

WEAK AND NERVOUS WOMEN.

How Strength of Nerves and Health of Body May Easily Be Obtained.

Women are great sufferers from nervousness, weakness, nervous prostration, and exhaustion. They droop and languish under household cares and work which never ends. They retire tired and wake tired and unrefreshed; they are worn out and exhausted in nerve and vital power, and have no strength or energy.

Fortunately—and it would almost seem a dispensation of Divine Providence to over-worked humanity—there are medicines which restore lost nerve forces, rebuild the weakened system and re-establish health, strength and energy. These medicines, which are purely vegetable, have been combined into a wonderful remedy known as Dr. Greene's Nerve-Tonic, which is kept by all druggists at $1 per bottle. This truly wonderful remedy is without doubt the greatest discovery of the century, and is the best strengthening and invigorating remedy ever known.

For nervous and physical exhaustion, weak, tired and languid feelings, with no power of ambition for exertion, it is a sovereign remedy and absolutely certain cure. In cases of sleeplessness and nervous irritability its use will be followed by calm repose and natural, refreshing sleep. For nervousness, nervous debility, exhausted vitality, despondency and depression of the mind it is a perfect specific. For malaria, neuralgia, rheumatism, paralysis, numbness, trembling and insanity it is the only positive and recognized remedy. It never fails to cure nervous and sick headache, weakness and pain in the back and side, palpitation of the heart, apoplexy, epileptic fits, hysteria, St. Vitus' dance, dyspepsia, indigestion, loss of appetite, constipation, biliousness, kidney and liver diseases.

Other medicines may be offered by druggists, but do not be persuaded to try uncertainties, when by the use of this wonderful remedy you can certainly be cured. Should your druggist not have Dr. Greene's Nerve-Tonic, he will get it for you if you insist upon having it. Dr. Greene, its discoverer, is the great specialist in the cure of nervous and chronic diseases, and he may be consulted by those using this remedy, or by any sufferer from disease, free of charge, at his office, 35 West 14th st., New York, personally or by letter.

In Morocco.

Morocco, like nearly all Oriental towns, is walled by high stone walls, and defended by towers erected at intervals along them. Outside the city one enters directly upon the country, there being no suburbs, unless the village of lepers can be called one—and a gruesome suburb it is! Within the walls the houses are low and the streets narrow; on every side one sees desolation and ruin, very different from the flourishing northern capital of Fez; nor, as in Fez, does one see, except few and far between, little pieces of exquisite wood or arabesque work in plaster. The southwesterly part of the town, as in London, is the fashionable quarter, and there are the palaces and gardens of the Sultan, his ministers, and of most of the rich Moors; while to the north and east lies the commercial quarter—a dense maze of narrow, dirty streets and booths. Not far from our palace was a small souk, or market-place, and here we often went in the hope of picking up curiosities; but, except for a few curious pieces of pottery, we got nothing there. Far finer was the Sok-el-Khemis, or Friday market, held outside the Bab Dukala. Here one could see every variety of native manufacture. In one corner would be sitting a group of fierce-looking mountaineers, selling silver daggers and long, inlaid guns; in another a group of women with a gorgeous-tinted carpet, worked in some country village and brought in for sale. Here straw baskets lay piled one on tip of the other in great heaps, and there gorgeous-colored kurtans were causing a little crowd of admirers. Under the shade of a tent the barber was bleeding a Moor, while, next to him, another Moor was having his head shaved. In the center of a circle a performing ape was going through its varied tricks, while the harsh-sounding pipes bespoke the presence of a snake-charmer. Everywhere something new and something noisy; for the Moors are shouting, and gesticulating, fighting and laughing, just as if the success of the whole market depended upon the noise they made, added to which there was the constant jingle of the water-carrier's bell and his shrill cry of "Al ma"—"Water." Near this market, and on the same day, was carried on the horse and animal sale, where long-robed Moors were galloping the sturdy little Barb horses up and down the long open space to show their paces, and where the wild Berber from the mountains, noticeable anywhere from his scarcity of raiment, was trying to sell a couple of small Moorish donkeys. Camels, mules, horses, donkeys, goats, sheep, oxen—all kinds and varieties of animals—could be bought there. Nor were the streets less interesting than the markets, though one did not see such variety all at once, as usually all the shops in one street sell one kind of merchandise, so that if one wants to buy shoes one goes to the street of shoes to get them, and there one has endless varieties to choose from. Many shops however, have arrived at the civilized state of selling more than one article, and in them one can see exposed to view many English and French manufactures. In fact, the sight that most surprises one on arriving in these Eastern cities is the immense quantity of imports exposed for sale. Linen, colored handkerchiefs, matches, scented soaps, perfumes, looking-glass, candles and beads are perhaps the most common, while the whole of the tea of the country—and the Moors drink scarcely anything else—is imported from Europe.

The Teeth.

Millions of dollars are spent yearly upon dentifrices. They lead to the spending of millions more upon dentists. A large percentage of this vast outlay is unavoidable. The remainder could be saved if mankind, after reaching the age of reason and it's last teeth, would not persist in continuing fresh. Common table salt is all that is needed. There is no manufactured tooth powder more efficacious. It will actually retard decay after we have filed off the enamel by using a fool's tooth-pick, which is a quill, instead of a sliver of soft wood—or, better still, a thread.—New York Times.

How to Train a Canary.

Set the cage on a table near where you wish to sit; after a little conference with the bird, introduce a finger between the wires near the favorite perch, holding it there patiently, yourself occupied with book or paper the while. Presently, as it shows no disposition to harm him, he cautiously goes up to examine it. Then he picks to ascertain its quality, maybe he fights it. That is well; he no longer fears it. Pay him with a little bird-food; put him away. Next day try him again. He may go farther and light on it, or he may be several days getting thus familiar. Be patient. Once this step is attained, vary the programme by introducing the finger in other spots. He will soon light on it at any point or angle. Then try the door, at first thrusting the finger under it, next time fasten it open, blockading egress with the rest of the hand as one finger extends within. When he perches on it, draw him forth a little; next time tempt him to perch outside a little, and so on. In a short time you have but to open the cage-door, uplift a finger, and he is sure to fly to it; and he may thus be called to any part of the room to rest on the familiar perch.—Our Dumb Animals.

"YOUNG man," he said, as he followed him out on the steps last evening, "I want to have a talk with you. You have been sparing my daughter?" "Yes, sir." "You think you love her?" "I know I do." "And you would fain bear her off to some wood-bine cottage?" "That is what I would fainest, sir." "Ah—um! What's your salary?" "Ten dollars a week, sir." "Jesus so take her. I was afraid you couldn't support us all on your wages; but it's all right. Hurry up things and get into the family in time to pay the next month's rent. You don't know what a relief it will be to us old folks to have some one to support us."

How to Reduce Your Expenses.

You can do it easily, and you will not have to deprive yourself of a single comfort; on the contrary, you will enjoy life more than ever. How can you accomplish this result? Easily; cut down your doctor's bills. When you lose your appetite, and become low-spirited, constipated, and therefore low-spirited, don't rush off to the family physician for a prescription, or, on the other hand, wait until you are sick abed before doing anything at all; but just go to the druggist's and for twenty-five cents get a supply of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. Take them as directed, and our word for it, your unpleasant symptoms will disappear as if by magic, you will have no big doctor's bill to pay, and everybody interested (except the doctor) will feel happy.

A Prize of $100,000

Is a good thing to get, and the man who wins it by superior skill, or by an unexpected turn of Fortune's wheel, is to be congratulated. But he who escapes from the clutches of that dread monster, Consumption, and wins back health and happiness, is far more fortunate. The chances of winning $100,000 are small, but every consumptive may be absolutely sure of recovery, if he takes Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in time. For all scrofulous diseases (consumption is one of them), it is an unfailing remedy. All druggists.

A Michigan Central Railroad Employee Wins His Case After a Seven Years' Contest.

ALBION, Mich., Dec. 20, 1887. While employed as agent of the Michigan Central Railroad Company at Augusta, Mich., about seven years ago, my kidney became diseased, and I have been a great sufferer ever since. Have consulted the leading physicians of this city and Ann Arbor, and all pronounced my case Bright's disease. After taking every highly recommended remedy that I had knowledge of, to no purpose, and while suffering under a very severe attack in October last, began taking Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup, and am to-day a well man. It affords me pleasure to render suffering humanity any good that I can, and in speaking of the remedy, allow me to say that I think it the greatest medicine in the world.

To Cheyenne via the C. B. & Q. R. R. By a recent extension of the Burlington Route, a new, direct and first-class line is now opened to the public from Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis to Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory. Trains, from the points mentioned, for the entire distance to Cheyenne are under Burlington Route management, the Burlington being the only line with its own track between Chicago, Peoria or St. Louis and Cheyenne. "The Burlington's Number One" of the Burlington Route fast train service, which leaves Chicago for Denver via Omaha at noon daily, carries through sleeping cars from Chicago for Cheyenne. This through sleeping car arrives at Cheyenne at midnight of the second day after leaving Chicago, but passengers are allowed to remain in it until breakfast time. The train carrying the Cheyenne sleeper connects with C. B. & Q. daily trains leaving Peoria in the afternoon and St. Louis in the morning.

Note that the Burlington Route is the only line running sleeping cars from Chicago to Cheyenne without change, and see that your ticket to Cheyenne reads via the C. B. & Q. R. It can be obtained of any coupon ticket agent of its own or connecting lines, or by addressing PAUL MORTON, General Passenger and Ticket Agent C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago, Ill.

She Couldn't Understand It.

"What in the world has happened to you since the last time I saw you?" asked one lady of another when they met on the street the other day: "I can't understand it. Then you were pale, haggard, and low-spirited, and I remember you said that you hardly cared whether you lived or died. To-day you look ever so much younger, and it is very evident from your beaming face that your low spirits have taken flight." "Yes, indeed," was the reply; "and shall I tell you what drove them away? It was Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was a martyr to functional derangement until I began taking the 'Prescription.' Now I am as well as I ever was in my life. No woman who suffers as I did, ought to let an hour pass before procuring this wonderful remedy."

Poisoned by Scrofula

The taint of scrofula in the blood should be got rid of or serious consequences may result. Consumption is undoubtedly scrofula of the lungs, and in its early stages may be cured by purifying the blood and building up the system. For this Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled. It also cures scrofula when it appears in the form of running sores, boils, bunches in the neck, catarach, or in any other manner. While it purifies, Hood's Sarsaparilla also enriches the blood.

"I have been troubled with scrofula for three years
