

Tried and Approved by the Billions.
For over a third of a century a great specific has been on trial by a national jury of the millions. Although an order of favor was rendered long since, it is still on trial. Never when it has been "weighed in the balance" has it been found wanting. The name of this medicine is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which more speedily than any other terminates those vicious sensations which attend disorder of the liver. It expels bile from the blood and secretions, remedies chronic constipation, and reinforces the organs of digestion and assimilation. Sick headache, yellowness of the skin and eyeballs, furred tongue, and other indications that the liver has temporarily knocked out of work and gone on a strike disappear when it is used. It is a most efficient safeguard against malaria, rheumatism, and kidney trouble, and fortifies a nervous and enfeebled invalid effectually.

For Use Between the Acts.
The small evergreen tree from which cloves are taken was originally a native of the spice islands, but it is now cultivated in warm climates in all parts of the world. The clove of commerce is the unopened flower of the tree. They are quite small, but grow in large clusters along the branches. After gathering the buds are smoked by a wood fire and dried in the sun. Both the taste and smell of the cloves depend on the quality of the oil they contain. Sometimes the oil is separated from the cloves before they are sold, and the odor and taste are in consequence much weakened. If you desire to know something of the form of the bud in the natural state seek a few cloves for a short time in hot water. The petals of the flower will soften and readily unroll.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

KNOWLEDGE
Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of their system, will add the value of health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headache and fever, and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance. Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.
Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both under humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them, the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause seasickness feelings at first. No change of diet is necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Read the Label. Send for Book.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.
Consumptives and people who have weak lungs, should use PISO'S Cure for Consumption. It has cured thousands. It is not a cure, it is the best cure. Sold everywhere, 25c.

AREA WILL DECREASE

PROBABLE RESULT OF THE DE-PRESSED WHEAT MARKET.

Foolish Theory of Speculators Caused by the Visible Supply—Some Facts and Figures—Familiar of General Risk—The Detroit Fire.

Hope for the Bulls.

The wheat trade according to the Chicago Post, is squaring in the shadow of a "visible supply" of 77,000,000 bushels—that is to say, that many bushels are "in sight" in the public warehouses at the present time, to say nothing of many more million bushels in private elevators. This great mountain of wheat, subject to the call of consumers, has driven every other consideration into the background. It has discouraged speculative investment and induced farmers to rush their surplus upon a reluctant and sorely pressed market as though fearful they might not be able to get anything for the grain unless they hurried. Producers are panic-stricken, and during the first twenty weeks of the current crop year, beginning July 1, a larger percentage of wheat has been shipped out of first hands than on any previous crop in the history of the grain trade. The wheat markets have been in the dumps all summer and fall, in spite of the fact of a short crop, and nothing seems able to lift them out of the slough.

Yet when the current statistics bearing on the wheat trade are analyzed in cold blood and with judicial impartiality, they are not particularly terrifying. At the beginning of the 1892 crop year, July 1, the visible supply was 24,282,000 bushels. Last July there were 62,316,000 bushels "in sight." During the twenty weeks that have elapsed since the beginning of July the visible supply has increased 14,437,000 bushels; last year, for the corresponding period, the increase was 45,774,000 bushels. Owing to the fact that it started 35,000,000 lower down the scale than this year, the aggregate on the corresponding date a year ago was less than now, and many who only look at the daily and weekly statements of stocks, not thinking or caring to inquire further, imagine that there has been a deluge of grain and that the "visible" is likely to reach 100,000,000 bushels or more. Yet comparison shows that during the twenty weeks from July 1 to Nov. 15 the movement of wheat from first hands, as gauged by the receipts at the leading Western points, aggregated 90,000,000 bushels, against 145,000,000 bushels the corresponding twenty weeks of 1892, a decrease of 55,000,000 bushels.

The next thirty days will determine whether reserves are in a bad state of impoverishment. Farmers' deliveries are actually down in small proportions. Prices at the present level are said by experts to be below the cost of production. People are not in the farming business to raise grain at a loss, any more than manufacturers are in industrial lines for philanthropic motives. Hence it is for a series of years the area devoted to the raising of wheat in this country has been undergoing a process of gradual shrinkage.

Shrinkage of Wheat Area.
The wheat area of 1892 was 1,350,000 acres, less 1891 and the area of 1893 was reduced to 1,400,000 acres. Advances from thousands of country correspondents in the great Western States foreshadow another reduction, the acreage for 1894 being estimated at 1,300,000 acres, less than this year. Farmers have cut down their winter wheat acreage everywhere. Continued low prices until spring would be reflected in a diminished spring wheat acreage also, according to the information of those in closest touch with the great North-west.

The following tables compiled from reports of the United States Department of Agriculture show the relations between low prices and decreased production. They afford a fruitful subject for study and thoughtful consideration. The tables are:

Year.	Crop, bushels.	Average farm price, cents.
1893.....	899,000,000	43.0
1892.....	1,016,000,000	36.2
1891.....	1,122,000,000	36.2
1890.....	1,000,000,000	36.2
1889.....	1,000,000,000	36.2
1888.....	1,000,000,000	36.2
1887.....	1,000,000,000	36.2
1886.....	1,000,000,000	36.2
1885.....	1,000,000,000	36.2
1884.....	1,000,000,000	36.2

Year.	Spring acreage.	Winter acreage.	Total acreage.
1893.....	11,844,000	22,784,000	34,628,000
1892.....	12,565,000	23,989,000	36,554,000
1891.....	13,286,000	25,194,000	38,480,000
1890.....	12,567,000	23,989,000	36,554,000
1889.....	13,286,000	25,194,000	38,480,000
1888.....	13,286,000	25,194,000	38,480,000
1887.....	13,286,000	25,194,000	38,480,000
1886.....	13,286,000	25,194,000	38,480,000
1885.....	13,286,000	25,194,000	38,480,000
1884.....	13,286,000	25,194,000	38,480,000

Unless signs fail the wheat area next year will not exceed 33,000,000 acres, which at the average rate of production per acre would yield about 425,000,000 bushels. Assuming that the surplus of this and former years will be run down to a low ebb by the beginning of another crop year, a crop of only 425,000,000 bushels would leave less than 75,000,000 bushels for export, or less than half the average of recent years. With diminished production the long down-trodden bulls feel that they would have a right to expect an inning. It has been a "powerful long time a-comin'."

FUNERAL OF GEN. RUSK.

Masons, Knights Templars and the Grand Army Take Part.

On Thursday morning the family of Gen. Rusk surrounded his bier in the parlor of the little farm house, near Viroqua, Wis., that was so long his home, and in privacy listened to words of eulogy. At noon the remains were removed to the Methodist Church, where they remained in state until the funeral services proper at 2 p. m. Friday. The exercises were under the Masonic auspices, with a Knight Templar, Consistory and Grand Army escort. Special trains brought distinguished men from all over the country.

Many hundred messages expressing tender sympathy for the bereaved family were received, from such persons as President Harrison, all the living members of the cabinet, Gen. Fairchild, Gen. Alger, Secretary Morton, Senators Vilas, Spooner, Sawyer, Culom and others in almost every city and State in the United States. The body was laid to rest in the family lot in the quiet little church yard.

THURSTON WILL STAY.

Not to Be Given His Passports by the State Department.

It was stated at the State Department, says a Washington correspondent, that there was abundant ground for giving Minister Thurston his passports. Minister Thurston, representing the provisional government of Hawaii, caused to be published a reply to Blount's report on the Hawaiian revolution, and in the statement he pointed out that Mr. Blount did not seek his evidence, although frequently charging him with being the leader of the revolution; he denies that United States troops took part in the overthrow of the Queen; asserts that the American troops did not land under two days after the revolution broke out, and gives a complete history of the revolt that seems to show conclusively that Blount was either misinformed as to the occurrences of the revolution or misrepresented the facts. It is claimed that his letter is a breach of diplomacy and amply sufficient to warrant this government in immediately severing all relations with the Hawaiian Minister. Such action would be taken but for the reason that the American people might not think it fair play; that the right of any man to talk and give his side of a controversy is always conceded, and that to force Mr. Thurston to leave this country would be considered by the people a disposition not to allow the other side a hearing.

CRUSHED AND BURNED.

Two Men Jump to Their Death in the Big Fire in Detroit.

One of the worst fires that Detroit has had for many years completely destroyed the five-story building at Jefferson and Bates streets occupied by Edison, Moore & Co., wholesale dry goods, and damaged several adjacent buildings, causing a total loss of $700,000. Three men employed by the dry-goods firm lost their lives in the flames, and five others who were missing are also supposed to have perished. The fire started at 12:30 o'clock and so quick were the flames that in half an hour the building was completely gutted. Practically only the iron front remains. The department fought with a fire which fairly defied their efforts. The blaze was first seen on the fourth floor and looked as if it could be kept in subjection, but the flames spread as quickly as if the building were wood. It was said to be fireproof.

Long before the many engines responded to the general alarm the fire could be seen on the window sill of the fifth story on the Bates street side of the building and a groan went up from the crowd. Then there were shouts: "Don't jump!" "Don't jump—there's help coming." But even as those words were uttered the flames had advanced and burst out behind them. A bale of jute was procured by the spectators and placed below the window on which Bradley Dunning was perched. Driven by the flames which roared around him he sprang from the window and landed on the bale. He bounded off and fell to the sidewalk, where he lay limp and apparently lifeless. An ambulance carried him to the hospital, where he died soon after. By this time the firemen who had arrived spread a net to catch McKay, who fell into it. His injuries were such that he, too, died soon after being taken to a hospital. Hardly had this double tragedy taken place than another man was seen near the upper window nearest the corner. He was evidently nearly suffocated, for, although he succeeded in reaching the sill, his strength apparently gave out, and after an effort to raise himself, he arm having been thrown over the sill, he slowly sank back and disappeared from view, being swallowed up in the furnace behind him. He is thought to have been Edward Genther.

After the fire, which established temporary headquarters and opened a register. By comparing notes it became evident that Genther, Rider, Voit, Markey, Baker, and Kirchner were missing. The firm's loss is $500,000, we are told. How the fire started is not known. The burned building was erected twelve years ago at a cost of $100,000. The loss, which is total, was covered by $50,000 insurance. Other business places were damaged to the extent of $50,000.

BUGLER AT BALAKLAVA.

Death of the Man Who Sounded the Charge for the Immortal Six Hundred.

The man who sounded the bugle for the immortal charge at Balaklava recently passed away in England. His name was Henry Joy, and he joined the band of the Seventeenth Lancers when a youth. He served in the same regiment twenty-eight years. On the outbreak of the Russian war he sailed with his regiment for the Crimea, and was present ent at the battles of the Alma, Balaklava, Inkermann, and Sebastopol. General the Earl of Lucan, who commanded the cavalry brigade in the Crimea, stated in a testimonial that Trumpet Major Joy was his trumpeter on the day of Balaklava, October 25, 1854, and Sir George Wombwell, who was present at Balaklava, says in a letter to the family: "I heard him sound the Balaklava charge." The bugle is in possession of the family at the present time. Joy had two horses shot under him in the charge of the Light Brigade, and he came back out of the fight on a Russian horse. He was slightly wounded in the heel during the action.

HENRY JOY, THE BUGLER OF BALAKLAVA.

THE NIMBLE ELEPHANT.

He Ventures in Places Which Would Puzzle Mules.

It is a remarkable thing that elephants are able to make their way up and down mountains and through a country of steep cliffs where mules would not dare to venture, and even where men find passage difficult. Their trunk has been found upon the very summit of mountains over 7,000 feet high. In these journeys an elephant is often compelled to descend hills and mountain sides which are almost precipitous. This is the way in which it is done: The elephant's first maneuver is to kneel down close to the declivity. One fore leg is then cautiously placed over the edge and a short way down the slope, and if he finds there is no good spot for a firm foothold, he speedily forms one by stamping into the soil if it is moist, or kicking out a footing if it is dry. When he is sure of a good foothold the other fore leg is brought down in the same way. Then he performs the same work over again with his feet, bringing both fore legs a little in advance of the first footholds. This leaves good sure places all made and ready for the hind feet. Now, bracing himself by his huge, strong fore legs, he draws his hind legs, first one and then the other carefully over the edge, where they occupy the first places made by the fore feet. This is the way the huge animal proceeds all the way down, zigzag, kneeling every time with the two hind legs, while he makes footholds with his fore feet. In this way the "center of gravity" is preserved and the huge beast prevented from toppling over on his nose.

Realistic Practice.

The girls had seen a picture of a life-saving fire corps organized by the young ladies of an English town, and (says the bazar) decided to form a similar brigade. The drill consisted in getting around a large blanket and holding it to catch unfortunates who should jump from the second or third stories of burning dwelling. But the fair members of the corps wanted some real practice. After much persuasion a young man, deeply enamored of one of the members, was prevailed upon to fall into the blanket from the top of the barn. The life-savers gathered one afternoon, attired in becoming uniform, and twelve gathered around the blanket and took a firm grip. Then the accommodating young man climbed up on the roof of the building, made ready, and jumped. Each girl was gazing upward, and at the terrible sight of a man falling through the air they were all so shocked that, without thinking, twenty-four hands went up to as many eyes to shut out the view. The brave young man is still confined to his room.

Yucatan's Deadly Spider.

A sailor on a coasting vessel which ports between Galveston, Texas, and the Gulf of Mexico has some very interesting specimens which he secured on the coast of Yucatan. Among them is a large jar filled with enormous spiders, which he says are looked upon with the greatest fear by the Indians of the central portion of that country, and which are undoubtedly the largest ever seen.

The body of the spider is fully five inches in diameter and his legs are short and thick, being especially adapted for running and climbing. They are about two inches long and are as big around as an ordinary lead pencil. The animal is of a grayish brown color, but is most peculiarly marked by deep red bands which cross its body, extending clear around from shoulder to hip, crossing each other in the middle of the back and the body.

The head is so large that the details can readily be seen, and even the dead ones had such a ferocious aspect that they caused a feeling of fear. The coloring is peculiarly adapted to the country, for the body is like the earth, while the red bands are like many of the creeping vines, which abound among the rocks of the interior.

The fierceness of the insect and the markings on the back have induced the Indians to name it the "Devil's Spider," and they say that it is undoubtedly the worst foe to man in the whole country, making it almost impossible for any one to go into the interior. For they would not venture to go there unless they were accompanied by the Light Brigade, and he came back out of the fight on a Russian horse. He was slightly wounded in the heel during the action.

THE KITCHEN LEAVEN IS WORKING.

The People's Kitchen, recently established in Vienna, is an amplification of the kitchens already in successful operation in America, on the model of the famous New England Kitchen of Boston. The Viennese have taken so kindly to the palatable cooking and wholesome menus provided for them that their kitchen is flourishing fifty thousand members.

The prices, of course, are scaled down to the minimum, and permit a person to dine comfortably for seven cents. For this sum he may have soup, meat, vegetables, pudding and coffee, with fruit or cheese, or any of an appetizing list. A supper of cold meat, vegetables, pudding, with tea or coffee, also costs seven cents, but it is possible to breakfast on coffee, soup, ham and eggs and bread for four cents.

Greater, even than the low prices, is the advantage to the ignorant classes have gone to pieces in the cooking line. Scientific cooking is no longer a name; it is a recognized necessity, and its dyspeptic substitute is not to be longer put up with.

Two Things about Catarrh in the Head.

First—It is a constitutional disease. Prof. Gross, a leading scientist, says: "Catarrh is a constitutional disease which manifests itself by local symptoms." Dr. H. Lewis says: "Catarrh is not a disease of the man's nose; it is a disease of the man. Therefore he says sniffs and other local applications are useless."

Second—It requires a constitutional remedy, like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which reaches and cures Catarrh by purifying the blood and building up the system, so as to throw off the disease. Thousands who formerly suffered from Catarrh agree that
