The Indiana State Sentinel

The Best Family Newspaper in America!
The Best State Paper in Indiana

"CREAM AND NOT SKIM MILK" IS OUR MOTTO.

The Indiana State Sentinel is walking rapidly to the lead as one of the best family newspapers in the country. It is so large and full of news that people wonder at the low price at which it is published. Its merits as a family paper will be told to you by every one of its numerous readers. They will tell you that every week they find notes and news from every county in the State and from every locality in the United States and the Old World. They will tell you that every week they find articles from people in every calling of life—how this farmer prospered, how that one failed; the cost and profit of crops last raised; the management of cattle and live stock of all kinds; the treatment of orchards, farms, fields, and a thousand and one other matters in which people are interested. The Farmer's Household is well and ably represented by his wife and daughters, who take you into their parlors and kitchens, gardens and dairies, and tell you each occupy their time for their own profit and the good of others. They contribute thousands of recipes for preparing food, curing meats, making all kinds of cakes, ornaments, for the house and personal adornments, all having a tendency to increase and improve the comforts of home and fireside. Other features of The State Sentinel are its leading and fearless editorials; its home correspondence; its telegraphic markets; its humorous, commercial and financial departments—all combining to make it what is required for a No. 1 family journal.

The Daily Sentinel will be sent to any address for 50 cents per month.

The Sunday Sentinel will be sent to any address for $2.00 per year.

We want a live gentleman or lady in every township in Indiana to work for us. Send for further instructions. Address all orders to MAN.

Poetic Thoughts Concerning Him.

Man passes away; his name perishes from record and recollection; his history is as a tale that is told; and his very monument becomes a ruin. —Washington Irving.

To understand man, however, we must look beyond the individual man, and his actions or interests, and view him in combination with his fellows. —Carlyle.

Man is his own star, and that soul that can be honest is the only perfect man. —Beaumont and Fletcher.

The scientific study of man is the most difficult of all branches of knowledge. —Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The man of wisdom is the man of years. —Young.

Man whose Heaven-erected face The smiles of love adorn, Man's inhumanity to man Makes countless thousands mourn. —Burns.

Stood I, O Nature! man alone in thee. Then were it worth one's while a man to be. —Goethe.

A man is the whole encyclopedia of facts. The creation of a thousand forests is in one acorn, and Egypt, Greece, Rome, Gaul, Britain, America lie folded already in the first man. —Emerson.

Such is man! in great affliction, he is elevated by the first minute; in great happiness, the most distant, sad one, even while yet beneath the horizon, casts him down. —Richter.

What a piece of work is man! How noble in reason! how infinite in faculty! in form, and moving, how express and admirable! in action, how like an angel! in apprehension, how like a god! the beauty of the world! the paragon of animals! And yet, to me, what is this quintessence of dust? —Shakespeare.

When faith is lost, when honor dies, Then man is dead. —Whittier.

Reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man, and writing an exact man. —Bacon.

A man that is temperate, generous, valiant, chaste, faithful, and honest, may, at the same time, have wit, humor, good-breeding, mirth, and gallantry; while he exerts these latter qualities twenty occasions might be invented to show he is master of the other nobler virtues. —Steele.

God, when heaven and earth He did create, Formed man, who should of both participate. —Sir J. Denham.

Men are but children of a larger growth; Our appetites are apt to change as theirs, And full as craving, too, and full as vain. —Dryden.

Consider, man; weigh well thy frame; The king, the beggar, are the same. Dust formed us all. Each breathes his day, Then sinks into his native clay. —Gay.

Nobler birth Of creatures animate with gradual life Of growth, sense, reason, all summed up in man. —Milton.

The proverbial wisdom of the populace at gates, on roads, and in markets, instructs the attentive ear of him who studies man more fully than a thousand rules ostentatiously arranged. —Lavater.

Man, though individually confined to a narrow spot on this globe, and limited, in his existence, to a few courses of the sun, has nevertheless an imagination which no despotism can control, and which unceasingly seeks for the author of his destiny through the immensity of space and the ever-rolling current of ages. —Colton.

The author of the "Little Brown Jug" was probably in a jugular vein, when he wrote that sometime popular ditty.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Jimmy Brown and the Ice Cream Party.

There was pretty nearly a whole week that I kept out of trouble, but it didn't last. Boys are born to fly upward like the sparks that trouble, and yesterday I was "up to mischief again," as Sue said, though I never had the least idea of doing any mischief. How should an innocent boy, who might easily have been an orphan had things happened in that way, know all about cooking and chemistry and such, I should like to know. It was really Sue's fault. Nothing would do but she must have a party, and of course she must have ice-cream. Now the ice-cream that our cake-shop makes isn't good enough for her, so she got father to buy an ice-cream freezer and she said she would make the ice-cream herself. I was to help her, and she sent me to the store to order some salt. I asked her what she wanted of salt, and she said you couldn't freeze ice-cream without plenty of salt, and that it was almost as necessary as ice. I went to the store and ordered the salt, and then had a game or two of ball with the boys, and didn't get home till late in the afternoon. There was Sue freezing the ice-cream, and suffering dreadfully, so she said. She had to go and dress right away, and she told me to keep turning the ice-cream freezer until it froze, "and don't run off and leave me to do everything again, you good-for-nothing boy; I wonder how you can do it." I turned that freezer for ever so long, but nothing would freeze, so I made up my mind that it wanted more salt. I didn't want to disturb anybody, so I quietly went into the kitchen and got the salt-cellar and emptied it into the ice-cream. It began to freeze right away; but I tasted it and it was awful salt, so I got the jug of golden syrup and poured about a pint into the ice-cream, and when it was done it was a beautiful straw color. But there was an awful scene when the party tried to eat that ice-cream. Sue handed it round and said to everybody: "This is my ice-cream, and you must be sure to like it." The first one that she gave it to was Dr. Porter. He is dreadfully fond of ice-cream, and he smiled such a big smile, and said he was sure it was it, delightful, and took a whole spoonful. Then he jumped up as if something had hit him, and went out of the door in two jumps, and we didn't see him again. Then three more men tasted their ice-cream, and jumped up and ran after the doctor, and two girls said, "Oh, my!" and held their handkerchiefs over their faces, and turned just as pale. And then everybody else put a little ice-cream down on the table, and said thank you, they guessed they wouldn't take any. The party was regularly spoiled, and when I tasted the ice-cream I didn't wonder. It was worse than the best kind of strong medicine. Sue was in a dreadful state of mind, and when the party had gone home—all but one man, who lay under the apple tree all night and groaned like he was dying, only we thought it was the cat—she made me tell her all about the salt and the golden syrup. She wouldn't believe that I had tried to do my best and didn't mean any harm. Father took her part, and said I ought to eat some of the ice-cream since I made it; but I said I'd rather go upstairs with him. So I went.

Some of these days people will begin to understand that they are just wasting and throwing away a boy who always tries to do his best, and perhaps they'll be sorry when it is too late. —Harper's Young People.

Southern Affection for Faces.

Speaking of faro and other wicked games, a Virginian, after remarking that in the better days of the republic, when everybody played faro, a gentleman distinguished by the ornament of "red cheeks" from the poor white-check trash, dwelt upon the passionate love for the game which possesses men who get into its clutches. "Years ago," he said, "two of the finest lawyers in New Orleans on their way to New York stopped at Charlottesville, Virginia, because they heard that there was a man there who dealt faro. They found the man and played all night. About midnight one lawyer whispered to the other: 'He's cheating.' 'Hush,' said the other; 'I've known that for two hours; but there isn't another faro game within forty miles.'" —Philadelphia Record.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine.

If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter and several bottles will be required.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrh virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions. The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for long treatment.

ATARRH

A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost. Easy and pleasant to use. Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. E. T. HARTLINE, Warren, Pa.
