TOWNSHIP CONVENTION.

The Democratic voters of this (Marion) Township are requested to meet at the Court House, in Rensselaer, Jasper county, Indiana, on SATURDAY, MARCH 13, 1886, at 1 o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for the several Township offices to be voted for at the April, 1886, election.

A full attendance is requested. By order.

The Senate has confirmed the appointment of Mr. Bates as P. M. at this place, and we are permitted to continue as an "offensive partisan."

* * * "We may be reduced to powder, but we don't furnish fuel nor turn the crank—not if we know ourself!"—Wm. W. Gilman.

Come to remember, Mr. G., you furnish nothing but Oysters!

There seems to be a determined effort on the part of certain Republicans to run Mr. Griswold off the track for Township Trustee.—But then that is a Republican family affair, and we are merely a looker on, with our sympathies enlisted in behalf of the under dog in the fight.

Our neighbor refers to the Democratic Central Committee meeting last Saturday as a convention, and seeks to pick a flaw in the matter of officials selected. The only characteristics sought for by the committee was pure, unadulterated Democracy, and if we do say it ourself, we think they got it. The question of kinship was not under consideration.

At a meeting of the Democratic Central Committee, Saturday, H. A. Barkley, was elected Chairman; George H. Brown, Sr., Treasurer and James W. McEwen, Secretary. So soon as complete list of those composing the committee is received it will be published, and arrangements made to carry the war into Africa. On motion of E. P. Honan a vote of thanks was tendered the retiring officers.

Our neighbor seems to know little or nothing of the acts and declarations of the founders of his party who built it upon the foundation stone of sectionalism. He seems to know nothing of the utterances of the leaders of his party who denounced the flag as "a flaunting lie," the Constitution as "a covenant with death," the Union as "in league with hell"; who announced that they "were willing to let the Union slide"; who demanded "an anti-slavery God, an anti-slavery Bible, and an anti-slavery Constitution." Had we time and space we might continue the enumeration for our neighbor's benefit. Washington, Jackson, Clay, Webster, Cass, Douglas and all the great statesmen patriots warned the people against such leaders, and such parties, and predicted just what resulted from the success of the Republican party.

The town of Waterbury, Conn., will be two centuries old May 13th.

Senator Pugh completely demolished the position assumed by Edmunds to keep his partisans in place, after the people had voted to "turn the rascals out."

Rev. W. H. Salter intends to become a resident of Homer, La Salle county, Illinois, in the near future.

Rev. S. Benson, of Chicago, Ill., will preach in the Presbyterian church, next Sunday, at 10:30 a. m. and 7 o'clock p. m. Everybody invited.

Hon. Will Cumback, at one time Lieut. Governor of this State, will lecture at the Opera House, in Rensselaer, Ind., Tuesday evening of next week, March 16th, 1886. Theme—"The Invisible 'Some People'." Mr. C. has been prominently before the public for many years, and a rich treat is in reserve for those who may have the good fortune to hear him.

The article in the Republican marked with three stars says "Republicans of Jasper county are cautioned against permitting certain Democrats to say who should or who should not be their candidates," etc. Good enough, if already Republicans are envious and jealous of each other to the extent that they are to be cautioned against being in company of Democrats. If this feeling continues to develop as the campaign progresses, the Democrats will be sure to name a ticket which will be supported by enough Republicans to elect it.

Obituary.

DIED.—In Rensselaer, Indiana, Saturday morning, March 6th, 1886, little BELLE, only daughter of Valentine and Rosa E. Seib. Rev. David Handley conducted the services in the afternoon at the residence on River Street.—Little Belle was born December 5th, 1885, and her short life of three months had planted a fond hope deep in the hearts of her parents and friends that she might grow up to be a constant delight and sunshine to their lives. But she was not for earth; she came but for a few months to rejoice the hearts of care-worn creatures, with her smiles reflected from that happy land from whence she came and whither she all too soon returned.

She was buried side by side with little ONA DWIGGINS, youngest daughter of Zimri and Estelle Dwiggins, who died Friday noon, March 5th, 1886, in Oxford, Ind. Elder William Craft conducted the sad services at the residence, in Oxford, on Saturday morning. The body was brought across the country, reaching here at the same time that the parents and friends arrived by rail. Little ONA was born July 7th, 1881, and was almost five years old. During these happy years the rare sweetness and happiness of her disposition had won the love of every acquaintance. Her childhood was of charming grace and rare contentment and gave promise of a peaceful and amiable womanhood. But God disposes. Her sudden and unexpected death was an overpowering blow to her parents and a dreadful shock to her relatives and acquaintances, many of whom living here, had not heard of her illness until the surprising news of her death came.

It was a sad, sad funeral procession that bore away these two flowers of earth whom death so soon had plucked. A double grief oppressed the heart of every mourner. They departed for that happiest of happy lands together. May God call us all thus peaceably and gently to His House of many Mansions.

WHO CAN FORETELL?

"Will you take me to see cousin Belle?" Little Ona had cheerfully said. "Not to-day, but the next time instead." Answered papa. But who can foretell? For the joys we are planning to-day. The storms of to-morrow dispel. And none may gainsay.

All sleeping and smiling, sweet Belle, Was thinking, though never she spoke, How glad she would be to awake And kiss Ona. But who can foretell? For the plans that may bother old folk And the dreamland where baby-joys dwell. Both elude and provoke.

Peaceful Ona soon whispered to Belle "I have found you, now kiss me and come!", While the mourners looked on and were dumb. God's goodness! For who can foretell The sorrows of earth they have missed? Dry thy tears, for all things He doth well, In the way that he list.
