Billy Owens voted against tariff reform.

Billy Owens voted against free lumber, free salt, free wool, and offered in lieu therfor free whisky and free tobacco.

In 1860 the republican party referred to our country's flag as a "polluted rag," and yelled "tear down the flaunting lie." To-day, the same party use miniature representations of it for "nose-rags."

The Mills bill passed the House last Saturday by a majority of 13. It reduces the republican 47 per cent. tariff to 42, leaving duties still at a higher point than at any time during the war, and republicans have the gall to declare it free trade.

Free lumber, free salt, free wool, free raw materials generally is a free trade which will give better wages to labor, and to the people better and cheaper houses, food, clothes, furniture, fuel, medicines, etc., etc. It may lessen the profits of the Carnegies and the Jones', but the wages of their employees will be advanced.

Free wool will give impetus to the manufacture of woolen goods, increase productions, create a demand for labor, open the markets of the world for the surplus products, and the wage-workers will secure steady employment and better wages. A natural result which protectionists can not controvert.

Democrats favor free lumber, free wool, free salt, etc.
Republicans favor free whisky and free tobacco.

The Democratic Central Committee, for this county has been called to meet at the office of Drs. J. H. Dughrige & Son.

The Indianapolis Journal, republican state organ, says: "Democratic free trade would destroy trusts." Certainly, and the masses desire that trusts and combines be destroyed.

Colonel Fellows, of New York never made happier use of his wonderful faculty for scoring telling political points than he did in his allusion, in a recent speech, to "the assemblage of railway officials which recently convened in Chicago and labelled itself the Republican convention."

"The Democrat will not depend upon contributions of charity," etc.—Democrat.

When it is remembered that the Democrat is the only paper in the county started with contributions, and the only one to-day owing its existence to that source of supply, the gall and cheek of the above declaration is unprecedented.

We congratulate the Democracy of Jasper on the zeal displayed by D. W. Shields, Austin Lakin, John Ryan and Wm. Wells, committee on organization of leagues, in their efforts in that direction.—Preliminary steps have been taken which, it is expected, will result in thorough organization throughout the county at an early day.

Let our Democratic boys now prepare for thorough organization. It is not necessary for us to go yelping at their heels "Wake Up!" "Heads Up!" etc. Only those anxious to establish their identity with them will do that. We acknowledge to no one the right to command—"go on." All take a hand—all are leaders.

Fort Worth (Texas) Gazette: "It is said that Hon. J. W. Bailey of Gainesville will go to Indiana to aid in the canvass there. Texas should send words of encouragement and good cheer to the struggling Democrats of the Hoosier state, and from no tongue could they fall more gracefully or with more honeyed eloquence than from that of the gallant young orator of the county of Cooke."

Our neighbor quotes from a number of English journals to prove that President Cleveland's message and the Mills bill are free trade documents. Those journals know full well that raw materials added to the natural advantages and improved machinery of American manufactory will place the products of this country in the markets of the world in competition. Hence, if those journals can influence opposition to the policy they will be doing their own country a great service. But our neighbor don't seem to catch on to their game.

Hon. D. S. Early, of Harrisburg, Penn'a, who was the Greenback-Labor candidate for Congress in 1880, and for Auditor General in 1886, has come out strong for President Cleveland and the Democratic party. Mr. Early says that the Democratic party has redeemed all the pledges it made four years ago, while the Republican party has been faithless to all its pledges.

He says Mr. Cleveland has economically and wisely administered the affairs of the country, and his tariff views are sound. Mr. Early has a large following in Pennsylvania, who view the situation in the same light, and have signified their intention to support the Democratic national ticket.

The Democrat prints with great gusto some good words from the next representative in Congress from this district, Hon. V. Zimmerman. Mr. Z. "is all right." He has no acquaintance with Bro. James, printer, and proprietor of the office, and for aught he knows, editor, etc. In order to share in these eulogiums, Brother James, late republican consul to Turk Island, postmaster, etc., should cast aside his claim to being a thoroughbred, and emblazon his name alongside that of Jno. W. Sickels.

Now, after the republican national convention has proclaimed in favor of free whisky and tobacco, and opposition to a reduction of high tariff duties and free raw materials, the Senators of that party conclude, since the passage of the Mills bill, that the tariff does require revision and they will prepare a substitute for the measure adopted by the House.—The Democratic House has performed its duty in the premises. Let the republican Senators bear the responsibility if relief is not afforded the people this session.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

The Democrats of Barkley township had a rousing meeting at Independence school house last Saturday evening. John Ryan presided, and Wm. Bewman was made Secretary. Lee E. Glazebrook, Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, addressed the meeting in his happy style and was listened to with close attention by the audience. The Barkley township campaign band furnished the music. Enthusiasm prevailed. Democratic prospects are bright in Barkley.

The argument in favor of high protective tariff was, originally, that America should "protect its infant industries." These "infants" have fattened and grown for 100 years, and all the insurance and interest on mortgages paid by the people go to those who have accumulated capital in the east.—The tariff robbers can no longer claim "protection" openly for themselves, so they make the hypocritical demand for "protection to American labor." Pennsylvania is the most protected state in the Union, and yet from the mines in that state come the most pitiful cries of starving labor. Protection protects the few at the expense of the many.

The tariff is the Old Man of the Sea that sits astride the necks of the people. The tariff is the nursery of trusts and monopoly. The tariff is a robbery, unseen but felt in every household in the land.—Will the American people be deluded into perpetuating the infamy?—Fort Worth (Texas) Gazette.

Mr. Horace E. James' name may not appear at the head of the new Democratic paper, at Rensselaer, but there is no doubt but what he runs the paraphernalia and does the "heavy feeding" for the machine.—Goodland Republican.

Yes the contents have the well known "James-like twang," he is the printer, and proprietor of the material on which it is printed; besides he gets out and distributes the highly sensational and extravagant announcements issued each week in its interest.

"Veliee good," said Hip Yong-Ko, a New York Chinaman to a reporter of the Star, "aliee Chinaman likee Melican man Hallison. Aliee workee hard and get elected Chinaman's friend. Then aliee Chinamans times be good."

The "free whisky" plank is in the republican platform, and cannot be lied out of it.

The following descriptive portrait of Ben Harrison, by Judge Turpie, in the Senate, is readily recognized:

The candidate is a well-beloved and chosen representative of that rank and lawless growth of incorporated power whose insolence his principal rival in our State did so much to curb, and which this new aspirant favors. He would faithfully defend, protect and encourage American industries—by the highest, most prohibitory, and unnecessary restrictions, and by the permitted migration hither of the cheap alien labor of the Chinaman. A man of no inconsiderable capacity, of great mental force and acumen, he has that not often found with these—a harsh intolerance which treats dissent as idiocy.—Deeply touched and tinged with the prejudices of an exclusive class aristocracy, he belongs to that group of reactionary statesmen, traditional paternalists, whom the people have so often rejected, and will again.

Senator Turpie reads the republican candidate as if from an open book.
