

A HELPLESS MAN HELPED.

At Greenacres, Ind., an hour's ride from Indianapolis, lives Mr. D. L. Southard, a gentleman well known throughout Indiana. Among other honorable positions which he holds is that of Trustee of the De Pauw University. Mr. Southard is the brother-in-law of Bishop Bowman, of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

For many years Mr. Southard was a martyr to rheumatism in its most afflictive form. Up to July, 1883, he was nearly helpless, and could move only with great pain. At that time Bishop Bowman, having seen how greatly the Rev. Mr. Keely, of Indianapolis, had been relieved by the new remedy, Athlophoros, brought Mr. Southard a bottle of that medicine, and advised him to try it.

Mr. Southard's experience, resulting from his trial of Athlophoros, was thus stated at a recent interview. Bishop Bowman happened to be visiting Mr. Southard at the time, and the exchange of ideas and opinions as to rheumatism and the radical remedy for it, was free and pleasant.

Said Mr. Southard: "I had for years been suffering with rheumatic pains. My arms and legs were swollen, and the pain was sharp and constant. I was unable to dress myself, or even to put on my stockings. My wife had to lift me and turn me in bed. Bishop Bowman brought me a bottle of Athlophoros. I hardly dared to hope for any benefit from it, for I had taken so many medicines.

"I began to take the Athlophoros first as directed. At that time I was suffering with a terrible pain. In a few hours there was a remarkable change. I broke out into a profuse perspiration, and had a strange feeling of relief. In a few hours more all my pain was gone. I could stretch my legs and move my joints as I had not been able to do for a long time. It seemed wonderful, after all my experience, that any medicine could have such effects. I feared that this was of such power that it would go to my vital parts and end my life. Knowing not what might be the result, I quietly prepared myself for the final change and calmly awaited it. But, instead of putting an end to me the Athlophoros only put an end to the pain. What a new and delightful experience it was to be without pain!

"I gave a letter to the Athlophoros concern, which was published. It brought me a great many inquiries by mail from various parts of the country. I wish I could show you some of those letters, but I was clearing out my desk the other day, and I destroyed the whole pile of them. One was from a man in Winchester, Ind., whose wife was suffering agony. I directed him where to get the medicine, and it soon made her well. The wife of Prof. Goblin, of the University, was suffering with rheumatism, and Athlophoros cured her, as well as a good many others.

"At times I would have return of my rheumatism, but nothing like that I formerly had. Each attack was lighter. Each time I fought it with Athlophoros, and got the better of it. Now I have for a year enjoyed good health and freedom from pain. I took in all ten or twelve bottles of the medicine, and if I were again to be attacked by rheumatism would take more."

Bishop Bowman, on being asked "was the relief which Mr. Southard experienced more than you had expected?" replied: "Certainly it was, for I had not expected anything. I brought him the Athlophoros because I had seen that it had done so much good to Mr. Keely and others in Indianapolis. It seemed a last resort, for Mr. Southard's case was such a severe one that I had little or no hope of even giving him relief. But seeing the completeness of his cure I have recommended the medicine to others. I have had no occasion to use it myself, for I have not had rheumatism and am in excellent health. Of all those to whom I have recommended it I have heard of only one instance in which decided benefit was not gained. I consider Athlophoros a wonderful medicine."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

Napoleon's Judgment.

It was during the unsettled times that preceded the great French revolution of 1848 that one of Mr. Rogers' breakfasts was attended by Prince Louis Napoleon Bonaparte, afterward Napoleon III.; Dr. Whately, the Protestant Archbishop of Dublin; Lord William Pitt Lennox, the son of the Duke of Richmond, and myself. The talk of the breakfast-table turned a great deal upon French politics and the probability, more or less imminent, of a revolutionary outbreak in Paris, consequent upon the unwise opposition of Louis Philippe and his too obsequious Minister.

In reply to a question I told the Prince that Beranger, who knew the temper and sympathized with the opinions of the people, had predicted the establishment of a republic, consequent upon the downfall of the monarchy, within less than a twelvemonth. Prince Napoleon remarked that "if there were barricades in the streets of Paris, such as those by which his way to the throne was won in 1830, the King would not give orders to disperse the mob by force of arms." "Why do you think so?" asked Mr. Rogers. "The King is a weak man, a merciful man. He does not like bloodshed. I often think he was a fool not to have me shot after the affair of Strasbourg. Had our cases been reversed, I know that I would have had him shot without mercy." I thought little of this remark at the time, but in after years, when the exiled Prince became the powerful Emperor, my mind often reverted to this conversation, and I thought if King Louis Philippe had done what the Prince considered he ought to have done—and as he would have been fully justified by law, civil and military, as well as by state policy, in doing—the whole course of European history would have been changed.—Gentleman's Magazine.

A Grinding Monopoly.

"Why, Jones, what a stranger you are. Where have you been so long?" "I haven't been able to be out for the last two years. You see, the party for whom I have been working does not deem it proper to allow his workmen outside the building." "A grinding monopoly; no wonder you left them. For whom were you working?" "For the State."

"Oh; good-by."—Boston Times.

Worse than Firearms.

The editor of an Omaha paper, in commenting on several cases in that city where children died from the effects of taking cough syrup containing morphia, remarks that opiates, poisons, and narcotics are more dangerous than firearms. Mothers should note this, and, furthermore, that different Boards of Health, after making careful analyses, have certified that the only purely vegetable preparation of this kind, and one that is in every way harmless, prompt, and effective, is Red Star Cough Cure. Mayor Latrobe, of Baltimore, and the Commissioner of Health have publicly indorsed this valuable discovery.

A Devil Fish One Hundred Feet Long.

Capt. Keene states that, when fishing on the Grand Bank, in latitude 44 degrees north, longitude 50 degrees west (approximately), he found floating at the surface near his vessel one of the large squid, the body of which, measured as accurately as it could be from a dory, was fifty feet long, while the tentacles, all of which were intact and uninjured, were longer than the body, making the entire length more than 100 feet. The tentacles were larger around than the body of a stout man. He cut the squid up and boated aboard three dory-loads, probably about three tons' weight, and he estimates that there were at least one or two more boat-loads which he left to float away. I had previously heard of fishermen finding pieces of tentacles, etc., which might belong to animals nearly or quite as large as the one above mentioned, but I have never before met with any one who has had the fortune to see entire such a kind of mollusk. The information which he furnishes seems to be of more than ordinary importance, since it enables us to form more accurate estimates of the maximum growth attained by these great "devil fish."

Alternately Shaken and Scorched.

By the paroxysms of chills and fever, the wretched sufferer for whom quinine has been prescribed, essays in vain to exterminate the dreadful disease with that hurtful palliative, which at best only mitigates the violence of the fits, and eventually proves highly injurious to the system. In order to effect a thorough cure of malarial fever, whether intermittent or remittent, or to render the system impregnable to its attacks, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters should be used daily. That this medicine is a searching eradicator of disease, generated by miasma, and a reliable safeguard against them, is a fact so widely recognized in this and other countries that to adduce evidence in support of it is unnecessary; but were it either essential or desirable to do so, it may well be supposed that from the testimony corroborative of its claims, which has been accumulating during the last twenty-five years and over, sufficient proofs might be gathered to convince the most inveterate skeptic.

Broken-Hearted.

A man bought, by weight, a turkey from an old negro. When he took the fowl home he discovered some five or six pounds of lead in the cavity reserved for oysters. Indignant at such an outrage, he sought the negro and exclaimed:

"Look here, you old thief, what did you mean—"

"Doan say nuffin, boss. I'se broken-hearted."

"What's the matter wid you?"

"Wife got drowned in de river."

"I'm sorry for that."

"Oh, it's awful, sah! Ah! Lawd, whut's goin' to come o' my po' chillun?"

The gentleman went out, and the negro said: "Didn't make so much of dem blame shot. Cos' me ten cents er poun'. Dese white folks harder un' harder ter git erlong wid every day."

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Consumption, and Remedy.

Of all the multitude of fearful ills that prey upon and destroy the human race, consumption stands out with distinctive prominence as the most alarming. A cold at first, then a neglected cough leads to the development of this scourge of mankind. One remedy that has survived the test of trial is Allen's Lung Balm, compounded from the purest ingredients and free from all combinations of opium. For coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, and all other affections of the throat and lungs it stands unrivaled. It approaches so nearly a specific that, with the common sense directions around each bottle strictly complied with, ninety-five per cent. of consumptive cases are permanently cured by this invaluable remedy. The safety of every family would be consulted by keeping a bottle of Allen's Lung Balm in the house and have it ready for use when coughs, colds, and croup make their unwelcome intrusion.

Marvelous Restorations.

The cures which are being made by Dr. Starkey & Pelen, 1109 Girard street, Philadelphia, in Consumption, Catarrh, Neuritis, Bronchitis, Rheumatism, and all chronic diseases, by Compound Oxygen, are indeed marvelous. If you are a sufferer from any disease which your physician has failed to cure, write for information about this Treatment.

GOLDEN SEAL BITTERS.

Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civilized life. A weak, dyspeptic stomach acts very slowly or not at all on any kinds of food, gases are extricated, acids are formed and become a source of pain and disease, until discharged. To be dyspeptic is to be miserable, hopeless, depressed, confused in mind, forgetful, irascible, drowsy, weak, languid, and useless. It produces Headache, Pain in Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of Stomach, Bad Taste in Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of Heart, Inflammation of Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and an indigestion of the bowels. Dyspepsia invariably yields to the vegetable remedies in GOLDEN SEAL BITTERS, the great blood and nerve restorer and health-giver. In these complaints there is no equal. We warrant a cure. For Good Purposes.

Mrs. A. J. M. Dauphin, of 1139 Ridge Ave., Philadelphia, is well known to the ladies of that city from the great good she has done by means of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She writes Mrs. Pinkham of a recent interesting case: "A young married lady came to me suffering with a severe case of Prolapsus and Ulceration. She commenced taking the Compound, and in two months was fully restored. In proof of this she soon found herself in an interesting condition. Influenced by foolish friends, she attempted to evade the responsibilities of maternity. After ten or twelve days she came to me again, and she was indeed in a most alarming state and suffered terribly. I gave her a tablespoonful of the compound every hour for eight hours until she fell asleep; she awoke much relieved and violently better. She continued taking the Compound, and in due season she became the mother of a fine healthy boy. But for the timely use of the medicine she believes her life would have been lost."

Mr. William W. Chadwick, of Hatchville, Conn., writes under date of June 14, 1880, to Dr. Kennedy to say that the use of "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" has cured him of Gall Stones, from which he had experienced everything but comfort for a long time. Mr. Chadwick felt wholly cured when he wrote, and says: "I have had no pain for six months and have also regained my flesh and can stand a fair day's work. I recommend 'Kennedy's Favorite Remedy' to any one suffering from a Deranged Liver." Grateful patients are common. Dr. Kennedy is daily in receipt of letters from them, expressing similar sentiments. These letters are spontaneous and put in all varieties of phraseology, but invariably setting forth one thing—the value of "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" for many forms of disease. A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

If you are suffering from general debility, nervous prostration, sinking spells, etc., superinduced by impure blood, weak kidneys and liver, etc., do not resort to alcoholic compounds, nor use remedies that cause too great activity of the parts affected. It is far more wise to use a mild alternative like Dr. Guy's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla. This remedy contains nothing injurious to the most delicate constitution, and its use gradually builds up and strengthens, while diuretic and cathartic compounds tear down, wear out and destroy.

Dr. Guy's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla restores impaired or lost organic functions to their normal condition, and it invariably gives satisfaction to all who use it. Do not forget that any druggist will procure the remedy for you, especially when they find you will not be persuaded to try some other preparation on which they make more money. You will find its effect most wonderful. Your old energy will return, your natural force come back, and you will feel altogether a new person, full of health, strength and vigor. Former invalids speak highly of the preparation, and all acknowledge it a perfect health restorer, especially in diseases of a debilitating nature having a tendency to poison and thin the blood, thereby weakening the urinary and digestive organs, and exhausting the brain and nervous system.

Worn out and enfeebled constitutions, suffering from dyspepsia, impure blood, weak kidneys, nervousness, etc., can be cured by using this remedy. Take no other.
