

FRIDAY DECEMBER 20 1889

Entered at the post office at Rensselaer, Ind.
as second-class matter.

Under a law passed by the last legislature, trustees and assessors chosen at the spring election will hold four years

Albums in great variety, and in all styles at J. E. Spangler's, in post office.

Carroll county has employed ferrets to hunt up property concealed from assessors when listing for taxation.

Bring your whole family and attend the museum of holiday goods at the Chicago Bargain Store.

The White county jury, in the Remley case, returned a verdict of not guilty. As usual, our neighbor seems to appear on the part of the State.

The receipts of the northern Indiana prison for the year ending Oct. 30th, 1889, were $113,601. The expenditures were $99,378. There are 748 prisoners, and it costs $129 a year for each prisoner.

Holiday goods, in great variety. Call and see them before purchasing elsewhere, at J. E. Spangler's in post-office.

Indiana courts, in a number of cases, have decided that an extra charge of ten cents cannot lawfully be collected from passengers who fail to secure tickets before entering a train, and on several roads conductors have been instructed not to collect the penalty.

No sooner had B. Harrison returned to Washington from Indianapolis, when Dudley made his first appearance in the latter city since circulating the "blocks of five" letter. Although a warrant was sworn out for his arrest the U. S. officials refused to serve it, we suppose in accordance with Benjamin's instructions.

Any person purchasing goods to the amount of $20, between this date and March, 1890, at J. E. Spangler's in post-office, will receive, FREE, a copy of "Webster's Encyclopedia of Useful Knowledge and World's Atlas," worth $6.00.

The Boston Journal photographs the Australian ballot system as follows: "Hated by the heeler, objurgated by the bummer and the professional politician, the polling booth and the quiet mechanism of the Australian system which it symbolizes mark a new era in our politics. The secret, State-printed ballot smashes machines. It shivers the most carefully-constructed 'slaves.' It deranges the most adroit wire-laying. It places upon all nominating bodies the necessity of putting the best men to the front. It gives intelligence an advantage over ignorance. It prevents coercion or undue pressure. It favors independence and compels discrimination. It is certain to work surprises, some of which will be satisfactory, and others perhaps not entirely so, but in the long run it will surely work for the dominance of the best men and the best principles. It must be supplemented now by an improved caucus system. Indiana will give the Australian system a trial next year."

A PENNSYLVANIA REPTILE.—Why, really now, this thing is becoming serious. Here comes the President of the Pennsylvania Steel company with a British free trade whoop that makes one shudder. Just listen to him: 'Give me free ore,' says he, 'and I'll sell pig-iron in Liverpool and steel rails in London.' Oh, the reptile!—And he a Pennsylvanian, too. "What American industries most want," he proceeds, "is free opportunity, and not legislative protection nor restriction." That man is dangerous. He ought to be suppressed as a menace to social order. Such talk as that is calculated to shake the foundations of things, and bring the whole structure of society tumbling about our ears.

Here is a short and sensible lesson on the tariff:

"Sugar is a necessary of life; and, as we do not produce it at home to any considerable extent, the duty imposed thereon is so much added to the foreign price. It is a tax, and the heaviest that the people pay into the Federal Treasury."

That is the whole story.—The duty imposed on an article is so much added to the foreign price, and hence enabling (and for the purpose of enabling) home producers of the same article to sell it for a price corresponding to the foreign price with duty added, all of which is paid by the consumer. Hence, as further truly stated, the tariff is a tax.

It doesn't alter the virtue of this short and sensible lesson on the tariff that it comes from the Indiana State Republican organ.—Indianapolis News.

And the News might have added that not a penny of the tax expended for the home product went into the federal treasury, but was so much compulsory bounty to the producer.

The Cannelton Enquirer concludes an article contrasting the Cleveland and Harrison administrations with this forcible and truthful paragraph:

"All of the carpenter fault-finders of Grover Cleveland's administration are beginning to realize their errors, and he is a stronger man in the hearts of The People to day than any man of prominence in the country, and he is still growing. Most men in public life are not appreciated for their true worth until after death, but Benjamin Harrison has made it possible for Grover Cleveland to be estimated at his proper standard while living, simply by contrast."

That this contrast is being made by Republicans as well as Democrats, and to the disadvantage of Harrison, was illustrated in Boston the other day, when Governor Ames, in his speech introducing ex-President Cleveland, was cheered enthusiastically as he said: 'I shall be happy, indeed, if wicked Democrats speak as well of me after the end of my official term as Republicans speak of ex-President Cleveland.'—Evansville Courier.

Now that everybody is looking about them to see what Magazine they will take for the coming year, we would advise them to inquire into the merits of Demorest's Family Magazine. We have just rec'd the January number of this wonderful publication, and cannot speak too highly in its praise. It is certainly what its name implies, A Family Magazine; for in it will be found something to amuse or instruct ev'ry member of the family. The first article, telling how Uncle Sam's Paper-Money is made is beautifully illustrated, and furnishes the most interesting information upon the subject that we have ever seen. "The Infant Mcnarchs of Europe" is not only illustrated with their portraits, but with those of their parents as well; "The Undying Voice" is a finely illustrated article about Edison's wonderful Phonograph, and includes a portrait of the great inventor himself. The children will be delighted with "Snow Sculpture," which gives them models enough to keep them busy all winter. Besides these, there are "Until One O'clock" (a Comedietta), "Scarlet Fever and other Contagious Diseases, Their Causes and Treatment," "Aids to Beauty," "Maniac Bells," "Wedding Breakfasts," "All Sorts of Peas," "Home-Made Candies," "Aecdotic History of the Table," and numerous other articles and stories, also a fine Fashion Department; and all beautifully embellished with over two hundred illustrations, the crowning one of which is "At a Parisian Florist's," a handsome oil picture, well worthy a frame. The mystery is how such a publication can be furnished for only $2.00 per year. It is done, however, by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York,
