Laws of Newspapers.

Except at the option of the publisher no paper will be discontinued until all arrearages are paid.

Any person who receives or takes a newspaper from a post-office, whether he is named or not, or whether it is in his name or another's, is held in law to be a subscriber and is responsible for the pay.

If subscribers move to other places without notifying the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former direction they are held responsible.

The courts have decided that subscribers, in arrears, who refuse to take papers from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncollected, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud, and may be dealt with in the criminal courts.

If any person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay all arrearages or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made and collect the whole amount whether the paper is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until payment is made in full.

REDUCTIONS OF WAGES.

The latest ripe, luscious fruit borne on the McKinley tree for the special benefit of the wage earners is a reduction of 10 per cent. on the wages of the men employed in the Fairfield Chemical Works, Bridgeport, Conn., announced December 24, by way of making Christmas merry. The principle product of this establishment is sulphuric acid, which was on the free list until October 6, 1890. Representative Candler, of Massachusetts, who is peculiarly interested in the manufacture of sulphuric acid, got a duty of 1 cent. a pound imposed on it by the McKinley tariff. So this Bridgeport concern gets a protection of $5.60 per ton that it never had before, and celebrates the event by cutting wages 10 per cent.

A carpet factory in Hartford, Conn., reduced wages 10 per cent. before the McKinley bill passed but not till the increase of the duty on carpet wool was certain. Between the enactment of the McKinley bill and the election the following reductions of wages occurred: Early in October a 20 per cent. cut in some of the Paterson, N. J., silk mills; a reduction of wages in the plush mills, Catsaugus, Pa., about the middle of the month; 25 cents a week taken off the wages of the girls in the Valley Falls, E. I., woollen mills; about $3 a week taken off the wages of men employed in a canning establishment in Indianapolis; 24 cents an hour taken off the wages of carpenters in Cleveland, Ohio, November 3; 15 cents a day taken off the wages of spoolers in the Merrimac mills, Lowell, Mass., same date; reduction of wages of armature winders in the Thompson-Houston works, Lynn, Mass., same date; a shave on the wages of 70 girls in Ashland, Pa.

On election day the cotton weavers in Lonsdale, E. I., had 15 cents per cut taken off their wages, and the cuts were increased five yards. Immediately after the election Russell & Co. and Jno. C. Dueber, in Mr. McKinley's town, and a glass factory in Mr. McCormac's town, discharged their Democratic employees. December 3, 20 per cent. was taken off the wages of the boss carpet tack makers in Birmingham, Conn., and on the 8th 15 per cent. was taken off the wages of women employed in an underwear factory in the same town.

About the same time there was a reduction of the wages of the mill spinners in the Merrimac mills, Lowell, Mass., and on December 10 cuts of from 10 to 20 per cent. were made in the wages of potters in Trenton, N. J. Besides these, a number of silk and woollen mills have closed down and thrown their work people out of employment. A machine tool concern in Plainfield, N. J., has reduced its force because of decreased demand for its goods. A general average of 10 per cent. has been knocked off the wages of 1,500 employees of the Pullman Car Works. Shoemakers in Massachusetts and Rochester, N. Y., had their wages cut, and the Clarke, for whose benefit there is a high duty on thread, are importing yarns spun in Scotland in order to break down the organization of their American laborers. On Monday the wages of 2,000 employees of Carnegie, Phipps & Co., in the Homestead Steel Works, were reduced 10 per cent.

But prices go on advancing, and new trusts are formed every day, and William McKinley, Jr., is sure that the people will like his bill when they get used to it.—National Democrat.

PROTECTIONIST CONFESSIONS.

National Democrat: Some of our protectionist contemporaries seem to know so little about the tariff that they do not even appreciate the facts that tell against them. They publish the facts upon which the demand for tariff reform rests and imagine they are supporting their own cause when really they are knitting it.

For example, the Headless Philadelphia Press, whose editor is hobnobbing with the Czar's officials and telegraphs home that there is no persecution of the Jews in Russia, says:

"The free trade papers which are enlarging on the influence of the McKinley tariff in advancing the price of potatoes, carefully and dishonestly conceal the fact that the crop this year is one-third short, or 140,000,000 bushels, against an average of 195,000,000 bushels for the past two years. In 1887, when the crop was as small, prices were as high as they are now."

The price of potatoes has gone up, and if this were attributable to the McKinley tariff the tariff reformers would have to admit that although the new law increased the cost of living for all other classes it had at least accomplished something for the farmers. But the fact is, as the Press says, that the advance in the price of potatoes is due to a short crop, so that the farmer has no occasion for gratitude to Mr. McKinley. Instead of suppressing the fact of the shortness of the crop of potatoes, the tariff reform papers have every motive in the world for keeping distinctly before the farmers' eyes the fact that if he gets more for potatoes than he did last year it is not due to the McKinley bill. We said last spring, and recent events have proved the truth of it, that while the McKinley bill would raise the price of things the farmer had to buy it could not raise the price of what he had to sell; if those prices rose it would be due to something other than the tariff; as the Press says in the case of potatoes, a short crop.

And another stupid protectionist paper, dures tariff reform papers to print this notice:

"We beg to remind our clients that through the McKinley bill the duty on works of art has been reduced from 30 to 15 per cent. Consequently we are in a position to offer paintings delivered at 15 per cent less cost than last year. As heretofore, we are ready to send on application free of charge selections of photographs after our newly acquired original paintings."

We print this notice from an art dealer with great alacrity. It shows, in the first place, that a reduction in the tariff reduces prices, and we are a good deal more anxious to have this interesting and important fact understood than the New York Mail and Express is.

In the second place, this shows that the same McKinley bill that increased the cost of all sorts of wearing apparel, canned food and a thousand other necessities of life purchased by the poor, reduced the cost of all paintings bought only by the rich.

If the protectionists really want these facts circulated among the people we will do all in our power to accommodate them.

TRUTHFUL AND OUTSPOKEN.—In his remarks before the Republican State Central Committee, in discussing the present situation, and future prospects of success of the g. o. p., Mr. Brush, of Crawfordville is reported as saying:

"But boodle will do it. Boodle did it in 1880 and 1888, and boodle will do it in '92, gentlemen, if you can devise some scheme to evade the Australian Election law which the democrats adopted to protect themselves against our effective methods."

And continued in response to exceptions:

"Oh, what is the use of denying it, gentlemen. You all know that Indiana was carried for Harrison with boodle."
