Commenting on the statement made by the New York Evening Post that such transactions as the Union Pacific railway job are largely responsible for Bryanism, the Indianapolis Sentinel says:
"Our contemporary, for once, is right. What our Wall Street contemporary chooses to style 'Bryanism' is, as a matter of fact, a good deal more than a mere theory of finance. It is a protest against the perversions of the functions of government to the service of greed —the manipulation of executive, and congresses and courts in the interest of corporate monopolies the systematic prostitution of the law making and judicial and administrative machinery of the nation and the states and the municipalities to the ends of the jobbers and schemers who have for so many years largely controlled legislation in this country.

"Does anyone suppose that if Mr. Bryan had been elected president in 1896 the Union Pacific steal would have been carried out, or even attempted? The Evening Post, by its unguarded confession that such scandals tend to stimulate 'Bryanism,' unwittingly admits that the two things are inseparable. When the national government is dominated by Bryanism there will be an end to the ex-

"Daughters of the Revolution."

General Van-
Rensselaer Chapter D. A. R. will meet Friday,
November 26th, at 2:00 o'clock
p. m. with Mrs.
J. J. H. Chap-
man. Mem eis espond to "patriotic sayings of greatest and wisest men of the Revolutionary period."

The farmers are now busily engaged in husking 18-cent corn.

Where did the recent cyclone in New York deposit Hon. Bourke Cockran?

Watterson's request that he be allowed to become a private in the ranks of the Democratic army should be acquiesced in, and the privilege the better.

An exchange says that the President is ashamed of the showing made by Ohio. Well, that's horse and horse. The returns indicate that Ohio is ashamed of the of the showing made by the President.

The Indianapolis News (republican) says "If the prevailing deficits in revenue were occurring under a Democratic administration the Republican organs would be clamoring for tariff revision."

The salaries in the treasury has been gradually dwindling down under the operations of the Dingley tariff. If the gold conspirators were inclined to make a gold raid on the treasury they could force a bond issue in two weeks.

Hanna runs behind Governor Bushnell something like 40,000 and lost the state of the legislative vote by over 10,000. The gerrymander was all that saved him.
He may yet be defeated.

President McKinley, in his Cincinnati speech, asked the question:
"What will make the nation strong?" Governor Le-dy, of Kansas, is the first one to make answer. His reply is a vigorous one. He says:

"Why not ask how can we secure for the average man his fair share of the wealth he creates, instead of seeing it swell the coffers of trusts, companies and corporations?"

The way to make our citizenship most useful and effective is to break the force of ancient prejudice, direct the citizens' attention to the evils of government by injunction and by financial syndicates.

"If the children of great cities like New York and Chicago could have the same educational advantages Kansas provides for her, much would be gained. If the nation is to remain strong, its common people must thrive. A real Democracy cannot maintain an oligarchy of wealth that hypnotizes courts, congresses and cabinets."

HOME AMUSEMENT AND FOREIGN INDUSTRY.

Consider the proposition. A protectionist schemer comes along and says: "I want to start a new industry. It will give employment to a great many men. It will prevent our spending money abroad for these goods."

The self-supporting citizen replies: "Very good; why don't you start it? Nobody is holding you."
"But," says the protectionist, "I cannot afford to do so. I cannot compete with the foreigners."

They make the goods cheaper than I can on a count of our high-priced labor. You must tax yourself by allowing me to sell my goods at a higher price. Then I can afford to pay the men American wages, and still make a profit on my goods."

"But why," asks the citizen, "should we take men out of their present high-priced employment, and put them in an employment which you admit is not remunerative to them or to you, unless I make up the difference by taxing myself?"

"For the future," answers the tariff man. "After we get this industry established we can make goods cheaper than the foreigners, and then we will take off the tax and sell them cheaper than now.
And then we will pay our men higher wages than they get now, and they will be all this money to spend, which will make everybody prosperous."

"Come off," says the citizen.—
"We have been taxing ourselves to start infant industries for a century, and the longer they do business the more tax they say is necessary. They have kept on raising the tariff until I now they claim it is absolutely necessary to make the rates prohibitory and keep out foreign competition altogether."

They also say that sawmills are too high, and must be reduced. The country is kept in a fever by strikes and lockouts, and your promised prosperity never appears except there is an interference of Providence, such as a crop failure in other countries, and that prosperity does not come from your protected industries."

"But," says the protectionist, "don't you see that you are spending your money at home instead of abroad?"

"Yes, I do," replies the citizen.
"That is what makes me weary.
I give my money to you fellows at home and you spend it abroad. I stay here and work like a slave, and you get up trusts and combines and hire smart fellows to run them, while you go off to Europe and spend the profits. You buy castles, and race horses, and yachts, and hire foreign noblemen to marry your daughters, and I stay here and tax myself to maintain home industries. We have too much home industry and foreign amusement. I want to help start a system of home amusement and foreign industry."—Indianapolis Sen-

EMBOSSSED IN GOLD.
To buy and reproduce famous paintings involves an expenditure that could hardly be born unless, as in the case of THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, the enterprise is sustained by the approval of more than five hundred thousand subscribers. THE COMPANION'S Sonnet Calendar for 1898, a series of charming figure pieces, faithfully copied in colors and embossed in gold, is recognized as one of the richest and most costly examples of this form of art. Yet every new subscriber receives it without additional charge. Moreover, the paper is sent free to new subscribers every week from the time the subscription is received until January, 1898, and then for a full year to January, 1899.

The popular price of THE COM-PANION, $1.75 a year, and the character of its contents, make it a paper for every household. Exceptional attractions are promised for the fifty-two numbers to be issued during 1898. The Rt. Hon.
W. E. Gladstone, the Hon. Thomas B. Reed, Rudyard Kipling, Lillian Norris, John Burroughs, W. L.
Howe and Max O'Rell are prominent in the long list of eminent contributors named in THE COM-PANION'S announcement, which will be sent free to any address on

AIRY THINGS ABOUT THE HEIR.

My son has become quite a bicycle expert; rides two wheels at once. Claypool—That's nothing. My baby rides four at once.—Washington Times.

"Well," said the kite to the small boy,
"I guess I will have to admit that you have me on the string. And that," continued the kite, "is what makes me soar."—Indianapolis Journal.

Teacher—Tommy, please discretion.
Tommy (feeling his way)—Discretion—a noun—feminine. Teacher—How do you make it feminine? Tommy—It's the better part of valor.—Pittsburg News.

Mother—Yes, doctor, Jamesey is that tough-tied he can't speak a word. What trade would you advise him to learn?
Doctor—Make an artist of him, by all means. He can make signs.—Buffalo Times.

Mr. Figs—I see that a priest in St.
Louis made the members of his congregation deposit all their motto buttons on the altar before he would go on with the service. Tommy—I guess he was making a collection.—Indianapolis Journal.

Judd—A baby grows more the first month of its life than at any other period of its existence. Sometimes it gains an inch in length during that time. Spudd—I can easily believe that, for later in life it will often find itself getting shorter.—Washington Times.

"There," said the fond father, as the political procession passed by, "Does not that fill your young soul with high aspirations?" "You bet it does, pa," answered the little boy. "I'm goin' to get a broomstick and begin practicin' for a drum major soon's I git home."— Cincinnati Enquirer.

Tommy had been suffering from a lame back for a day or two, and his mother bought a porous plaster for the same and prepared to adjust it. As the eyes of little Mabel fell upon the punc-tured square she exclaimed: "Oh, mamma!
What are all the holes for?" "I know," interjected Tommy; "they're for lettin' the pain out."—Richmond Dispatch.

SOME POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

The ignorance that is bliss is the ignorance of the man who thinks he knows it all.—Puck.

People who make a boast of saying what they mean generally have mean things to say.—Boston Transcript.

One reason a man hates to be held is that all his fool friends are continually patting the bare spot.—Buffalo Times.

Never argue the point with the man who tells you that he is one in a thousand—he may be one of the alphas.— Louisville Times.

Always do as the sun does—look at the bright side of everything; it is just as cheap and three times as good for the digestion.—The Doctor.

After a man has made a pleasant allusion to the days when he courted his wife there isn't anything she will refuse to do for him.—Athens Globe.

A man out in Western Massachusetts is busily trying to discover the secret of perpetual motion, and Mr. Moore is busily trying to convert New York.—Boston Globe.

Before a girl gets married she never thinks a man has such a thing as a stomach. After she's been married a while she wonders if he's got anything else.—New York Press.

Nothing flatters a man more than to tell him that the receipt he gave you cured your cold, whether, as a matter of fact, you really tried the dose or not.—Somerville Journal.

It is beginning to be recognized that the rabbit's foot is an agent of good luck only while it remains on the rabbit and helps him to escape from the hunts.—Philadelphia Ledger.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

There is no water on the moon's surface.

Our sun is but one of thousands of others of equal or greater magnitude.

The light of the moon is only about one-six hundred thousandth that of the sun.

Wind power is derived from the unequal heating of various portions of the earth by the sun's rays.

Astronomers say that there is every reason to believe that human life on Mars is much like it is on this earth.

The greatest depth, writes Prof. Seeley in his "Story of the Earth," at which earthquakes are known to originate is about thirty miles. It has also been calculated that a heat sufficient to melt granite might occur at about the same depth.

A Hamburg young man has just had his sanity proved by the Roentgen rays.
He declared ten years ago that he had a bullet in his head, which he had fired into it in trying to commit suicide. He complained of the pain, and, as he attacked his keepers, and the doctors could find no trace of a wound, was locked up as a dangerous lunatic. The Roentgen rays have now shown the exact place of the bullet.

A novel disposition of sewage is made at Exeter, England, according to London Machinery. The method consists of four tanks, a fourth of the sewage passing into each. Light and air are excluded from the tanks; putrefaction and decomposition are rapidly set up; the microbes multiply and the solid portions of the sewage are consumed and the outflow from the tanks through filters loses all color and taste. No chemical is used and no attention to the tanks of any sort is needed. Each filter bed automatically cleanses itself by being set off for a short time.

Notice to Non-Resident

The State of Indiana, Jasper County:

In the Jasper Circuit Court, January term, 1898.

Nora Lynch vs. Complaint No. 545.

Edward J. Lynch.

Now comes the Plaintiff, by James W.
Douthit her attorney, and files a complaint herein, together with an affidavit that the defendant Edward J. Lynch is not a resident of the State of Indiana.

Notice is therefore hereby given said Defendant, that unless he be and appear on January 15th, 1898, the same being the 12th day of the next term of the Jasper Circuit Court to be holden on the first Monday of January, A. D. 1898, at the Court House in the City of Rens
