

Is Everybody Drunk?

Among the many stories Lincoln used to relate was the following: Trudging along a lonely road one morning on my way to the county seat, Judge ——— overtook me with his wagon, and invited me to a seat. We had not gone far before the wagon began to wobble. Said I, "Judge, I think your coachman has taken a drop too much."

Putting his head out of the window, the Judge shouted: "Why, you infernal scoundrel, you are drunk!"

Turning round with great gravity, the coachman said: "Bedad! but that's the first rightful s'cison your Honor's giv'n 'n twel' month!"

If people knew the facts they would be surprised to learn how many people reel in the street who never "drink a drop." They are the victims of sleeplessness, of drowsy days, of apopleptic tendencies, whose blood is set on fire by uric acid. Some day they will reel no more—they will drop dead just because they haven't the moral courage to defy useless professional attendance, and by use of the wonderful Warner's safe cure neutralize the uric acid in the system and thus get rid of the "drunkenness in the blood."—The American Rural Home.

Wedded Happiness.

It is undoubtedly a fact that many of the young people who get married nowadays want to begin wedded life where their parents leave off, that is, they desire to put on the same style, so to speak, that their fathers and mothers do, who have been perhaps years in obtaining a certain financial and social position. The consequence is that they almost invariably begin with a grand flourish of trumpets, furnish a house extravagantly, give expensive entertainments, and in the end come to grief. They have not, of course, the money to pay for these luxuries, and they rely on their parents in a great measure for assistance. When this fails their household goods are probably sold under the hammer, or the firm from whom they have obtained them on the installment plan steps in and takes them for non-payment. Then there is likely a separation; the young man goes one way and the young woman another, and if they are ever reunited it is because they have come to the conclusion that this is a practical world, and that people cannot live beyond their incomes without being overtaken with monetary disaster. In a word, if they dance they must pay the piper.

Would it not, then, be better for young couples to begin in a moderate manner, and live strictly within their means? A well-matched couple can be very happy even in one room, if they choose. The old song says very truly, "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home," and fine furniture and a large house do not always bring happiness. That must be in the heart, and if it is there it will glorify even the most unpretentious abode.

The thought that a young couple are earning everything they will give a zest to existence that can never be obtained even in a state of partial dependence, and our advice to all young married people is to preserve their self-respect by never spending a dollar that has not been obtained by them through hard work and self-denial. Let them not be under obligations to their own parents, and they will find, if they are frugal and temperate, that the years will bring them all the wealth and enjoyment that are worth having.—Exchange.

A Chance for an Argument.

"Tobacco as well as whisky, my dear friend, is an evil," remarked a temperance advocate to a lover of the weed. "Do you imagine that providence, in its bountiful goodness, supplies the warm earth, the gentle rain, and the bright sun to propagate this pernicious and wicked plant?"

"I imagine it does," replied the tobacco adherent, "or we wouldn't have such enormous crops of it."—New York Sun.

Inaction Fraught with Danger.

Inaction of the kidneys and bladder is fraught with danger. Renal diseases of the most stubborn and fatal character have this initial symptom. To disregard it is to invite them. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has the special quality of stimulating urinary secretions and discharge to a degree consonant with health, and no further. It is not an excitant of the organs, like the unmedicated stimuli of commerce. It simply arouses them when their activity and vitality are impaired. This stimulating and tonic action the Bitters likewise exerts upon the bowels, the liver, and the stomach. It averts renal disease, cures dyspepsia, prevents and remedies fever and ague, and removes biliousness and constipation. No finer tonic exists, and to persons with a tendency to gout it strongly recommends itself, as it is a fine depurative of the blood.

A SLIDE DOWN THE BANISTERS.

Sliding down the banisters, though a swift and delightful way of getting down stairs, is not a popular method of descent except among boys of the hobbledyhooy age. When, therefore, Mr. Dolph Hotchkiss, a solid citizen of Peoria, Ill., adopted that style of coming down from his room recently it augured that something out of the usual line had happened to him. Such was indeed the case. Mr. Hotchkiss explains as follows why he preferred the railing to the stairs:

"It was last winter, during the month of December. One evening after getting home from the store I was taken with a severe pain in my ankle. It felt at first as if I had sprained it. I was up stairs when the trouble first came on and I wanted to go down. The pain, however, had increased so that I found that it was impossible to walk down the steps, and so I slid down the railing. From that night I began to grow worse, the pain became more severe, and my ankle gradually swelled up until it seemed as if the flesh would burst. It was almost impossible for me to lie in bed, and the least noise or attempt to move me would cause me the greatest agony.

"After being in bed a month I could not stay there any longer. I felt that I must have some kind of a change, and so I was moved into an easy chair, where I lay for two months, suffering more than words can express. My trouble was rheumatism. The doctors could do nothing for me. I used about every medicine I had ever heard of for rheumatism, and many different remedies recommended by my friends and neighbors, but nothing afforded me any relief. A lady friend living in Chicago, hearing of my affliction, wrote me, saying: 'Try Athlophoros. It cured me.'

"I was very glad to try anything. I had tried many different sorts of medicines, but this was new to me. I sent at once and bought a bottle and began using it. I had a terrible buzzing in my head at first, but as it was said in the directions I would have this if the medicine took hold of the disease, I stuck to it. The buzzing was nothing with my sufferings. I think it was on a Monday evening I first began with the Athlophoros. By the following Saturday the pain was nearly all gone, the swelling was very much reduced, and with the aid of a pair of crutches I went out for the first time in three months.

"I continued taking the Athlophoros until I had used four bottles. My pain and swelling had then all gone, and I had no further use for crutches. I have not felt any rheumatism since. Athlophoros is a very valuable medicine. I recommend it whenever I have a chance, and never want to be without some Athlophoros in the house in case I should ever again be so afflicted."

Mr. Hotchkiss' residence in Peoria is at No. 610 Hancock street. Greatly as he regrets the loss of three months' valuable time, not to speak of all the suffering and mental anguish he endured, he feels that there is some slight compensation in the fact that he was made acquainted with a medicine which can cure rheumatism and rob that disease of all its terrors. Mr. Hotchkiss, it is almost needless to state, has never had occasion to repeat his ride on the railing.

Why Brick Walls Grow White.

"I will give any man $100,000 who will produce anything that will prevent a wall of pressed brick from turning white," said a prominent Chicago architect. The remark was called forth by the appearance of the walls of one of the finest office buildings in the city, recently completed at a cost of $500,000. A glance at the huge pile of pressed brick discovered numerous streaks and blotches of white covering the greater portion of the surface of the four upper stories of the grand structure. "That white appearance," said he, "which is unpleasant to the eye, is not injurious to the wall, but it is decidedly objectionable. It is sulphate of magnesia—although generally called saltpeter, and is brought out of the bricks by the moisture in the atmosphere. In a very dry season it does not show itself so much, but in a wet season, it forms an incrustation that makes a brick wall appear at a disadvantage. Many experiments have been tried to prevent its appearance, but without effect. Many walls of pressed brick are oiled as soon as they are completed. This prevents the appearance of the magnesia for awhile, but it comes out in time. The painting of walls is resorted to as a preventive, but it will even come through heavy coats of paint."

I have been a sufferer two years from catarrh or cold in the head, having distressing pain over my eyes. Gradually the disease worked down upon my lungs, my left ear was almost deaf, my voice was failing me. I procured one bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, and within five days my hearing was restored, the pain ceased over my eyes, and I am now enjoying good health. I recommended it to some of my friends, and they sent for a bottle. He told me that half of it cured him.
