THE NEW SCHOOL BOOKS.

There has been much talk by the opponents of the new school book law about the sacrifice parents would have to make in exchanging their children's old books for the new. But now that the matter has been fully adjusted the old books are to be received at a liberal price as herein shown. C. M. Barnes, of Chicago, has arranged to accept the old books at the following prices: Readers—First, 5 cents; second, 7 cents; third, 9 cents; fourth, 12 cents, and fifth 15 cents. Arithmetics—Elementary, 7 cents; complete, 11 cents. Geographies (except Indiana edition)—Elementary, 11 cents; complete, 25 cents. Or to put it in a different way:

Five cents and the old first reader in use buys a new first reader.

Eight cents and the old second reader in use buys a new second reader.

Sixteen cents and the old third reader in use buys a new third reader.

Nineteen cents and the old fourth reader in use buys the new fourth reader.

Twenty-five cents and the old fifth reader in use buys the new fifth reader.

Twenty-eight cents and the old elementary arithmetic in use buys the new elementary arithmetic.

Thirty-four cents and the old complete arithmetic in use buys the new complete arithmetic.

Nineteen cents and the old elementary geography in use buys the new elementary geography.

Fifty cents and the old complete geography in use buys the new complete geography.

At these prices the books must be without torn leaves and in good condition. Injured books that have to be rebound will be taken at one half the above prices.

It is true that even these exchange prices will entail some immediate loss, but this and more too will soon be saved in the reduced price of books. The days of monopoly and high prices in school books are gone. The new books have been selected by the members of the State board of education who have pronounced them equal to the old books in every particular. Those who are howling against the new books are doing it for political purposes and some of them are doing it for money furnished by the book trusts. But the trust is "busted" and the new books are being placed in every county in the State.

A tramp named Smith was up before Justice Morgan Tuesday morning charged with cutting Tom Akers, a cripple 14 or 15 years of age, over the apex of the heart with a pocket knife. The knife penetrated the boy's vest and shirt and made a slight wound. It is supposed the knife struck a rib and thus prevented causing a wound that might have resulted in death. The tramp was captured a few miles south of town by Constable Wood and Marshal Simpson, and identified by the boy. He was held to the circuit court in the sum of $500.
