

FRIDAY JUNE 12, 1885.

"Turn the Rascals Out!"

The appointment of Gen. W. S. Rosecrans, of California, as Register of the Treasury, is a commendable one. Our neighbor should howl himself hoarse over the deposition of his negro friend.

Our neighbor would prefer that the rascals be kept in. They have the conscience, the ability, the meanness, and would be situated to accomplish a vast amount of 'dirt' in the interest of the Republican party.

An aged minister in Pottstown, Pa., has been asked to resign by his Republican congregation because in a sermon to the Grand Army he said that the war lasted three years longer than it should have done. His hearers evidently thought that the war ought to have lasted up to the present day.

In the discussion of "protection and high wages" the editor of "The Million" says: "Suppose it to be true—as it is not—that protection makes high wages. For whom does it make them? For those laboring in the so-called protected industries—certainly for none others. How many are there of this class? Not to exceed 700,000—probably not over 500,000. How many in the country are engaged in 'gainful occupations'?—Something over 16,000,000. Then, to secure one man higher wages, not less than twenty are obliged to part with no inconsiderable share of their earnings. There can be no justice in this. Much worse is the fact that all the cry about high wages is a farce; and the twenty men contribute simply to increase the profits of the master of labor."

Senator Collum, of Ill., makes no concealment of the intention of Republican Senator's to fight the President's appointments. He was asked the question in Chicago recently: "Are the Republicans going to fight the confirmation of Cleveland's appointees where Republicans have been removed?"—To which he replied: "Fight them? Of course. The Government has made a contract with those men for four years, and they are entitled to its benefits. That is my individual opinion. I would rather have friends of mine turned out because they are Republicans and have their places filled with other men because they are Democrats, than on this silly patent phrase that they have been 'offensive partisans.' We fought the campaign on civil service reform, that men who had faithfully performed their official duties should be retained, and I believe in sticking to it."—"Where the appointee is not confirmed who will have the office?"—"The man who has been removed will slide back into the place. This is the opinion of many of the ablest lawyers in the Senate."

The man who has been removed will have a happy time in "sliding back into the place." He will get tired of "sliding" when he finds he is getting no pay for it. The man who is not confirmed will get the salary, while the other fellow will do "the sliding."—Indianapolis Sentinel.

And then again, we think the "backslider" will not do any "sliding back" with the order of "suspension" or "removal" unrevoked; while the [unc] confirmed may remain in peaceable possession until his successor is appointed, which may be postponed to a very remote period.

Mrs. Elizabeth A., and her grandson, Fred L. Chilcott, started for Kansas, June 10th, to be absent several weeks. They will visit friends in Republic, McPherson, Sedgwick and Wilson counties.

Jerry Healy, for so long waiter in the dining parlors of the Cushwa Restaurant, has been promoted to chief clerk. No finer little gentleman ever stood behind the counter; courteous, obliging, he will win his way to the front ranks in the restaurant business. Jerry is an honored member of the popular and talented "Sanskrit;" may he continue in the path of duty winning friends until he is partner of the Cushwa Bros.—Frankfort Banner.

Obituary.

DANIEL DWIGGINS.

DANIEL DWIGGINS was born in Guilford county, North Carolina, May 25th, 1807, and died at Rensselaer, Ind., June 5th, 1885, being 78 years and 11 days old. When a child his parents took from the place of his birth to Clinton county, Ohio, where he resided until the year 1836, when he removed with his family to Grant county, Ind. He resided in Grant county until 1858, when he moved to Jasper county, Indiana, where he resided until his death.

October 13th, 1831, he was married to Mary Starbuck, who survives him. They had nine children, viz: Sarah Jane Paris, Robert S. Dwiggins, Isaiah Dwiggins, Edward Dwiggins, Sue Henry, Lydia Dwiggins, Eliza Owen, Zimri Dwiggins and Ella Dwiggins, all of whom are living except Edward Dwiggins, who died in infancy, and Isaiah Dwiggins, who lost his life in defense of his country. He was raised a friend Quaker. In 1840 he and his wife were baptized and united with the Christian or Disciple church. In 1850 he, having moved into a neighborhood where there was no Disciple church with his wife united with the Wesleyan Methodist church, and they retained their membership in that church until 1858, when they removed to Jasper county.

In 1860 they both united with the Church of God, at Rensselaer, Indiana, and he died a member of that church.

His disease was Apoplexy, and he realized for many months and even years before his death, that he was likely to go at any time without a moment's warning. He was fully prepared and had no fear of death. He died in full faith and hope of eternal life.

Father Dwiggins was an original Abolitionist. He voted for James G. Birney in 1844, for Martin Van Buren in 1848, for John P. Hale in 1852, for John C. Fremont in 1856, for Abraham Lincoln in 1860, and for all the Republican candidates for President, from that time until the election of 1884, when he supported John P. St. John and the entire Prohibition ticket. For many years his house was one of the Depots on the Underground Railroad, at which the poor, hunted negroes, fleeing to the Queen's dominions for freedom, found rest, food, protection and assistance.

He was a strong temperance man all his life. In the early days of Indiana, when it was the custom to furnish liquor at house-raisings, log-rolling, and in harvest time, he refused to comply with this custom, and sometimes found it difficult to obtain the necessary assistance from his neighbors, but he adhered firmly to his resolution not to furnish or use intoxicants on any account whatever.

His only brother, all his sisters, except one, all his living children, most of his grand-children, and many other relatives from abroad attended his funeral.

A Walking Skeleton.

Mr. F. Springer, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., writes: I was afflicted with lung and abscess on lungs, and reduced to a walking skeleton. Got a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which did so much good that I bought a dollar bottle. After using three bottles, found myself once more a man, completely restored to health with a hearty appetite, and a gain in flesh of 48 lbs. Call at F. B. Meyer's Drug Store and get a free trial bottle of this certain cure for all Lung Diseases. Large bottles, $1.00.
