

Unnecessary Violence.
For which outraged nature exacts heavy penalties, is done to the bowels by persons who with drastic, drenching purgatives make war on those organs in order to relieve their constipation. Constipation is not one of those desperate diseases that require desperate remedies. In fact, it is not a disease at all, but the incomplete discharge of a function, to the healthful renewal of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is far better adapted than drugs, whose action is excessive, and consequently debilitating and injurious. Disorder of the liver, contamination of the blood with bile, sick headaches and dyspeptic symptoms are the attendants of constipation, and are likewise remedied by the Bitters. Its action is not limited to relieving the bowels naturally and without pain. Used with persistence, and as directed, it perpetuates regularity in the habit of body, and in the operations of the digestive organs and liver. Fever and ague, rheumatism and kidney troubles are prevented and cured by it.

The Language of the Cane.
To tap it on the pavement at every step, means: "Object is no money to me—I'm trying to wear out the ferule."
To poke a person in the ribs with it, who is standing up on a chair three rows ahead of the pokist at a slugging match, insinuates: "Down in front."
To hurriedly slip it down the pantaloons-leg and walk along with it concealed therein, evidences that it has previously been feloniously "magnetized" from some hall-rack and the rightful owner is approaching.
To point with it at a rare old painting in a picture gallery indicates that the check-boy was asleep when the visitor came through the entry-door.
To carry the upper end in the overcoat pocket, with the bottom part sticking straight up in front, signifies that the nickel plate has worn off from its bogus leaden head, and the same would blacken the dudelet's tan-colored glove if held in his hand.

To carelessly but gracefully drop it denotes the exhilaration of too much high-priced fine wine aboard; while to awkwardly get it tangled up among the legs and plump the bearer forward, on his nasal abutment sadly goes to prove a wholesale consumption of common five-cent red, red liquor!

To pedestrianize on a crowded sidewalk with it run through the akimboed elbows and across the back, with ends projecting beyond each arm, intimates that there is plenty of room out in the middle of the street for other people who don't care to be swiped off into the gutter in passing.

To hold it in the center, with the handled portion downward, is intended by the effeminate "mower" to demonstrate this: "Aw, this stick is weally so pawssitively top-heavy, aw, that I—nevah 'having been used to manual labah, aw, find it a widdiculously weighty burden, aw."

To present it, nicely engraved, to a trusted clerk on New Year's Day as a recognition of "long and faithful service," conveys the sorrowful fact to the t. c. that ye employer's act is an economical "stave-off" against his hiring's hoped-for raise in salary.—Detroit Free Press.

Six gold medals have been given to St. Jacobs Oil at World's fairs and expositions, for being the best pain-cure. It is, itself, better than gold. It cures rheumatism and every other painful trouble. It never fails.

It is said that one-half of American business and professional men over thirty years of age are bald, and that "the wearing of unventilated hats is one of the greatest causes of failure of nutrition of the hair. The beard never falls out, because it gets plenty of light and air. These are what the scalp needs also."—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

"Papa," said a little girl, "how many miles is it around the world?"
"A good many thousand, my child," replied papa.

"It would be an awfully tedious journey, wouldn't it?"
"Yes, it would be, Annie."
"But I know a man who goes around the world every little while, and he don't look very tired."

"You know a man," replied her father, "that goes around the world. Well, I should like to know who he is?"
"Why, the man in the moon, papa, of course."—National Weekly.

Too Many Juliets for Romeo's Comfort.
"Where are you going?" asked Knickerbocker Jones of Bob Van Slyck, as they met near the Grand Central Depot.
"I'm going off for a day or so," replied Bob, who was carrying a valise.
"What's up?"

"Nothing, except to-morrow is my birthday, and the young lady to whom I am engaged is to call at the house to congratulate me, and make me some little present. I don't care to be there when she calls."

"I don't understand you, Van Slyck. If I was engaged to a young lady, and she was going to call and see me on my birthday, I should be the happiest man in New York."

"Yes, but the other two are going to call also—all three of them are going to call on me if I am there, don't you understand?" and he hurried into the depot to catch the 3 o'clock train.—Texas Siftings.

The Great German Physician.
The remarkable phase in the practice of Dr. Peter W. Schmidt (frequently called Dr. Pete) is, he never asked one to describe their disease but tells each one their trouble without asking a question. His success is phenomenal. His practice enormous. He is sought after by hundreds wherever he goes, because he cures when every other physician and remedy have failed. He has allowed his great medicines, Golden Seal Bitters and Lung Food for Consumption, to be offered to the suffering, and we assert without fear of successful contradiction that there is no disease they will not cure. Thousands of bottles have been sold. Thousands of broken-down and discouraged invalids saved. Send to Golden Seal Bitters Company, Holland City, Mich., for Facts for the Million! Free.
