The following editorial from the New York World will be interesting at this juncture:

"THE PRESIDENT ABROAD."

"The loyal citizens of Boston, as a partisan President worshipper would call them, were in a tremor of excitement yesterday lionizing President Harrison.

"They showed him 'Funnel Hall' and the gilded dome, the Common and other historic spots, and the beautiful suburbs. They stood on the sidewalk to see the Presidential party drive by. * * * And what did they see? A very small and pale and commonplace Indiana statesman afflicted with a pronounced case of that progressive and fatal complaint known as the "Big Head." He has been five months in office and has not, so far as the public has been made aware, or as appearance indicate, given thought or attention to any business save filling the offices with his own relatives, friends and supporters.

He has bestowed high offices as a reward for raising enormous sums of money to promote his election. He has repudiated the pledges of his party and his own promises to the nation by inaugurating and carrying on the wildest carnival of spoils which has been seen in this country in twenty-five years. He has appointed notorious rascals to office. He has made corrupt bargains with political freebooters. And he aggravated these offences against honest politics and good government by Pharisaeic pretentiousness and the cant of piety.

"What is there in his character or his record as president that should lead the people to pay hero worship to Benjamin Harrison? It is well to honor his office. But before the Presidency is honored in its occupant he should first honor it. And this the present incumbent has not done."

The Republicans have insisted that the reason why Democrats are elected to Congress from southern districts in which the negro population is the largest is that the negroes are intimidated by Democrats and thus prevented from voting. They sent several northern Republican Congressmen to Louisiana to see about this, and to report such a condition of things in the district of that state, in which there was a special election for a Congressman last week. The returns of the election, says the Atlanta Journal, completely disprove their charge. They did persuade most of the negroes in one of the parishes not to vote, hoping that their abstinenace would afford them a tact to sustain their charge. But, notwithstanding this, about 32,000 votes were cast in the district, and that at a special election for an official only. The returns show that not only must the negroes have generally voted (except in one parish above referred to) but that hundreds of them voted the Democratic ticket.

There 32,000 votes were almost as many as were cast in both the congressional districts of Republican Rhode Island at the simultaneous presidential and congressional elections of last year. They are greatly more than were cast in the whole Republican State of Nevada. In ten of the congressional districts districts of New York last November hardly as many votes were cast in each, notwithstanding the fact that the presidential, congressional and State elections excited and called out nearly every voter. No doubt we could find many other congressional districts of northern States in which less than 32,000 votes were cast, if we had time to look them out.

Thus is another Republican slander on the Democrats of the south signally refuted.

At Nashville, Tenn., Commissioner Tanner said "The wolf of want must in common decency be driven from the door of the maimed or diseased veteran." Corporal Tanner is keeping the wolf at a distance from his own door with a salary of $5,000 and a pension of $864, but for fear that the wolf should sneak in through the windows he has had his daughter Nettie guarding one of them with a salary of $720, and his daughter Ada is guarding another one with an $1,800 salary. These salaries would keep the wolves away from two other doors, but Corporal Tanner is not the man to leave his own little ones unprotected.

The Monon Route now has several vestibuled sleepers on its line. The cars are of the most elegant and luxurious pattern, with all the latest improvements, including even lighting by electricity. The road is having additional vestibuled trains constructed, and of which the Indianapolis Journal says: "The trains which the Pullman Car Company are building for the line between Chicago and Cincinnati, are to be an exact type of the limited trains recently put on between New York and Chicago over the Erie lines, which are among the finest trains run in this country. They will be lighted with electricity, elegantly finished and complete in every respect. The Pullmans are interested in the trains from the fact that they will run against the new Wagner trains which the Wagner company is building to run over the Big Four line, which, it is stated, will be the finest the works have ever built. The Big Four will get their trains on within the next thirty days, but it will be sixty days before the Pullman trains are put on over the L. N. A. & C. and the C. H. & D.

THE FRENCH EXPOSITION.

Where the Great Industrial Exhibition in Paris Is Lacking.

A writer in Science thinks the great French exposition lacks novelties. He says people walk until they are fatigued through the almost endless buildings on the Champ de Mars, and yet fail to find any great or striking object by which they would especially remember the exhibition of 1889. The place is filled with evidences of untiring industry and skill on every side, but there is a strange absence of great novelties. We believe, however, that the exhibition will be famous for four distinctive features—in the first place, for its buildings, especially the Eiffel tower and the Machinery Hall; in the second place, for its Colonial Exhibition, which for the first time brings vividly to the appreciation of Frenchmen that they are masters of lands beyond the sea; third, it will be remembered for its great collection of war material, the most absorbing subject nowadays, unfortunately, to governments, if not to individuals; and fourth, it will be remembered, and with good cause by many, for the extraordinary manner in which South American countries are represented. Several of those nationalities are beginning to put themselves forward as appreciable factors in the politics of the world, and, what is of more interest to the manufacturer, they constitute the richest and largest customers in European and North American markets. Especially this is the case with regard to agricultural machinery of all kinds, and those exhibitors are fortunate who are well represented in this respect.
