It appears that a boy aged thirteen years, while cutting bands, accidentally cut Brandt's hand. Brandt became enraged, and told the boy that if he cut his hand again he would run him through the machine. The boy became excited, and in a few minutes did again slightly cut Brandt's hand. Brandt thereupon seized the boy and shoved him into the cylinder head first. He was instantly killed, his head being almost completely torn from his body. President Cleveland will not, it is said, recommend a transfer of the entire Indian service to the military authorities, but while preserving the civil system as to the immediate control, education, and civilization of the Indians will bring in the experience, integrity, and executive capacity of the army officers to provide and distribute food and supplies. This idea is substantially that it is cheaper to feed and cloth the Indian well than to fight him.

Judge Maynard, Second Comptroller of the Treasury, says that the Indian service is in a very bad condition, and that it is his intention to reform it. For this purpose he has ordered suits to be brought against the bondsmen of a dozen or more Indian agents.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There were 146 failures in the United States reported to Bradstreet's during the week, against 164 in the preceding week, and 234, 209, and 137 in the corresponding weeks of 1884, 1883, and 1882, respectively. Bradstreet's Journal, in its weekly review, says of the state of trade:

Special telegrams to Bradstreet's report no special change in the general trade situation. At Boston business is quiet after the late exceptional activity. In some lines it is disappointing, yet the general confidence that sales are to increase rather than diminish remains unshaken. The dry-goods market at present is dull. Retailers are believed to be carrying the large volume of goods lately shipped from first hands, awaiting the demand for consumption. There is a better demand for funds for use in regular trade channels. There is a fair movement of wool at seaboard markets for consumption. The larger factories are well stocked, while the smaller ones are buying freely for early wants. Manufacturing is relatively active and prices are firm. Holders regard the situation confidently and are not anxious to sell. There have been some fair-sized importations of raw wool of late. Trade at Philadelphia is fair in some lines, but there is no general activity. At Chicago the volume of trade is lighter than during last week. There is, however, considerable confidence that the up-grade movement is to continue. There has been some depression in feeling, owing to the decline in the price of wheat. Reports from interior points tributary to Chicago are moderately favorable, and while the demand for funds therefrom is smaller it is still noticeable. There is less demand for currency from New York. At Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Burlington (Iowa), St. Louis and St. Paul there is less activity in commercial circles.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

The taking of evidence in the trial of Ferdinand Ward was begun at New York on the 26th of October, the District Attorney in his opening remarks warning the jury that they must remember Ward was on trial for larceny, not for "sending Gen. Grant broken-hearted to his grave." James D. Fish, the ex-President of the Marine Bank, was the first witness, and eyed the defendant savagely. He detailed the presentation of a check for $71,600, drawn against a check for $75,000; the rejection of the latter by the First National Bank; how Ward failed to adjust the matter, and the efforts to raise sufficient funds to meet the dishonored paper; the deposit of the $150,000 which Gen. Grant borrowed from Vanderbilt, and the placing of the money to Ward's personal account. The ordinance in question is based upon Iowa statutes, but the latter does not provide for punishment in case of refusal to pay license.

Without cause, J. C. Henning shot and killed his mistress, Mrs. Lottie Vo'ner, at Rockville, Ind. The murderer, who is a peculiar character, and by some considered insane, attempted to conceal himself, but after a diligent search by citizens he was captured and placed in the jail. The mob surrounded the structure, determined upon a lynching, but wiser counsels prevailed, though for hours the greatest excitement was exhibited.
