

AN OPIUM EATER'S STORY.

Crawling Over Red-Hot Bars of Iron in His Fearful Frenzy—A Scientific Investigation and Its Results.

Cincinnati Times-Star.

"Opium or death!"

This brief sentence was fairly hissed into the ear of a prominent druggist on Vine street by a person who, a few years ago well off, is to-day a hopeless wreck.

One can scarcely realize the sufferings of an opium victim. De Quincey has vividly portrayed it. But who can fully describe the joy of the rescued victim?

H. C. Wilson, of Loveland, O., formerly with March, Harwood & Co., manufacturing chemists of St. Louis, and of the well-known firm of H. C. Wilson & Co., chemists, formerly of this city, gave our reporter yesterday a bit of thrilling personal experience in this line.

"I have crawled over red hot bars of iron and coals of fire," he said, "in my agony during an opium frenzy. The very thought of my sufferings freezes my blood and chills my bones. I was then eating over 30 grains of opium daily."

"How did you contract the habit?"

"Excessive business cares broke me down and my doctor prescribed opium! That is the way nine-tenths of cases commence. When I determined to stop, however, I found I could not do it."

"You may be surprised to know," he said, "that two-fifths of the slaves of morphine and opium are physicians. Many of these I met. We studied our cases carefully. We found out what the organs were in which the appetite was developed and sustained; that no victim was free from a demoralized condition of these organs; that the hope of a cure depended entirely upon the degree of vigor which could be imparted to them. I have seen patients, while undergoing treatment, compelled to resort to opium again to deaden the horrible pain in those organs. I marvel how I ever escaped."

"Do you mean to say, Mr. Wilson, that you have conquered the habit?"

"Indeed I have."

"Do you object to telling me how?"

"No, sir. Studying the matter with several opium-eating physicians, we became satisfied that the appetite for opium was located in the kidneys and liver. Our next object was to find a specific for restoring those organs to health. The physicians, much against their code, addressed their attention to a certain remedy and became thoroughly convinced on its scientific merits alone that it was the only one that could be relied upon in every case of disordered kidneys and liver. I thereupon began using it and, supplementing it with my own special treatment, finally got fully over the habit. I may say that the most important part of the treatment is to get those organs first into good working condition, for in them the appetite originates and is sustained, and in them over ninety per cent of all other human ailments originate."

"For the last seven years this position has been taken by the proprietors of that remedy, and finally it is becoming an acknowledged scientific truth among the medical profession; many of them, however, do not openly acknowledge it, and yet, knowing they have no other scientific specific, their code not allowing them to use it, they buy it upon the quiet and prescribe it in their own bottles."

"As I said before, the opium and morphine habits can never be cured until the appetite for them is routed out of the kidneys and liver. I have tried everything—experimented with everything, and as the result of my studies and investigation, I can say I know nothing that can accomplish this result but Warner's safe cure."

"Have others tried your treatment?"

"Yes, sir, many; and all who have followed it fully have recovered. Several of them who did not first treat their kidneys and liver for six or eight weeks, as I advised them, completely failed. This form of treatment is always insisted upon for all patients, whether treated by mail or at the Loveland Opium Institute, and supplemented by our special private treatment, it always cures."

"Mr. Wilson stands very high wherever known. His experience is only another proof of the wonderful and conceded power of Warner's safe cure over all diseases of the kidneys, liver, and blood, and the diseases caused by derangements of these organs. We may say that it is very flattering to the proprietors of Warner's safe cure that it has received the highest medical endorsement, and, after persistent study, it is admitted by scientists that there is nothing in materia medica for the restoration of those great organs that equals it in power. We take pleasure in publishing the above statements coming from so reliable a source as Mr. Wilson and confirming by personal experience what we have time and again published in our columns. We also extend to the proprietors our hearty congratulations on the results wrought."

One by One They Fade.

It seems that Lucretia Borgia was not a murderer, as the world has always believed, but an amiable woman, a loving wife and a gentle and affectionate mother. Thus the mists of error that shroud the past are being dispersed by the light of modern investigation. We will not be surprised to learn some of these days that Nero was a philanthropist who founded an orphan asylum.—Boston Courier.

Six things are requisite to create a happy home. Integrity must be the architect, and tidiness the upholsterer. It must be warmed with affection, and lighted up by cheerfulness, and industry must be the ventilator, renewing the atmosphere, and bringing in fresh salubrity day by day; while over all, as a protecting glory and canopy, nothing will suffice except the glory of heaven.

THE propriety and good taste of doing away with abbreviated names among women is fast growing in favor, and the good old fashion of giving the full name is regarded as the correct and dignified thing. Mollie, and Matilda, andillie, and Maggie are again Mary, Martha, Matilda, and Margaret—stately names, all of them, and full of significance, whereas their diminutives are silly and meaningless; and women are gradually awakening to the fact that it is far more elegant to reserve these pet names, if they be used at all, for the household, and to sign themselves always in addressing those outside this little circle with the full name they received at the baptismal font. In this respect our ancestors showed a proper amount of dignity, and it would be well now if the old form of addressing women as Mistress Ann Page, Mistress Catherine Smith, etc., were revived. The present custom of retaining the maiden name as a middle name after marriage, and the use of the husband's Christian name by widows, are both sensible, as they identify the individual with a certain family.

Sharp Pangs Athwart the Forehead.

And in the muscles of the neck and shoulder, usually most violent after nightfall, are among the cheerless manifestations of neuralgia. It is an affection of the nerve intensified by a cold.

Repose, bringing with it a cessation of pain, is induced by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is a fine nerve tonic and tranquilizer. It is also a reliable means of checking rheumatism and gout. These maladies have always more or less to do with the kidneys that, when inactive, fail to throw off the impurities which engender them. The Bitters can be relied upon to renew a healthy and purifying action of the renal organs. Besides this, it gives tone to the stomach, liver, and bowels, and enriches the circulation. Appetite and sleep both profit by it, and it is a well accredited means of fortifying the system against malaria. It hastens the recovery of strength by convalescents, mitigates the infirmities of age, and helps the constitutionally feeble.

A Southern Cure for Spring Fever.

Jest go an' git you a han'ful of dogwood, a han'ful of cherry, and a han'ful of poplar bark. Then git you a little gran'sir graybeard root, and burn nine red corncocks—be shore and get red ones—an' save the ashes, an' beat all them barks an' roots an' ashes up fine.

Then go to the blacksmith-shop and git a han'ful of clean cinders, an' git a little piece o' brimstone, an' a little piece o' sulphur, an' beat them all up fine.

Then mix them two powders together, and take a teaspoonful three times a day for nine days, an' then rest nine days, an' then begin again an' take it nine days; an' do this three times. By this time you'll have it all tuck up, an' you'll be as fat as a hog.—Georgia Farmer, in Atlanta Constitution.

"You c-can't get b-blood out of a turnip," said the stuttering bartender, as he landed a beer mug on the head of a defaulting tramp, "but I b-believe I c-can out of a b-beat;" and then he grabbed the offender by the throat.

"You hadn't artichoke me that way," gasped the sufferer; "lettuce part friends."

"Friends n-nothing," yelled the bartender; "I can't stand y-your c-cabbag-ing. You c-cumber the saloon and make me m-melancholy. D-don't you c-come in here a-g-gain."

"Oh, how you've made my spine ache!" whined the tramp, as he went out into the cold and pitiless world.—Peck's Sun.

Thomas Carlyle.

the great Scotch author, suffered all his life with dyspepsia, which made his life miserable and caused his best and truest friends not a little pain because of his fretfulness. Dyspepsia generally arises from diseases of the liver, and as Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" cures all diseases of this great gland, it follows that while all cannot be Carlyles, even with dyspepsia, all can be free from the malady, while emulating his virtues.

Lost Faith in Physicians.

There are innumerable instances where cures have been effected by SCOVILLE'S SARASAPIRILLA, or Blood and Liver Syrup, for all diseases of the blood, when they had been given over by their physicians. It is one of the best remedies ever offered to the public, and as it is prepared with the greatest care as a specific for certain diseases, it is no wonder that it should be more effective than hastily written and carelessly prepared prescriptions. Take this medicine for all disorders arising from impure blood. It is endorsed by leading professional men.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth.

It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BE DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced. It seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.
