

Democratic Sentinel

FRIDAY JANUARY 24 1890

Entered at the post office at Rensselaer, Ind.
as second-class matter.

Democratic candidates for places on the state ticket are coming to the front.

Albert Gall, a prominent business man of Indianapolis, desires the Democratic nomination for Treasurer of State. Mr. G. is highly recommended for the position.

The gallant Capt. W. J. Hilligas, who defeated the convicted Republican knight of the golden circle, L. P. Milligan, for the Senate a few years ago, desires the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State. He would fill the position creditably.

The Republican Outrage Mills started in operation in the south to furnish grists to the hands of republicans in the present congress to force radical legislation and secure control of elections in that section, presented Ingalls, of Kansas with the first batch, which he spread out before the Senate the other day. Billee Chandler and Ingalls are a precious pair of jackasses.

We commence this week the publication of Mr. Voorhees' speech on republican obstruction to the arrest of Dudley on his late visit to Indianapolis. One gets but a faint conception of the force and power of the Senator's utterances from the condensed form sent out by correspondents. We bespeak for it a careful perusal.

We are informed that the political chameleon who, astride of a white horse, sashed, beaded, and with flowing raven locks, fire in his eye and proud mein, was pressed to the front by a few admiring friends on the occasion of the Democratic rally at this place in 1888, took a prominent part in the Republican district convention at Hammond the other day. As the affair in 1888 cost the Democracy of Jasper a large number of votes we hope and pray that that of a few days ago may operate far more disastrously to the republican party of this district.

The insinuation of Senator Edmunds that the "Morey" letter was a Democratic forgery revives the fact that Johnny Davenport, Republican supervisor of elections in New York, failed in his effort to trace it to Democratic origin. The fact remains that the sentiments of the letter were borne out in the speeches and votes of Mr. Garfield in the House. Mr. Garfield never positively denied writing it, although urged by his party to do so, and we guess he wrote it. Senator Edmunds' allusion to it, therefore, was in very bad taste.

The Valparaiso Messenger says: "Some of the Democrats of DeKalb county are making blanched fools of themselves by sanctioning the establishment of a second Democratic paper at Auburn. If they don't like the editor of the Courier buy him out. Two Democratic papers in the same town work about as charmingly as two wives under the same roof. Hair-pulling is the result. The Democrats of DeKalb can give the county to the Republicans by sanctioning the establishment of a second Democratic paper in that town."

VOORHEES'S SPEECH.

ley was left without advice, instruction or assistance? It was a crisis of the most perilous kind for the Republican party and all its hopes, and the ablest and coolest heads in that party were bent, not in prayer, but in deep and anxious consideration and management.—Dudley was in New York with his committee. What was said and done there upon consultation and what advices he received from his chief at Indianapolis can be determined very accurately by the policy which he at once adopted.

It was the policy of bold meadacity, the policy of flagitious falsehood. His proclamation was put forth that he did not write the letter; that it was spurious, a fabrication, a forgery. Partisan excitement and interest were intense at the time, and many believed Dudley's denial who denounce it now, and many affected to believe who knew then that it was false. He promptly brought suit against the World, the Times, the Post, and perhaps others of the great journals of New York, for publishing his letter as an item of news, and demanded enormous damages for libel on his character. This fraudulent resort to the courts of New York was designed as a blind to the people, and to cause them to believe a lie in the interest of the Republican party, at least until after the election.

Subsequent proceedings, however, have doubtless convinced even Dudley how difficult it is to play Jekyl and Hyde at the same time, and without the aid of theatrical costumes, foot-lights, and drop-curtains; how difficult it is, in other words, to combine in the ordinary affairs of life the assumption of injured innocence and honesty with the conduct of a scheming, conspiring political freebooter. From the earliest day it was possible for any one of his libel suits in New York to be forced to trial by the more than ready and willing defendants, to the present hour, Dudley has been an alert, vigilant, and persistent exile from the jurisdiction of the Empire State. With the first symptoms of an opportunity to put his good name to a judicial test, and to recover enough money for another huge corruption fund, he fled from New York with the speed of a bank embezzler, and found in this District as safe a refuge, it seems, as if he had gone to Canada.

For more than a year the defendants in the libel suit have been exhausting all legal methods to get him, the plaintiff, into court to prosecute his own cases in vindication of his own damaged reputation and as yet their efforts have all been in vain. These defendants, failing to secure the personal presence of Dudley in court, have also made every effort obtain his testimony in his own behalf—to induce him to inform them and the court of all the particulars whereby he has been damaged in his fair fame and reputation to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars.

OBITUARY.

Harriet (Jar) Cover was born in Noble county, Ohio, June 25, 1839; died at her home in Union township, Jasper county, Ind. January 10, 1890, aged 50 years, 6 months and 16 days. Moved with her parents, when 3 years old, to Belmont county, Ohio, and was there married to George W. Cover, December 15, 1859. She was the mother of 11 children, 6 girls and 5 boys, all of whom survive her. Among these 11 children are 4 pairs of twins. She was a teacher in the public schools for eleven terms, and a teacher and worker in the Sunday Schools for many years. She joined the Christian church in 1853 and was a faithful and zealous member until the end. Her husband and all her children were present at the funeral, and also Mrs. Sarah E. Johnson, a sister, from Belmont county, Ohio. The funeral was held Sunday, Jan. 12, and was conducted by Elder E. D. Pierson. The interment was in Prater graveyard.

The sorrowing husband and children desire to express, through these columns, their sincere thanks to the many friends for aid and sympathy in their affliction.

Sweden is perhaps the most Protestant country in the world; of a population of 6,000,000 there are only 2,000 Roman Catholics, the remainder of the population belonging almost entirely to the Lutheran church.

Here is a way to tell how fast you are traveling in a railway car: Every time the car passes over a rail joint there is a distinct click. Count the number of these clicks in twenty seconds and you have the number of miles the train is going per hour. This is a simple matter of arithmetic, as the length of the rail is uniform.

An exchange gives the following advice to mothers: Boxing the ears as a means of punishing children is a dangerous practice. There are many recorded cases in which the drum of the ear has been ruptured by this method of punishment, and a short time ago a death was caused by it in England; the ear drum was ruptured, ear disease set in and extended to the brain, causing death. After all, the slipper properly applied is the best means of castigation, and no ear disease can result from its use.

A Nebraska farmer puts forward a new remedy for hog cholera, which he claims to have used with success. We quote it from the Indiana Farmer for what it may be worth: "Instead of dosing the sick porkers with medicine he takes them out riding. He places a few at a time in a big wagon and drives pell-mell over the lots and pastures, seeking the roughest places he can find. After a few such drives, hogs that before refused to eat began to feed and get better. He has not lost a single hog since he began this treatment, and thinks he has demonstrated its utility.

The girls in Waterbury, Conn., got the putty jar craze, and they made life a burden to the policemen of that town for awhile. The policemen naturally inferred that all the young ladies in the street had gone stark mad. Bevies of fascinating and beautiful girls were seen to dart suddenly into the street now and then, pounce upon something in the gutter or on the roadbed, pick it up, and then return to the sidewalk and trip serenely on. They were merely gathering raw material for the putty jar craze. One bewitching maiden fluently explained what the putty jar business is. "It's lots of fun," said she; "you bet it is. Why, you get any kind of a jar, the cuter the better, and you get your father or brother to roll out some putty, then and you have him cover every part of the jar with the putty. Have him stick it about half an inch thick. It will stick on of itself. Then you have lots of sport. Stick everything you can think of and pick up in the house, or yard, or street, or the putty, and in every sort of odd designs. Old buttons and screws look pretty good, and bits of dolls are awfully cute. What do you think I did? I stole a suspender buckle of my father's, and jabbed it on the jar, and I have found lots of things on the street that odd and cunning on the putty. Knickknacks from the factories and odds and ends from the shops look good, too, and after you have got the jar all stuck up, then you have it bronzed and varnished. That's all there is to the putty jar craze."—Cor. New York Sun.

New Style in Trunks.

Trunkmakers say that the gigantic Saratogas are "out of style," and that women of good sense are preferring to buy two moderate sized trunks, about forty inches long, with flat tops and iron bands and oak tips. Wicker trunks are also popular, both with men and women.

Those wishing to buy anything in the line of Cashmeres or Henrietta will do well to call on R. Fendig and inspect his new line of Dry Goods and learn low prices.

It doesn't need more than a superficial examination of the figures we have quoted to show that the farmer is the patient, long suffering animal who is supporting the burden of our foreign trade and carrying all the high protected industries on his broad but aching back.—Chicago Tribune.

The man who takes his week's wages on Saturday night and lays it out in the necessities of life, if he refers to the tariff schedule will find that he contributes an average of 47 per cent. to the manufacturers of the country. That is to say, if there was no tariff he might put away in the savings bank 47 per cent. of his earnings.

A new Shinto temple has been dedicated at Tokio, the materials of which were dragged to the sacred site by ropes made of human hair—a free will offering from the pigtailed of 350,000 of the faithful.
