CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.
The Democratic nominating convention for the 10th congressional district will be held at Monon, Ind., next Wednesday, Sept 10th.

Delegates to Congressional Convention.
Congressional—M. J. Castello, C. G. Austin, Jas. W. Douthit, Henry E. Smith, Newell, S. D. Clark, P. E. Davis.

Round-trip tickets from Rensselaer to Monon and return, 65 cents.

The State Convention adopted a ring platform. Will appear next week.

Billy Owen loves the soldier, but not to the extent of stepping aside for a soldier candidate.

The Democratic State Convention nominated a splendid ticket. The Indiana Sun, an independent paper, says of it: "Taken as a whole, the ticket is one of the strongest ever put up for public discussion and consideration in the state of Indiana."

Billy Owen is a preacher, but in order to quicken the zeal and hopes of his supporters, he said in his speech before the convention here, "We will bury the Democrats so deep, face down, that the more they scratch the nearer home (hell) they'll get!" Billy has been keeping bad company too long, and is becoming demoralized. He will have to be remanded to the pulpit.

The Republican Congressional Convention which met at this place Thursday of last week was organized by the election of T. F. Palmer, of Monticello, chairman, and C. B. Landis, of the Delphi Journal, secretary. The resolutions adopted endorsed Dictator Reed's tyrannical record as presiding officer of the lower House; the administration of Benjamin Harrison; the panzer pension bill; the Force bill; the McKinley tariff bill; the demonetization silver bill. After the adoption of the resolutions, in the absence of rules governing the convention, a delegate moved that the convention proceed to nominate a candidate for Congress. On a call of the roll of counties Cass nominated W. D. Owen, at which the excursionists from Cass and Carroll, in accordance with the program, yelled themselves hoarse. However, a chill fell upon the proceedings when a soldier delegate from Porter county demanded fair treatment for the soldier from a republican convention, saying that Porter county had a candidate who went to the front to defend the old flag when the first call was made by the great Emancipator, and never left the field until the smoke of battle had cleared away and peace reigned supreme over our fair land, and named Nelson J. Boazth. It was plainly evident that the old veterans were to be disregarded in the convention, but, as an old soldier from Porter expressed himself to a comrade from White, "Owen and the ringsters might manipulate a convention, but the boys who wore the blue will get their whale at him in November by voting for a Democrat." Owen received $4 5.16 and the soldier candidate but $8 11.16. On a motion to make the nomination unanimous the "noes" were heard coming from several delegations. A committee was appointed by the chair to conduct the candidate to the stand, who, on presentation commenced by saying that the republican party had performed nearly every pledge made by the Chicago convention. He defended Dictator Reed; praised the McKinley bill, said it left half of the manufactured articles on the free list, but failed to state why, if it was a good thing to have half on the free list, it would not be better to have it enlarged by adding salt, lumber, twine and other necessities. He complimented the republican party on the introduction of a lottery bill, but neglected to add that if present laws were enforced they are ample to crush out the evil; he neglected to state, also, that Russell Harrison's Montana paper was the largest advertiser of lotteries in the United States. He asserted that the republican party sayed the Union by fighting her battles from '61 to '65, but forgot the conspicuous part taken in that great struggle by such Democrats as McClellan, Hancock, Rosecrans and the many many thousands of Democratic officers and men who offered their lives as a sacrifice on the alter of their country. He touched lightly the miserable apology for a silver bill; he forgot to mention the bankrupt bill and that he was the only member of the entire Indiana delegation with sufficient gall to vote for it. The latter part of his speech was devoted to southern outrages, manufactured by unscrupulous demagogues for the occasion. He did not mention the fact that only a few weeks since a republican candidate for clerk in Kentucky was waylaid and shot by the friends of his republican opponent for the nomination, or that Col. Goodloe and another equally prominent southern republican killed each other a few months since. His forgetfulness reminds one of S. W. Dorsey's short memory when on the witness stand during the progress of trial of the Star Route frauds.

Harvest Home Excursions.
Sept. 9th and Oct. 14th, are the days for taking the Monon Route on Home-Seekers and Harvest Home, cheap excursions. Persons wishing to visit almost any known point in the South and West, can reach it on these excursion tickets.

The rate is one fare for the round trip. The limit of the tickets will be 30 days. Among the states to be reached by these excursions are all the southern states except Virginia and North and South Carolina; and nearly all the western states and territories. The agents of the company are prepared to give full information.
