table-spoonfuls sweet milk, two table-spoonfuls melted butter, two heaping teaspoonfuls baking powder, one-half teaspoonful extract of lemon. Baked in layers, this makes a very nice jelly cake.

CHEAP FRUIT CAKE.—Soak one large cupful of dried apples over night in a little water; take out, chop as fine as raisins, add one cup raisins, cook them in one cup molasses until well preserved, drain off molasses and add to it four eggs, one cup sugar, one cup butter, one cup sour milk, two teaspoonsoda, one-half nutmeg, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful cloves, flour to make a stiff batter, add fruit and bake in a slow oven.

METROPOLITAN CAKE.—Light part: Two cups sugar, three-fourths cup butter, one cup sweet milk, two and one-half cups flour, whites of five eggs, three teaspoonfuls baking powder. Bake in two cakes. Dark part: One-half cup molasses, one-half cup flour.

one cup raisins, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful cloves, two large spoonfuls of the light part. Bake in one cake and place between the two light cakes with jelly or frosting.

CHICKEN CROQUETTES.—One cold boiled chicken chopped fine; then take a pint of sweet milk, and when the milk is boiled stir into it two large table-spoonfuls of flour made thin in a little cold milk; after the flour is well cooked with the milk, put in a piece of butter the size of an egg, add salt and cayenne pepper; stir all well into the chicken; roll up with your hand, and dip first into an egg beaten up, then into cracker rolled fine, and fry in hot tallow (fresh tallow, half and half lard, is very nice).

ALMOND PUDDING.—Turn boiling water on three-fourths of a pound of sweet almonds; let it remain until the skin comes off easily; rub with a dry cloth; when dry, pound fine with one large spoonful of rose water; beat six eggs to a stiff froth with three spoonfuls of fine white sugar; mix with one quart of milk three spoonfuls of powdered crackers, four ounces of melted butter and the same of citron cut into bits; add almonds, stir all together and bake in a small pudding dish with a lining of pastry. This pudding is best when cold. It will bake in half an hour in a quick oven.

Are You Going To New Orleans Or Florida?

If so you can go via the Money Route via Louisville or Cincinnati.

and see the Mammoth Cave, Nashville, Blount Spring, Birmingham, Montgomery, Mobile, and the Gulf coast for the same money that will take you through the dreary, uninhabited Mississippi swamps; we are confident you cannot select a line to the South enjoying half the advantages that are possessed by the Monon Route and its Southern connections.

No one should think of going South without visiting the Mammoth Cave, the great natural wonder of this continent. So much has been written of this world famous wonder, that it is impossible to say anything new in regard to it—it cannot be described; its caverns must be explored, its darkness felt, its beauties seen, to be appreciated or realized. It is the greatest natural curiosity—Nature not excepted—and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottos must be a fool or a demigod. From Mobile to New Orleans (141 miles) the ride along the Gulf coast is alone worth the entire cost of the whole trip. In full sight of the Gulf all the way, pass Ocean Spring, Mississippi City, Pass Christian Bay, St. Louis, and Beauvoir, the home of Jeff Davis.

When you decide to go South make up your mind to travel over the line that passes through the best country and gives you the best places to stop over. This is emphatically the Monon Route, in connection with the Louisville and Nashville and the Cincinnati Southern Railways. Pullman Palace Sleepers, Palace Coaches double daily trains. The best to Cincinnati, Louisville, New Orleans or Florida. For full information, descriptive books, pamphlets, etc., address any Agent of the Company, or ROBERT EMMETT, District Passenger Agent, No. 26 So. Illinois Street, Indianapolis Ind.

I desire to call the attention of farmers and breeders of Norman Horses, that I now have two Stallions, equal, if not superior, to any in the county of the same blood.
