

The police force in all parts of the country bear uniform testimony to the great value of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup as a remedy for cough, cold and incipient consumption. They all emphasize the fact that no one should be without it.

Hood's Cures

Marvelous, but True
Deaf and Blind, Caused by the Grip and an Abscess

"For three years I had rheumatism, and last December was taken with the grip. Three physicians said recovery was doubtful. An abscess gathered in my head and discharged from the ears. I was very ill for six weeks. I became Deaf and also Blind. I lost all my courage, and prepared for death. But I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla. When I had taken two bottles I began to recover my sight and hearing. The abscess, after discharging six weeks, healed up; my appetite returned, and I gradually gained strength and health. I can now see and hear well, do my own work, and attend to my business." Mrs. M. E. Wilson, 310 Apple Street, Syracuse, N.Y.

FOOD FOR VISITORS.

HOW IT WILL BE KEPT AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

A Big Cold Storage Warehouse on the Exposition Grounds—Interior Arrangements of the Place—Where Ice Cream Will Be Made.

The Week at Jackson Park.
Chicago correspondence:
Directly south of the Transportation Building annex and close to the Stony Island avenue boundary of the Fair grounds stands a spacious five-story building covering an area of 130 by 255 feet deep. It is solidly built and with ornaments. It forms the cold-storage

THE JAPANESE WELL.

and ice-making plant of the Exposition, and will be a very necessary adjunct during the hot summer months of the great show. There will be numerous restaurants, cafes, ice-cream and soft-drink stands on the grounds, and these places will depend on the cold-storage warehouse for the preservation of their edibles. In it will be stored the tons of meat, vegetables, butter and eggs used. In it also will be manufactured ice-cream by the head and ice by the ton. The whole apparatus will be so arranged that visitors may freely circulate through the building and see just how the various methods of ice production are carried on. One will pass through a large arched and many-columned doorway into a circular gallery looking down upon a 900-horse power steam plant—the only steam plant on the grounds. It will furnish the power for the large elevators placed in each end of the building, for the ice-hoist apparatus and the dynamos for the arc and incandescent lights. A door leading to the ice-machines opens to the left. Here may be seen the full workings of an ice-plant with a capacity of 105 tons a day. On the opposite side of the building are the storage-rooms. Provision will be made for the storage of 3,000 tons of ice. The walls separating the rooms are what are technically known as "insulated." They are composed of alternate layers of heavy paper and clement boards, with a double air space intervening. Around each room run the coils of pipe by means of which the rooms are cooled. Each room is supplied with an automatically acting thermostat, which keeps up a thorough ventilation and preserves a uniform temperature of any degree required.

THE COLD STORAGE BUILDING.

quired. In the rooms practical tests will be made with a view of ascertaining what the proper temperatures are for the storage of different kinds of produce. On the fifth floor will be placed the ice-cream plant, where all the ice-cream used on the grounds will be manufactured. The freezers will be immense concerns, operated by steam and cooled by ammonia vapors. The roof will be surrounded by a heavy balustrade, inclosing a promenade, and at each corner will be placed a tower 100 feet high.

The Illinois Building.
The work of construction on the Illinois building is complete, and the close following decorators will soon have finished their task. The building presents a very handsome appearance both within and without.

The main floor is once more strewn with shavings and bits of wood left by the several score of carpenters who have moved in to begin the work of erecting pavilions. The State Agricultural Department has opened up offices in the building close to where its pavilion is being erected and a large pile of samples from the forestry division await the completion of a set of shelves before their complete installation. Each variety of wood is to be shown, with the bark covering the outside. The other side will be cut and planned in such a way as to show the longitudinal, cross and oblique sections.

In the south end of the building, in what will be used as the kindergarten, may be found a rosy-cheeked Wisconsin girl absorbed in a creation entirely her own, which she calls the "Genius" of her State. The fair sculptor is Miss Nellie Farnsworth Mehrs, whose peculiar talent was fortunately brought to the recognition of the State Fair Commission, who immediately gave the Oshkosh maiden her first order. Her figure stands in repose, lightly leaning on a mass of rock symbolizing firm foundation. The figure affectionately rests her left arm on the neck of an eagle perched on the rock, and from under the protecting outspread wing, gazes upward with a trustful air. The right hand gathers up the folds of an American flag.

The Japanese Exhibit.

The Japs have begun work on their pavilion in the Liberal Arts Building. The structure now being unpacked in sections promises to be a very neat and handsome affair. It is constructed of hand-carved native hardwoods, with metal ornaments in the way of figured nail-heads, chairs and a bronze image of the sacred phoenix. On the wooded island their ho-o-den begins to assume the palatial aspect intended. Over at the Horticultural Building the Japanese gardeners are putting in a stone well top near their rustic bridge. The well-casing used is from one of the oldest Japanese wells, and shows the primitive method there of drawing water. The stone used is a sort of red sandstone, neatly mortised together at the four corners.

Led by a Canine Pilot.

A blind man, piloted about the center of the city the other day by a dog, attracted a good deal of attention. The man was neatly dressed, and carried a satchel containing articles to sell swung over his shoulder. He carried a stick in order to enable him to feel his way up or down a step. The dog, a plump, well-fed, brown animal, had on a sort of harness, to which a stout cord was attached from his back. He was, apparently, in a hurry to do business, for he tugged at the cord vigorously as he went along. Every few steps he would look around at his master in the most intelligent way, as if to discover whether he was coming along safely.

As soon as he got to a door he stopped and looked up at his master. If the door was one on which was posted the sign, "The other door," the man would try the knob, and as soon as the dog saw that his master could not go in he would immediately move on to the next door. When a door was opened the dog appeared to understand exactly how to transact business. He would pilot his master straight to the office, in the back or front part of the house, stop, and look up. When anybody bought anything and "Good-day" was said, the animal would lead the way out again, often looking around at his companion, and, when the street was reached, he would be sure to start exactly where he left off and try the next door. If the animal was not fond of that man, the looks and actions of a dog go for nothing.—Baltimore American.

Appearances Were Deceptive.

He was a very shabby person indeed. His clothes were of that much worn character that precludes any attempt at description. He had cotton in his ears, and he wore a most disreputable hat, yet there he was in one of our large city dry goods stores, as much out of place as a stoker in a drawing-room.

No one paid any attention to him, every one having come to the conclusion, evidently that he was a workman or some porter looking for a job; anything, in fact, but a purchaser.

At last, after he had fidgeted about for some time, he started off toward the cloak department and presently came back with an obsequious floor-walker, who called out: "Show this gentleman your finest sealskin wraps."

Every one looked in astonishment at the seedy figure, and one young woman had the grace to remark:

"Excuse me, sir, I thought you were looking for a cloth garment."

"No, miss, seal skin ain't good enough for my little gal, and I guess if there was anything more expensive her pap 'ud buy it for her."

Only a little every-day happening; but it teaches the lesson that fat clothes do not always mean the fattest pocket books.

In Ancient Egypt.
M. Philip has discovered near the site of Heliopolis, in Egypt, the necropolis used by the Pharaohs, at least so says M. Grebunt, until recently director of the museum of Ghizeh, and now professor at the Sorbonne. Heliopolis was as ancient as Memphis, and formed with it a twin city, with the Nile between. Memphis was the royal abode, Heliopolis was the priestly capital.

Pointer for Preachers.
A writer says "that the average limit of sustained attention in an audience is about twenty minutes, and that it is very difficult for a speaker to interest his hearers thirty minutes. It was not so in the old days when we had great orators and it is not so now when an eloquent speaker has a speech to deliver. But, for the average talker, twenty minutes is long enough."

A Word To American Housewives.

I regard the Royal Baking Powder as the best manufacture and in the market.
It is an act of simple justice and also a pleasure to recommend it unqualifiedly to American Housewives.

Author of "Common Sense in the Household."

Pleasures of the Imagination.

"Life," says some one "would not be half so pleasant if we were not always speculating upon what is going to be." The gift of imagination is one for which we should be deeply grateful. What if it does play tricks, in a whimsical conjuring up of disasters and apprehensions that are never realized? The beautiful visions we see, the "may be's" we enjoy beforehand, even if they never amount to anything, are blessings in themselves. Nor are the imaginative as overwhelmed with disappointment when their castles fall to the ground as their more prosaic neighbors give them credit for. The beauty of these charming dwellings is that as soon as the oxygen that has been gathered, and equally attractive, can be erected on the same spot, without being obliged to await the removal of any debris, and the owner takes immediate possession.

Of course this amusement can be carried to an injurious length by keeping the mind in such a state of exaltation that sublimity receives, but in different attention, but this may be the case with any other amusement and is no argument against a judicious indulgence in the pleasure of building air-castles, and the person who, amidst pain, sorrow and distress, can take possession of one of these airy dwellings where nothing but pleasure reigns, is the fortunate one.

The Modern Invalid.

Has tastes mediocrity in keeping with other luxuries. A remedy must be pleasantly acceptable in form, purely wholesome in composition, truly beneficial in effect and entirely free from any objectionable quality. If really ill he consults a physician; if convalescent he uses the gentle family laxative, Syrup of Figs.

Shouldn't Wonder.

New Orleans believes she has shipped the largest cargo on record, 90,000 bales of cotton on board the British ship Samoa.

CANNED tomatoes, corn, or other vegetables have a more delicious flavor if they are turned out upon a platter or other flat dish an hour or two to regain the oxygen that was excluded when they were sealed hot.

LET IT RUN.

and your cough may end in something serious. It's pretty sure to, if your blood is poor. That is just the time and condition that invites Consumption. The seeds are sown and they will grow. Let it run, before you know that it is near.

It won't do to trifle and delay, when the remedy is at hand. Every disorder that can be reached through the blood yields to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For Severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Throat and Lung Diseases, Asthma, Scrofula, in every form, and even the Scrofulous affection of the lungs that is called Consumption, in all its earlier stages, it is a positive and complete cure.

It is the only blood-cleanser, strength restorer, and flesh-builder so effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back. All medicine dealers have it.

Wind and Electric Power.

There are thousands of windmills in the country, idly turning most of the time and doing nothing. The discovery of electric power makes it possible for this useless energy to be economized. This is one of the means of securing electricity that has been little thought of, and one destined to be of the greatest importance in the country, where the power of wind can be utilized to an almost unlimited degree. The work of churning, washing, running, sewing, machining, and even of ironing, may be done by electric power, while in the farmers' department working the grindstone, fanning mill, hay and feed cutter and a score of other labors may be performed by wind power, preserved, as any power can now be, in the form of electric energy. This will be possible when some efficient, practical and economical system of storage batteries is discovered.

Swinging Around the Circle

Of the diseases to which it is adapted with the best results, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a family medicine, comprehensive in its scope, has never been thrust upon public attention in the guise of a universal panacea for bodily ills. This claim, daily arrogated in the columns of the daily press by the proprietors of medicines far inferior to it as specifics, has in a thousand instances disgusted the public advance by its absurdity, and the prospects of other remedies of superior quality have been handicapped by the predictions of their worthless predecessors. But the American people know, because they have verified the fact by the most trying tests, that the Bitters possesses the virtues of a real specific in cases of neural and liver disorder, constipation, nervous, rheumatic, stomach and kidney trouble. What it does it does thoroughly, and mainly for this reason it is endorsed and recommended by hosts of respectable medical men.

Fascinating.

Some of the native women of Australia have a queer idea of beauty. They cut themselves with shells, keep the wounds open for a long time, and, when they heal, huge scars are the result. These scars are deemed highly ornamental.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
