

CIGARETTES IN IOWA

NO LAW EXISTS TO KEEP THEM OUT.

They Get in Under the "Original Package" Decision—South African Raiders Found Guilty of Invasion of the Transvaal.

Declared Unconstitutional.

United States Circuit Judge Sanborn has decided the Iowa anti-cigarette law unconstitutional, and ordered released on a writ of habeas corpus Donald C. McGregor, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The law was passed by the Iowa Legislature last winter, and went into effect on July 4, 1896, and prohibited absolutely the manufacture or sale of cigarettes in the State, or their importation into the State. McGregor was arrested for importing cigarettes and selling them in the original packages, and an application for a writ of habeas corpus was made to Judge Sanborn. The attorneys for the petitioner rested their arguments on the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the famous prohibition case that went up from the same State some years ago, after the prohibition law was enacted there. That decision is to the effect that the Federal constitution, having delegated to Congress the power to regulate commerce between the several States, the Legislature had no power to prohibit the importation of liquor into the State, or their sale in the original packages by the importer. Attorney General Remley argued that the Legislature had power to prohibit the importation and sale of cigarettes, and cited other authorities to sustain his view. Judge Sanborn followed the decision of the Supreme Court and granted the writ.

PRISON FOR JAMESON.

Verdict of Guilty in the Cases of Transvaal Raiders.

The London jury in the Jameson South Africa case returned a verdict that all the defendants had been found guilty of the charge of violating the neutrality laws in invading the territory of the South African republic. Besides Dr. Jameson, the defendants were: Major Sir John Willoughby, Col. R. Grey, Col. H. F. White, Major R. White and Captain Henry F. Coventry. Dr. Jameson was sentenced to fifteen months' imprisonment without labor, Sir John Willoughby to ten months' imprisonment, Major R. White to seven months' imprisonment and Captain Henry F. Coventry, Col. R. Grey and Col. H. F. White to five months' imprisonment each. The court was packed with people. Lord Russell's remarks were distinctly hostile to the defendants. He began by pointing out that there was no doubt the prisoners had taken part in or abetted the proceedings at Pitsani and Mafeking, where the invading forces were mustered preparatory to entering the Transvaal. There was no doubt the expedition was of a military character, and whether it was aimed to overthrow the Transvaal government or to force a change of the laws in the interests of others; it was equally an expedition against a friendly State.

SCARED TREASURY GUARDS.

Two Explosives of Gas Brought the Guards Out in a Hurry.

Intense excitement was created in Washington about 10 o'clock Monday night by two successive explosions at the rear of the treasury building. The noise was equal to the discharge of a 13-inch gun, and the concussion was felt all along the opposite side of Fifteenth street. The treasury guards turned out fully armed, thinking an attempt was being made to blow up the building. Within five minutes the second explosion occurred, and for a few minutes there was considerable alarm. A conduit containing electric wires extends beneath the sidewalk beside the treasury. Workmen have been making excavations just within the exterior basement wall of the building for the location of electrical engines. By some means illuminating gas, perhaps from an old rusted pipe, had filled the conduit. The method of ignition of the gas has not been explained, but at all events it was set off. The immense flashes of the sidewalks were hurled fifteen feet in the air and broken into small pieces.

Stranded Miners in Alaska.

About 3,000 miners are stranded at Cook's inlet, which is nearly 1,000 miles northwest of Juneau, Alaska. They are camped in tents along Six Mile and Resurrection creeks, which empty into Turnagain Arm, the headwaters of Cook's inlet. In many cases claims underneath the snow had been staked off last year or before the latest prospectors got there. The result is a large number of conflicting claims which are likely to cause trouble should gold be discovered in paying quantities.

Youthful Desperado at Large.

John Toms, a youthful desperado of St. Joseph, Mo., is at large in the vicinity of Deborn. A deputy sheriff corralled him in a cornfield, but Toms held the officer at bay with a shotgun and has since successfully resisted arrest. He is wanted for highway robbery.

Eye Crushed Into a Pulp.

At Youngstown, Ohio, while watching a game of ball Sunday, Oscar Gilchrist was struck in the eye by a foul fly with such force that the eye was knocked into a pulp and fell out of his head.

Bush Fires Raging.

Along the Northern Railway, between Whatcomb and Goshen, bush fires have burned many barns and railroad ties. At Vancouver a house and steamer were burned. Unless rain comes soon large tracts of timber along the Fraser River will be destroyed.

Thousands of Armenians Dead.

A dispatch from Constantinople to the London Chronicle says that latest accounts received are that forty prosperous villages around Van, Armenia, have been destroyed and every male over 8 years of age killed. The total killed is placed at 12,500.

WILL SAVE HIS FATHER.

Son Will Return to Russia to Serve in the Czar's Army.

William Goldthwaite, a Russian, residing at Plainfield, N.J., acknowledges that he is the slave to the emperor of all the Russias, and bowed to the imperial will and announced his intention to return to his native land at once. By so doing his will save his father from a severe penalty, which in the old man's case, might mean transportation to the dread Siberian mines, or even worse, as he is under the ban as a former revolutionist, and suspected of participation in the assassination of the Emperor Alexander II. Young Goldthwaite is a native of Moscow, and has been in this country several years. His birth took place on the 29th of August, 1875, and is formally recorded in the register of Imperial police copied his name upon the enlistment rolls of the empire, and, according to the laws, he must report for enlistment in the regular army within 72 hours of sunrise of the day that marks the anniversary of his birth. If the young man had his own way he would remain in this country and defy the Russian bear and the imperial laws, as he has become attached to the land of his adoption. But he cannot help himself except at the sacrifice of his own father. The notice of enrollment was given his father, who is a paper dealer in the suburbs of St. Petersburg, and unless William reports on the first day of September the father will have to bear the penalty. The young man has no idea what this penalty will be, but his conjectures are colored with dark forebodings. William will go back to save his father and remain in the army for three years.

GEO. W. JONES DEAD.

Famous Man of Iowa Finally Called to His Home.

Gen. George W. Jones, the oldest surviving member of the United States Senate, died Wednesday night at Dubuque, Iowa, aged 92. He was born in Vincennes, Ind., April 12, 1804. He gave Gov. Dodge valuable assistance in the Black Hawk war. In 1833 he was appointed a judge of the territory. He was nominated as congressional delegate for the very extensive Michigan territory, to which position he was almost unanimously reelected in 1837. In 1840 Gen. Jones was appointed surveyor general, from which office he was removed by President W. H. Harrison. He was reappointed in 1845, but resigned in 1848 to take his seat as Senator for Iowa, which place he held two terms. President Buchanan appointed Senator Jones minister to Bogota, in South America, whence he was recalled in 1861. Soon after his arrival in America he was placed as a prisoner of state in Fort Lafayette for writing a personal letter to his friend, Jefferson Davis. He remained several months in confinement, and upon being released took up his residence at Dubuque. Since the war he had lived a retired life.

MACEO WELCOMED GARCIA.

Morales Denies Stories of Dissensions in Cuban Banks.

Col. Rafael Perez y Morales, one of the signers of the Cuban constitution, arrived in New York from Kingston, Jamaica. He was shot in the eye during recent battle and comes to New York for surgical treatment. "The reported death of Gen. Jose Maceo was in no way due to alleged dissensions with Gen. Garcia," said Col. Morales. "When Gen. Garcia landed Gen. Maceo willingly turned over his command and made a congratulatory speech to the army. He served under Garcia in the previous war and said that he was glad to do so again. Scarcely a day passes without an engagement in eastern Cuba. Almost the whole province of Santiago de Cuba is now in the hands of the insurgents. The army has fifteen pieces of field artillery manned almost entirely by Americans. We call it the Wilmington Battery, in remembrance of the assistance given us by the citizens of Wilmington, Del. What the Cubans most need now is 15,000 more riflemen."

Death in a Cloudburst.

A cloudburst in Bear Creek canyon, just above Morrison, Colo., Friday night sent down a solid wall of water ten feet high, which not only did great damage to property, but caused the loss of fifteen to twenty lives. A party of campers, fifteen or eighteen in number, were living in a small house just below town. All but one are lost, but their names could not be learned. Viola Foster, a little Denver girl, who was with this party, was saved. Searchers are out on both sides of the stream looking for bodies of dead campers. It is feared there has been more loss of life, as there are scores of people camping along both sides of the creek, both above and below the town. Waves were down in all directions, except the telephone line to Leadville. At Golden, Colo., three lives are known to be lost and thousands of dollars' worth of property is destroyed.

At the Treasury.

No gold went out for export Saturday and the only withdrawals were domestic, $207,100 for hoarding and $5,400 in gold bars. On the other hand, $1,490,000 in gold coin was deposited in the sub-treasury by New York bankers, making the gold reserve at the close of business stand at $103,088,180. The other financial centers are also coming forward to reinforce the treasury, and gold was offered in exchange for legal tender notes up to the amount of $6,000,000. Of this Chicago offered $2,500,000, Philadelphia $2,500,000, and Boston $1,000,000.

All Want the New Note.

The Treasury Department at Washington has almost sprung a sensation on the country in the issue of the new one-dollar silver certificates. The bill has proved very popular, and demands for it have come in from banks in all parts of the country. The officials have been obliged to put a limit on the amount that will be issued for the present to any one bank, and the figure is fixed at $500. There has been every day since Thursday, when the notes first came out, a ring of applicants for them, like that at a box office at a popular playhouse. For three weeks people have been writing with inclosures of cash asking for an exchange. Some of the banks have offered gold for the new notes, and these have always been accompanied to the full amount offered. In all about $16,000 of the notes has been drawn out in Washington, while $50,000 has gone to the country at large. Over $25,000 was sent away Saturday. It is only a question of a short time when there will be plenty to supply every call.

PARIS EATS BONE MARROW.

Thinly Spread Upon Bread It Has Become a Popular Breakfast Delicacy. Paris now recuperates on bone marrow. After the failure of Dr. Brown-Sequard to rejuvenate the world, the search for the spring of perpetual youth has been taken up again with undiminished ardor. The agent with which the faded beauty now seeks to bring back the roses to her cheeks and the roundness to her form is bone marrow. Bone marrow is the soft, fatty appearing matter found inside the hollow bones of animals. It has been discovered that "bone marrow is not the elixir of youth; at least it is a powerful tonic." Bone marrow is now served in Parisian restaurants, spread raw upon thin slices of bread in a dainty manner, and it is said to be a very palatable morsel. Every one eats it who can afford to buy, and butchers are furnished with a new branch of industry. The long bones of the ox are split open, the marrow extracted, and it is then eaten without further preparation.

LOST IN THE FOREST.

Aged Man Tramps in Dense Woods, Living on Tree Bark.

Richard Kingdon, an aged Wilkesbarre, Pa., man, went into the woods Monday to pick berries and lost his way. The forest is alive with wildcats, and his only protection was to keep continually moving. He wandered miles upon miles in the forest and lived upon the berries and tree bark. His faithful dog remained with him and guided him toward a mountain stream that flowed under the rocks and boulders. While resting at this spot a shrill whistle of a locomotive came to his ears and he weakly tramped toward the sound. He reached the edge of the forest at length and was found by fishermen in an exhausted condition. It is doubtful if he recovers.
