FRIDAY OCTOBER 30, 1885.

DEATH OF GEN. McCLELLAN.

NEW YORK, October 29.—General George B. McClellan died at his residence at St. Cloud, on Orange Mountain, New Jersey, suddenly, of heart disease about midnight. As soon as the news spread throughout the city great sorrow was expressed at the General's death. The flags on the public buildings were placed at half-mast. The Grand Army Post has called a meeting to express their sorrow and offer a body-guard for the remains. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

The President has ordered that the flags upon all the buildings of the Executive Department be placed at half-mast until after the funeral of General McClellan.

Elections will be held in New York and several other States next Tuesday.

NOTICE OF CHURCH DEDICATION.—The new M. E. Church in Barkley township, on the Reusselaer Circuit, seven miles east of Rensselaer, on the Francesville road will be dedicated Sabbath, November 1st, 1885. Rev. J. H. Claypool will preach at 10 a. m., and Rev. J. T. Abbott in the afternoon.

Our neighbor copies an article from the Indianapolis Journal which opens out with the following announcement:

"It is a suggestive thing that nearly, if not quite, all the frauds attempted against the suffrage would inure to the benefit of the Democratic party."

Let us see wherein this is true. The Republicans set up a claim to having carried Cincinnati and Hamilton county, Ohio, but a careful count gives the certificates to Democratic candidates. Fraud was not triumphant, and as a result honesty inures "to the benefit of the Democratic party."

The Republicans claimed the election of their Mayor in Indianapolis, and a recount is now being had, concerning which the News—republican paper in that city—of yesterday has this to say:

"The most important error discovered during the day was in the Fifth ward, First precinct, where the footings of the judges and clerks fell ten short of Cottrell's tallies, and there were two errors in the Second precinct, which gave Cottrell a total of twelve. Another claim of five shortage was made by Cottrell in the First precinct, Eighth ward, and in the Third precinct, Seventh ward, four democratic straight ballots. * * *

The total gains throughout the day reduced Denny's majority to 35.

By noon today the commissioners had reached the Seventeenth ward, and the greatest gain for Cottrell was claimed in the First precinct, Sixteenth ward, where the number of votes cast, as shown by the poll-books, was 190, of which the official canvass gave Denny 46, and Cottrell 144.

On the recount, however, Denny was given 46 and Cottrell 154, a gain of 10.

In the Third precinct same ward, Cottrell was given two increase upon the official canvass.

* * * The sixteen wards which have been canvassed give Denny a net loss of six, and Cottrell a net gain of twenty-four, and if this ratio is maintained Cottrell's chances for coming out ahead is very brilliant."

No Democratic fraud appear in the above statement to "inure to the benefit of the Democratic party."

It certainly ill becomes a party which has maintained its ascendancy for years past by violence, fraud and theft, to impute fraud to another. So

"Rock the cradle," Georgie, and don't make a damp fool of yourself by copying such stuff

from the Journal.

The radical organs have been very loud in their declarations of fraud in the recent elections.—Where careful recounts have taken place frauds were discovered, and republicans proven to be the perpetrators.

Those who can remember the course and conduct of Andrew Johnson, during the reconstruction period, can well believe that Mr. Depew's revelations regarding that troublous time are essentially true.—He Kid.

Now, Georgie, enlighten your readers with a true statement of your recollections of "that troublous time." Tell your readers that only a portion of the States were admitted to representation—that therefore the Congress was a "ump," with radical "rump" leaders, Thad. Stevens, Zack. Chandler, Ben Wade, E. M. Stanton, O. P. Morton, whose love for party, power, place and plunder exceeded their love of country.—It may be said these men are dead. True. Andrew Johnson, too, is dead. We did not vote for him; he was not our candidate; but his memory deserves well for the bold and patriotic stand he made against the anarchial designs of the radical "rump."

And now comes Captain Alfred E. Lee, who was private secretary to Governor Hayes when he was nominated and inaugurated as President, and was afterwards appointed by Hayes Consul-general at Frankfort-on-the-Main, and disputes the statement that General Grant should have told George W. Childs that Mr. Tilden was elected President and should have been inaugurated, and says: "During the summer of 1877 I had numerous interviews with General Grant and he gave me to understand that he had reason to believe Mr. Tilden proposed to come down to Washington and be sworn in as President. Speaking of this, Grant said in his quiet way, but with an expression of seriousness on his face, which indicated that he meant every word he said: 'If Mr. Tilden had undertaken to do that, I would have hanged him.'—Captain Lee says that General Grant told him this on more than one occasion, and at one time told him that he would like to have Mr. Hayes know it."

The over-zealous friends of General Grant are not adding to his reputation by making public such stuff as the above. If true, it only shows that then, as in the time of President Johnson, he had occupied both sides of the fence, and both times yielded to the control of the radical revolution element in congress.

The Grant-Johnson controversy will develop the fact that the radical leaders of the Republican party, Thad. Stevens of Pennsylvania, Oliver P. Morton, of Indiana, Benjamin F. Wade, of Ohio, Edwin M. Stanton, of Pennsylvania, and Zack Chandler, of Michigan conspired for the overthrow of President Johnson's reconstruction policy. It is a well-known fact that President Johnson believed in restoring and not in reconstructing the Southern States, while Stevens and Chandler and Morton believed in reducing those states to the condition of conquered provinces and subjecting them to military rule. This was the status of the reconstruction period that culminated in the impeachment proceedings. There is no question but that the radical Republican leaders conspired to overthrow Johnson and make Benjamin F. Wade, of Ohio, President of the United States. He was President of the Senate and in direct line of the succession, but Johnson's bull-dog pluck was too much for the conspirators and all their work came to naught.
