LAWS OF NEWSPAPERS.

Except at the option of the publisher, no paper will be discontinued until all arrearages are paid.

Any person who receives or takes a newspaper from a post-office, whether he has ordered it or not, or whether it is in his name or another's, is held to be a subscriber and is responsible for the payment.

If subscribers move to other places without notifying the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former direction they are held responsible for the payment.

The courts have decided that subscribers, in arrears, who refuse to take papers from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncollected, are prima facie evidence of intention to defraud, and may be dealt with in the criminal courts.

If any person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay all arrearages of the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made and collect the whole amount whether the paper is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until payment is made in full.

"QUEENSWARE" is so called from the fact that when, in 1763, Josiah Wedgwood perfected earthenware for sale to the British Queen, she was so greatly pleased she gave it her name and patronage. Thereafter the word "queen" was stamped on all such dishes made by Wedgwood.

PERSONALS.

DAN RICE, the veteran clown and showman, is about to publish his recollections of the one-ring circus.

SECRETARY BALFOUR is a violinist and is said to be fond of all kinds of music, but he certainly has no liking for the harp once heard through Tara's halls.

CHIEF JUSTICE FULLER's daughter, Miss Mary Fuller, will soon return to Germany to resume her musical studies. She takes a younger sister with her. Miss Fuller devotes six or seven hours a day to her piano practice.

MELBOURNE the rainmaker's secret has been sold to a Kansas company, which is incorporated with $100,000 capital. It is understood that Keely, the motor man, is looking forward with much encouragement to the new company's operation.

A COSTLY POEM.

Pope received $25,000 for his version of Homer. But the prize-winner in a competition opened by the proprietors of a half-penny journal in England has just been paid $5,000 for five lines of verse composing the "poem" which was adjudged the best offered. This is at the rate of $1,000 a line, and say $100 a word, making this the most costly poem on record.

JUST OUT.

A N. W. AND HANDSOME "POPULAR HISTORY OF INDIANA."

A very attractive, handsome, well written and thoroughly interesting and instructive work is "The Popular History of Indiana," just given to a public by Mrs. Thomas A. Hendricks. The book contains nearly three hundred pages, is well bound, and is embellished by over one hundred and ten illustrations. These illustrations include excellent portraits of all the persons who have figured prominently in the history of the state from its first settlement to the present moment; also views of historical spots, public buildings, scenery, land marks, etc. "The Popular History of Indiana" retails for $2. The publishers of THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL, having secured the entire sale of the book, have concluded to offer it to the history with a year's subscription to THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL, for three months' subscription to THE DAILY and SUNDAY SENTINEL, or four months' subscription to THE DAILY SENTINEL for $3. At this rate the history costs the purchaser only $1, and it should find its way into every household in the state. The book is especially adapted to young people.

THE SENTINEL is offering thirty special prizes, aggregating in value several thousand dollars, for the thirty largest clubs sent in between now and May 1, 1892. Write to THE INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL company for circular containing full particulars. "The Popular History of Indiana" can be ordered through any agent of THE SENTINEL at the above prices.

A HEROINE SELLING MATCHES.

France Should Be Ashamed to See This Woman Want.

A heroine has been discovered in Paris, says a correspondent. She is Miss Louise de Beaulieu, who a few days ago was authorized to sell matches in the streets on the ground that she had been deprived of her arm by a gunshot received in 1870. Her license also states that she was decorated with the military medal and eight medals for saving life by her intrepidity and heroism. I have been to see her in the dingy street near the Central Markets, in which she has lived for several years. She has been earning a living by calling up market people in the small hours of the morning, being paid a small fee by each. (One is at once aware that she must have seen better days. Though weather-beaten and bearing the traces of twenty years of hardship, she is not a "mannish" woman. She says she is 50, and looks her age, and is decidedly though coarsely dressed. Louise de Beaulieu was a lady who had independent means.

When the war broke out, twenty years ago, she joined a regiment as a vivandiere. She was in eight battles, picked up under fire many soldiers, and came near being shot. In St. Denis, she was French as a spy. Her aristocratic air struck some soldiers, who took her prisoner and kept her in a hole in the ramparts till she could be tried. The trial was by a drumhead court martial, which sentenced her to be shot. On being taken to be executed she refused to let her eyes be bandaged, and asked as a last privilege to be allowed to give the word to fire. An officer, admiring her pluck, saved her. She is in the fight at Nanterre, Le Bourget, Bry-sur-Marne and Villiers, and always kept in the van. She attended, at one of these places, to twenty-five wounded men, and lost her right arm at Champigny, while she was carrying a soldier to an ambulance. This did not disable her from work.

Her record is one of the most splendid that man or woman could wish for. Though so badly wounded, she was up and about and helpful at Groulay, Drancy and in the sortie of Buzenil. One of her feats was saving a child from the sixth floor of a house which took fire in the Rue Saint Honoré. She spent 1880 in the terrible winter of the war in procuring comforts for the wounded whom she nursed in ambulances.

The Jap Loves Flowers.

In a paper on "The Chief City of the Province of the Gods" Lafcadio Hearn describes a Japanese flower show. He writes:

"Often in the streets at night, especially on the nights of sacred festivals (matsuri), one's attention will be attracted to some small booth by the spectacle of an admiring and perfectly silent crowd pressing before it. As soon as one can get a chance to look one finds there is nothing to look at but a few vases containing sprays of flowers, or, perhaps, some light, graceful branches freshly cut from a blossoming tree. It is simply a little flower show, or more correctly, a free exhibition of master skill in the arrangement of flowers. For the Japanese do not brutally chop off flower heads to work them into meaningless masses of color, as we barbarians do; they love nature to well for that; they know how much the natural charm of the flower depends upon its setting and mounting, its relation to leaf and stem, and they select a single graceful branch or spray just as nature made it. At first you will not see a western stranger comprehend such an exhibition at all; you are yet a savage in such matters compared with the commonest coolies about you. But even you are sure to be struck by the interest in this simple little show. The charm of it will begin to grow upon you; and despite your occidental idea of self-superiority you will feel humbled by the discovery that all the flower displays you have ever seen abroad were only monstrous in comparison with the exquisite natural beauty of those few simple sprays. You will also observe how much the white or pale blue screen behind the flowers enhances the effect of lamp or lantern light. For the screen has been arranged with the special purpose of showing the exquisiteness of plant shadows, and the sharp silhouettes of sprays and blossoms cast thereon are beautiful beyond the imagining of any western decorative artist."

Preferred Prison to Liberty.

Not wishing to keep my young robin through the winter, I attempted to introduce him to liberty and his feathered brethren and kin. As with kindly and easier to say than to do. As with kindly treated slaves in the old days, liberty was what he dreaded. He had never been outside his prison bars, yet I had fancied when the door of his cage was opened he would fly to his freedom. Instead, he gave a little chirp of dismay and retreated to the farthest corner, looking imploringly at me, as much as to say, "I'm a little fellow. Don't make me go out into that big world. I'm afraid." I closed the door of his cage, and a more delighted bird was never seen. This experiment was repeated for several successive days, but nothing could induce him to venture out. Finally I put him in a cage and brought him forth. This attempt was followed by a series of small out-piercing bird shrieks, uttered in a heart-rending way by Robin, who stood outside the closed door. Next, he pecked at the wires of his cage, flew exactly about and inspected his house from every point of view, even from the roof. Then he huddled down close by the door in such a fluffy forlorn way that I opened it, and with a hop, skip and jump, and a shrill note of delight, he bounced in.

Unbroken Forests of Alaska.

Owing to the moisture of the atmosphere and the early and late frosts, which spreads over the entire surface of the numerous islands belonging to Alaska, says a traveler, it is impossible that forest fire should ever devastate them. Trees have fallen of veritable old age for centuries probably. One can thrust a stick down through decaying logs to the depth of ten feet before reaching the real earth. The growth is so dense, and the underbrush such an impenetrable tangle, that it is next to impossible for one who has ever seen it, to realize how difficult and traveling would be in this country. It is said, and no doubt correctly, that there are not a dozen miles of wagon road in the entire territory of Alaska. This immense forest, extending from Washington away north beyond Juneau at least is practically unbroken by an ax.

PURELY DOMESTIC.

Dry lined oil on the wire fire screens. It will prevent rust and ruin of screens.

Take the spots out of white goods by rubbing them with the yolks of eggs before washing.

Learn to breathe through your nose habitually if you would be healthy and free from snoring nights.

Run the windows with a clean cloth wrung out of kerosene oil: rub dry and polish with a clean dry cloth.

A TARESPONDER of 0-gall to a gallon of water will set the colors of almost any goods soaked in it before washing.

On the very first symptoms of a cold in the head, saturate a part of your handkerchief with camphor and snuff it vigorously.

A new and delicious dainty is prepared by taking the stone either from dates or pineapples and substituting a bit of the kernel of an English walnut.

A box of sliced raw onions is a good disinfectant to place in a room where one is ill of a contagious disease, but they should be buried every morning and fresh ones take their place.

Rice in the hull when heated in popper like popcorn, bursts open just like the latter, and not only has the flavor of real popcorn, but is crispier and much more delicious to the taste.

One method of softening hard water is to put four quarts of a hot iron and a bag of iron filings in it for an hour, and pour the water in a barrel to be used in washing.

HERE is a recipe for delicious pepper catsup: One peck of ripe tomatoes, one peck of large green peppers, one gallon of cider vinegar, one cup of sugar. Salt to taste, and add spice, such as allspice, cloves, black pepper and one tablespoonful of mustard seed.

A POINTER on opening jelly cups: When jelly cups are brought from stores, the tops are found to fit very tight. This is caused by the manufacturer placing a little melted resin, etc., around the inner rim of the cup, and the top edge of glass. Steep them upside down in hot water and the lids come off like a charm.

When you feel the pricking pain on the eyelid that announces the coming of a cataract, use an application of strong, black tea simply steeped in water, moistened with a little water, put in small bag of muslin and laid over the eyelid. Moistened again as it dries. This, if used before the sty gets well under way, will, it is said, cure it.

PASSING EVENTS.

An Ohio woman has a pair of pink stockings which she says were worn by Queen Elizabeth of England.

OCTOBER is the month in which most of the insects perish. Only a few survive the chills and sunsets.

KENTUCKY is just now boasting of a well, the "clear, limpid, drinkable waters of which are as inflammable as naphtha."

A SWEDISH gentleman wears a watch chain made from one of his own ribs, taken from his body by a surgical operation.

A WEALTHY man in California has recently torn down several costly houses in order to convert his lands into wheat fields.

ROSES bloom every day in the year in California. Near Hayward there is a rose house in a state of nature, reach probably a much less venerable age.

SOME Interesting Figures.

If all the locomotives in the United States were coupled together they would make a train 500 miles long. Then add the passenger cars, and we should have 300 miles more, and if we wanted a mixed train, and were to put in all the box, flat, and every other kind of freight car, our train would be more than 7,000 miles long. The passenger cars could carry more than 1,500,000 people, and rose house in a state of nature, reach probably a much less venerable age.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars furnished Harrison have never been refunded to the parties giving it.

Just now the Logansport Journal asserts that Col. Patton was furnished $500 for campaign expenses, and is very anxious that he should refund it. When Hayes and Harrison set the example then let the Journal call on Dr. Patton, and not till then.

THE MONON MEANS BUSINESS.

The Monon railroad filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state last week indicating its capital stock from six to twelve million dollars. The fee for filing amounted to $5000, the largest ever paid in the state. The increase of capital is for the purpose of materially improving the road bed, lengthening the switches, increasing the terminal facilities, and buying more rolling stock. The Monon evidently means business and will soon be one of the best equipped roads in the country. It is also stated that a proposition has been made to the citizens of Lafayette to move the shops of the road from New Albany to that city and to change the road bed along the old canal instead of running through the city as at present. The company asks a subsidy for these changes and the people of Lafayette will endeavor to meet the requirements.

SIR HENRY THOMPSON, the noted London physician, says that more than one-half of the diseases of modern life are caused by easily avoidable errors in diet.

It is well known that the drunkard brings his ruin upon himself; but it is startling to be told in effect by so able a physician that, but for our ignorance, it is as much a sin to be ill as to be drunk.

The proprietors of Garfield Tea have been doing missionary work in this field. They include with each of the millions of free samples they yearly distribute, valuable medical essays on the use of hot water as a remedy, and of diet in disease; and with each package of Tea a booklet worth its weight in gold, written by a well-known hygienic physician, residing in New York and London, and a graduate of the New York University Medical College, pointing out a few simple rules whereby all persons of ordinary intelligence are able to conduct an attack of illness without calling a doctor, showing how to get well and keep well, and how to live that no one need long use Garfield Tea or any other medicine. Until then, Garfield Tea helps overcome the evils of bad diet and over-eating.

This booklet also gives the Dr. Salisbury treatment of chopped meat and hot water; also the secret of the success of the milk cure and the grape cure in Europe.

And also, why the great success attending treatment at Canby and other famous health springs; and shows how anyone may substantially get all the good results that come from such health resorts at home, by following the rules plainly set out in the little book.

Why are physicians so much opposed to proprietary medicines? Is it because such meritorious articles as Pond's Extract or Garfield Tea become household necessities and enable people to do their own doctoring and so keep money out of the pockets of physicians.

How to Prepare and Address Packages Sent by Mail.

The season is approaching when the mails will be filled with holiday presents, and a great many are unnecessarily lost, delayed or damaged each year because of the indifferent manner in which they are prepared for mailing.

Newspaper or other thin paper should never be used for wrapping and packing. As ordinarily wrapped where purchased they are not sufficiently secure for forwarding in the mails.

Use strong paper; make a solid package that will not rot or easily tie with good twine; address legibly and correctly with ink on the lower right-hand corner and very few packages will fail to reach destination in good condition.

It is always advisable to place the name and address of the sender on the upper left-hand corner of all packages, etc., sent in the mails, so they may be returned in case the address cannot be found. Postal statistics show that more delays result from incorrect address than from errors in distribution by post employees.

In case of loss or delay report the same to your postmaster with all of the information that can be given.

Remember that all goods bought or will be engraved free of charge.

CHEATING IN HORSE BLANKETS

Nearly every pattern of  $\frac{5}{8}$  Horse Blanket is imitated in color and style. In most cases the imitation looks just as good as the genuine, but it hasn't the warp threads, and so lacks strength, and while it sells for only a little less than the genuine it isn't worth one-half as much.

The fact that  $\frac{5}{8}$  Horse Blankets are copied is strong evidence that they are THE STANDARD, and every buyer should see that the  $\frac{5}{8}$  trade mark is sewed on the inside of the Blanket.
