

The Democratic Sentinel.

VOLUME XII

RENSSELAER JASPER COUNTY, INDIANA, FRIDAY OCTOBER 5, 1888

NUMBER 37

THE DEMOCRATIC SENTINEL

DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY,

BY

JAS. W. McEWEEN

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, $3.00 in advance.
Six months, $1.75 in advance.
Three months, $1.00 in advance.

Advertising Rates.

One square, 10 lines, 100 words, 10 cents per week.
Half square, 5 lines, 50 words, 5 cents per week.
One line, 10 words, 1 cent per week.
Longer advertisements at special rates.
Business cards not exceeding 1 inch space, 50 cents per year.
All legal notices and advertisements at established rates.
Reading notices, first publication 10 cents per line; each publication thereafter 5 cents per line.
Yearly advertisements may be changed quarterly (once in three months) at the option of the advertiser, free of extra charge.
Advertisements for persons not residents of Jasper county, must be paid for in advance of first publication, when less than one-quarter column in size, and quarterly in advance when larger.

ALFRED McCOY, T. J. McCoy
E. L. Hollingsworth.

A. McCoy & Co.,
BANKERS,
(Successors to A. McCoy & T. Thompson.)
RENSSELAER, IND.

Do a general banking business. Exchange bought and sold. Certificates bearing interest issued. Collections made on all available points. Office same place as old firm of McCoy & Thompson April 2, 1886

MORDECAI F. CHILCOTE,
Attorney-at-Law
RENSSELAER, INDIANA

Practices in the Courts of Jasper and adjoining counties. Makes collections a specialty. Office on north side of Washington street, opposite Court House.

SIMON P. THOMPSON, DAVID J. THOMPSON
Attorney-at-Law, Notary Public.
THOMPSON & BROTHER,
RENSSELAER, INDIANA

Practices in all the Courts.

ARION L. SPILLER,
Collector and Abstractor.
We pay particular attention to paying taxes, selling and leasing lands. V2148

W. H. H. GRAHAM,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
RENSSELAER, INDIANA.
Money to loan on long time at low interest. Sept. 10, '86.

JAMES W. DOUTHIT,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC,
Office in rear room over Hemphill & Honan's store, Rensselaer, Ind.

EDWIN P. HAMMOND, WILLIAM B. AUSTIN,
HAMMOND & AUSTIN,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
RENSSELAER, IND.

Office on second floor of Leopold's Block, corner of Washington and Van Rensselaer streets. William B. Austin purchases, sells and leases real estate, pays taxes and deals in negotiable instruments. May 27, '87.

WM. W. WATSON,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Office up stairs, in Leopold's Bazar, RENSSELAER IND.

W. W. HARTSELL, M. D.
HOMOEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
RENSSELAER, INDIANA.
Chronic Diseases a Specialty.
Office in Makeever's New Block. Residence at Makeever House. July 11, 1884.

J. H. LOUGHRIDGE, VICTOR E. LOUGHRIDGE,
J. H. LOUGHRIDGE & SON,
Physicians and Surgeons.
Office in the new Leopold Block, second floor, second door right-hand side of hall.

Ten per cent. interest will be added to all accounts running unsettled longer than three months. Vini

DR. I. B. WASHBURN
Physician & Surgeon
Rensselaer, Ind.

Calls promptly attended. Will give special attention to the treatment of Chronic Diseases.

MARY E. JACKSON, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON.

Special attention given to diseases of women and children. Office on Front street, corner of Angelica. 12-24.

ZIMRI DWIGGINS, F. J. SEARS, VAL. SEIB,
President. Vice-President. Cashier

CITIZENS' STATE BANK
RENSSELAER, IND.

DOES A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS: Certificates bearing interest issued; Exchange bought and sold; Money loaned on farms at lowest rates and on most favorable terms. Jan. 8, '88.

ONLY REAL BIG SHOW BE HERE THIS YEAR.

ENLARGED, IMPROVED AND QUADRUPEL ITS FORMER SIZE!

$100,000 IN NEW FEATURES! * $2,000,000 INVESTED! * $3,000 DAILY EXPENSE!

Rensselaer

MONDAY, OCTOBER 8,

JOHN ROBINSON'S

10 BIG SHOWS

* ALL COMBINED! *

$45,000 DROVE OF GIRAFFES!

3 GREAT CIRCUSES
BIG RINGS

110 MALE AND FEMALE ARTISTS
Josie DeMotte, Caroline Richebourg.
Minnie DeMotte, Katie Stone.
Madame Gertrude, Mamie Quinton.
Constantine Michl, Mattie Kreggs.
Emma Houghton, Mattie Neil.
Kate Hall, Fisher Sisters.

SCOUTS, INDIANS and COWBOYS!
Katarina Suwarow, Leonora DeToquille.
Marie Damroff, Clarisse LaBelle.
Rose Poniatowski, Julie DeMontreuil.
Laura Ashton, Eugene Brastorf.
Mamie Ashton, Aida.

1,000 MEN & HORSES!
Genevieve Sisters, Sadie Johnston.
Ella Zola, Katie Zenobia.
The Only Zola, Adonia Sisters.
William Kirby, James DeMotte.
John DeMotte, John Robinson.

BOXERS & WRESTLERS
Ash Family of Five, Stiffney Brothers.
Charles Petard, Charles Wilson.
Auguste Foucart, DeAlma Family.
Edward Meon, Monroe Smith.
Zarate Brothers, N. Poparoff.

$45,000 DROVE OF GIRAFFES!
Wm. Kirby, Alexis Moscovia.
Mons. Hebron, Senor Juan d'Oviedo.
The Four DeOleys, Frank Fisher.
Theophile DePlessis, Harry Marks.
LeNord Family, McNeil Family.

3 MENAGERIES
Barbary Zebra, East India Antelope, Cashmere Goat, Ebony-headed Palatine Sheep, Spotted Axis Deer, Bison of Colorado, American Jaguar, Silver Lion of California, Striped and Spotted Hyenas, Llama or Camel of the

FREE WILD WEST!
Given Free with the GRAND STREET PARADE each morning. Cowboys, Scouts, Riflemen, Vacueros, Cowgirls, Indians, Medicine Men, Bucks, Squaws and Papooses, a Herd of Texas Steers, Wild Buffaloes and Mountain Elk, Fleet Mustangs, Wiry Indian Ponies and Genuine Deadwood Stage Coach.

$300,000 Grand Free Parade
Cages, Dens and Lairs; 12 Separate Kinds of Music, 4 Musical Wagons, 15 Trumpeters, Troupe Jubilee Singers, Chime Bells, 31 Sun-bright Chariots, 8 Distinct Brass Bands, Female Brass Band of 15, 2-Stream Calliopes, Five and Drum Corps, Female Open-air Opera, 300 Horses, 100 Ponies, Scottish Bagpipers, Steam Organ, Doves of Elephants, Giraffes, Ostriches, Islands, Buffaloes, Elk and Zebras.

CHEAP RATES ON ALL RAILROADS & STEAM BOATS

A WORD TO SOLDIERS.

Extracts from an address delivered at the Greensburg Reunion by D. L. Thomas, of Nashville.

Again and again the call was repeated. Soon a million of men—the flower of youth and the vigor of manhood were in the field. They were called from productive industry to a work of destruction. This, coupled with the demands for the maintenance of a vast army, caused reaction in business affairs at home. Civilians enjoyed a change from great depression to the full sunlight of unequalled financial prosperity. It suddenly became the greatest money-making period in our country's history. I know many at home spent their money freely to aid in the prosecution of the war and to alleviate the sufferings of the soldiers; but I am speaking of the people collectively, and contrasting pecuniary surroundings of the two great classes—citizens and soldiers. While the former were reaping the rich harvest of war prices, soldiers were standing between them and the desolation of war.

At this juncture there was great accumulation of wealth, and foundations laid for colossal fortunes, while the soldiers were receiving mere nominal wages, paid in depreciated currency. At last the Angel of Peace brooded over the smitten country. Soldiers, laying aside the habiliments of war, returned to begin life anew, and it was a beginning. A new outfit had to be purchased, at inflated prices, to enter upon any avocation. Whatever of their meager wages they may have saved, together with their patrimony, they invested at the war figures which then prevailed, only to start down the financial slide which the times prepared. The shrinkage in values culminated in the panic of 1873. So the survivors of the war have passed through three financial crises—before, during, and since the war—without a single period of prosperity. And they have endured it the least complainingly of any body of men. They had been thoroughly trained in the school of adversity, and with health impaired as a result of their services, they were the more ill prepared to grapple with continued adverse circumstances. Yet, in the face of this appalling picture, civilians have reflected upon soldiers for not having accumulated wealth since the war, thus inflicting the most cruel and painful wound that the soldier ever received. And very often, too, such reflections come from men who professed the greatest friendship for the soldier during the war.

Now, while the Nation's defenders have been making such great personal sacrifices, has the Nation been true to them? Let us see.

In the dark hours of 1864, when the Nation's existence was quivering in uncertainty; when its life depended upon the heroism of its soldiers, Congress passed that infamous measure known as the contract labor law. The immortal Lincoln, weighted down with care, and looking at the necessities of the hour, approved the bill. That law authorized contractors to import foreign laborers by "methods whereby the emigrants should pledge the wages of their labor, for a term not exceeding twelve months, to repay the expenses of their immigration." The advance payment gave the contractor a lease which he could enforce in the United States Courts. This most iniquitous law introduced and encouraged the importation of pauper labor, which is proving to be as damnable a curse to this country as African slavery ever was, for it lies at the root of all the discontent which prevails among the producing classes. And the evils, in my judgment, are only just beginning to be felt. Think of its baneful effect upon the soldiers. While they were facing the storms of shot and shell, this insidious measure was concocted; and while public attention was attracted to the war thousands of pauper laborers were imported and put in the places of soldiers temporarily absent. So when the survivors returned many of them had no certain means of support.

That was the inception of the hitherto unknown quantity—the American tramp. Not only paupers were imported, but under that law outcasts and criminals of Europe blighted the country that the soldiers had saved. That law was not repealed until 1885. But the importation still goes on, and to-day foreign governments are detraying the expenses of exporting their paupers to our country. During the past ten years a quarter of a million of paupers have been imported, and now compete with soldiers who earn their bread by the sweat of their brows.

During the war, instead of the government paying its soldiers full wages, it paid them with a depreciated currency, which, upon a specie basis, made the soldiers' wages reach the low ebb of twenty cents a day! Viewed as a business transaction, like the government creditors viewed everything, did it not present a sublime spectacle! Men making targets of the selves at twenty cents a day! According to business and equity, were soldiers morally, and legally bound to remain in the army under such circumstances? Would Wall street speculators let such a good opportunity pass without taking advantage of it?

Soldiers had the alternative of leaving the army and being hunted down and branded as deserters—forever disgraced—or remain and carry out their part of a contract with the government that was not keeping faith with them. The latter course was pursued by the patriotic soldiers, until final victory was achieved.

In the meantime the government was having business with another class of men—namely: home and foreign creditors. They purchased government bonds, which were not payable in specie, at as low a figure as thirty-five cents on the dollar. The present and future value of the bonds depended mainly on the success of the soldiers. The privations and heroism of the Union army gave value to those bonds. But how differently has public sentiment regarded the reimbursement of those who gave property to those who gave health or life to the promotion of the Union cause! Not a moment have we been allowed to allowed to lose sight of the fact that the man who gave his dollars to the Nation in its hour of need is entitled to the country's lasting gratitude, and to the punctilious repayment of every farthing of his claims. It did not matter that he made his loans at rates of interest that would have made Shylock blush. It was of no consequence that he demanded back gold dollars worth 100 cents, where he had given paper ones worth thirty-five cents. It was of the least importance that the debt was incurred for shoddy blankets or spavined mules, upon which he had grown rich. No matter by what means he had come into possession of a bond, no error due-bill of the United States, it was treated as a sacred debt of honor, that must be paid promptly and fully, no matter what the burdens laid upon the people to raise the money.

The class of men who have dominated Congress for the past twenty-five years have always ignored politics, and stood as a unit when their interests were involved. In that manner they have always had a majority in that body, who would forward their schemes. Hence, they have got everything they desired. Upon the other hand soldiers, as a general thing, have been a political foot ball, and have accomplished but little.

The above is a terrible arraignment of the g. o. p. in the difference it made between the money-shark and the soldier.

Henry Clay—"No one, in the commencement of the protective policy, ever supposed that it was to be perpetual."

We would like to have some of our high protectionist friends inform us why, if protection is such a good thing for the workingmen, that there are so many immigrants coming into this country from highly protected Italy and Germany, and so few from free trade England? This is something the American laborer can't "catch" onto.—The Workman.

The record of the Republican candidate for Governor as a speculator in tax titles will not help his candidacy. Besides General Sherman knocks out his military record.