WOMEN AND THE WHEEL.
From the Gazette, Delaware, Ohio.
The healthfulness of bicycle riding for women is a disputed question. Used in moderation it surely creates for women a means of outdoor exercise, the benefit of which all physicians concede. Used to excess, like any other pastime, its effect is likely to be dangerous.

The experience of Miss Bertha Reed, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Mr. J. R. Reed, 335 Lake street, Delaware, Ohio, may point a moral for parents who, like Mr. and Mrs. Reed, have experienced some concern for their daughters who are fond of wheeling. In the fall of '96 Miss Bertha, who had ridden a great deal, began to fall in an alarming manner. Her feet and legs were absolutely no good. A physician found a pulse at 104—a very high rate. Thinking this was due to temporary nervousness when he examined her, he watched her closely, but her pulse continued at that rate for two weeks. He was satisfied then, from her high pulse and stout and quiet condition that she was suffering from anemia or a bloodless condition of the body. She became extremely weak, and could not stand the least noise or excitement. In this condition of affairs they were recommended by an old friend to get some of that famous blood medicine, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They did so, and almost from the first dose Bertha began to improve. She continued to take the pills and was by their means made entirely well, and more grateful to her parents than they could have been.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved a boon to womanhood. Acting directly on the blood and the nerves, they restore the requisite vitality to all parts of the body, creating functional regularity and perfect harmony throughout the nervous system. The color of the cheeks is changed to the blush of health; the eyes brighten; the muscles grow elastic; ambition is created and good health returns.

DIDN'T MIND BULLETS.

The Judge Liked an Argument Too Well to Be Fazed by a Shot.

During the day I had attended court, where a lawsuit of considerable importance was on trial and which was not decided until 6 o'clock in the evening, says a writer. Then I went home to stop for the night with the judge who had the case in hand. On the way home we were stopped by a man, who said:

"Judge, it is quite likely that the loser of that suit will shoot at you through a window to-night to secure revenge."

"Yes, quite likely—thanks," pleasantly replied the judge, as we passed on.

At the supper table his wife appeared nervous and uneasy, and before the meal was concluded she said:

"Alfred, a man has been seen in front of the house acting rather suspiciously, and I'm afraid he means you harm."

"Yes, I'm afraid so, my dear," replied the judge and then took up the conversation she had interrupted.

After supper we adjourned to the library, and by and by, as we sat at the table with a luscious lamp between us, there arose an argument connected with the political question.

"Sir," said the judge, as he grew heated by opposition, "they may bring all their sophistry to bear on the question, but nothing will convince me that—"

At that instant I felt a hot streak along my left cheek, and the lamp chimney was shattered into a hundred pieces and the light went out. The judge rang a hand bell which was within reach and I thought I heard the notes of the bell before the report of a rifle in front of the house. A negro man came running in, and the judge said:

"Julius, bring us another lamp."

When the lamp was brought, I I looked at the judge. He had not changed in the slightest.

"Wasn't that a bullet which broke the lamp chimney?" I asked.

"Very likely it was," he replied, as he looked around.

"And wasn't it meant for you?"

"I presume so. There it is, in the back of a law book. As I was saying, however, sophistry is not argument, and those champions—"

"Excuse me, judge," I interrupted, "but the next bullet may kill one of us."

"Oh, they never shoot but once, and I want to convince you that your position is untenable. You see, to begin with, the Democratic party—"

But his wife came in and insisted that he give an alarm, and the argument was never finished.

LOSS IN THE MILLIONS.
ENO-MIOUS DAMAGE DONE BY RAGING FLOODS.

Indiana and Ohio the Chief Sufferers by Inundations Which in Some Sections Have Reached an Unprecedented Height—Traffic Suspended.

People Driven from Home.

Flood damage reaching into the millions of dollars is reported throughout Indiana and Ohio. Thousands of families are homeless and many of them are dependent upon charity. Many cities report that the water is at the highest stage ever known. Illinois, Missouri, Pennsylvania and West Virginia also report rivers turned into raging torrents, but in those States the damage thus far done is comparatively insignificant.

Two railroad wrecks have resulted from washouts. One was in Ohio, where a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train went through a bridge near Frazeysburg. The other and the more serious one was near Columbus, Ind., where a wrecking train met disaster.

Property loss in Indiana will exceed $1,000,000. All the streams are overflowed. The banks, houses and railroad tracks have been washed away, and growing crops have been seriously damaged. Near Greensburg, the loss of two lives is reported. Franklin has 200 homeless families to care for, while Shelbyville has 300 and Nashville 150. These are almost sample figures from entire hoosierdom. At Warsaw the canal gave way and the business section of the city was threatened, while at Shelbyville the levee proved too weak to withstand the raging waters.

Throughout central and southern Ohio all the railroads are either crippled or totally disabled. The damage in the State may amount to $1,500,000. Dayton reports the conditions worse than at any period since 1866, when the central part of the populous city was inundated. Here and there four business blocks under water and a much wider territory threatened. Canal Dover is cut off from the outside world, and unless the waters soon subside many lives will be placed in jeopardy. The list of homeless in Zanesville foots up 1,000. In Columbus 2,000 persons are imprisoned in the upper stories of dwellings in the western part of the city. They are surrounded by an artificial lake, but, as the water there is said to be subsiding, they will soon be released from their peculiar imprisonment.

An index of the flood conditions in various sections can be gleaned from condensed press dispatches given below:

Indiana.
The White river is still rising. The Richmond electric light plant is drowned out. Dams at Palestine and Oswego are reported in jeopardy. The canal north of Warsaw overflowed, flooding the entire vicinity. Several families have been driven from their homes. At St. Paul, the Bickhart four mills have been washed out and destroyed. The property loss in Decatur County is about $100,000, and two lives have been lost in flood.

Several bridges on the Big Four and Cambridge railroads are out, as well as ten miles of roadbed. The loss to the farming community around Shelbyville is estimated at from $100,000 to $200,000. Many important towns are temporarily cut off and trains have been entirely abandoned on some roads.

The northeastern section of Indianapolis is submerged, and many people have been driven from their homes or forced to the second stories.

Between forty and fifty miles of track of the Louisville division of the Pennsylvania and Indiana railroads are washed away between Louisville and Indianapolis.

Indian river and Young's creek have broken through the levees, flooding the southern and western parts of Evans and sweeping many houses from their foundations. Two hundred families are homeless.

Ohio.
Hundreds are homeless at Newark. At Cincinnati the Ohio will probably reach fifty-five feet. Floods have caused a shutdown of nearly every factory in Hamilton. H. C. Ross was killed as a bridge collapsed in Muskingum County. Four thousand Zanesville people have been driven from their homes, and few of them saved any household effects. Four squares of Delaware business houses are under water, and scores of wagons and foot bridges have been carried away.

Nearly all railroads in central and southern Ohio are either crippled or totally disabled because of washouts or destroyed bridges.

The Tuscarawas river has broken loose in one of the biggest floods ever known, and Canal Dover is entirely cut off from the outside world.

The levees which protected the west side of Columbus against ordinary floods are submerged. Fifteen hundred or 2,000 persons were driven to the upper floors of dwellings situated in an artificial lake.

A bridge over the Wakatomika creek at Frazeysburg gave way, while a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train was crossing, and the whole train was submerged. Passengers crawled to the tops of the cars and were soon taken away by farmers in skiffs. No one was seriously injured.

MANY ARE KILLED.

Yratic Plunges Through a Washed-Out Trestle in Indiana.
Shortly before 9 o'clock Wednesday evening a work train loaded with officials and workmen plunged through a trestle one mile south of Columbus, Ind., on the Louisville division of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Several were killed. The men had been at work repairing the track, which had been washed out in many places by the high waters, and were on their way to the southern part of the road.

The work train had passed over the railroad bridge just south of Columbus and the engineer opened the throttle. He thought the danger was over. Following the engine was a combination coach, with seats in each end, the middle for baggage. Behind this was a caboose. The men were all in the coach. Just a mile from the railroad bridge was a frame trestle, which had been weakened by the high water. Upon this structure the train plunged, and almost instantly disappeared from sight. With a hiss the engine sank in the yellow flood. The caboose, in the rear, jammed into the coach, imprisoning the workmen.

Then began a struggle for life. The windows panes were broken and the men escaped with broken limbs and bruised bodies. The engineer crawled to the top of his boiler and lay there until rescued, with both legs broken. The fireman caught in a tree in the river. The accident was witnessed by a throng of sight-seers. The work of rescue was conducted under the greatest difficulty.

Just a few minutes before the wreck occurred a train load of Madison teachers on their way to the Southern Teachers' Association at Terre Haute passed along.

Spring Medicine

These two words emphasize a necessity and indicate a remedy. SPRING—the season when the blood is most impure as a result of the winter's closer confinement, higher living, slower action of the kidneys and liver; when humors of all kinds, boils, pimples and eruptions are most liable to appear; when the weak, languid condition of the whole bodily structure demands and welcomes help.

MEDICINE—that to which the millions turn at this season—Hood's Sarsaparilla. The original and only preparation especially adapted to the present needs of the human family; that which makes the blood pure and clean, as shown by its thousands of wonderful cures of dreadful blood diseases; creates an appetite and cures dyspepsia, as shown by its "magic touch" in all stomach troubles; steadies and strengthens the nerves, as proved by the people formerly nervous, now calm and self-possessed, thanks to

Only those who have been relieved of great suffering can fully appreciate the gratitude with which the testimonials overflow written in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Just read this:

Very Much Run Down.
As I had been troubled with dyspepsia. The drain on my system was so severe and my stomach was so weak I became a ready victim of malaria. I feared I could never regain my health. My stomach rebelled at the simplest food, and the medicines prescribed for me gave but little relief. I sent for a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I had taken this medicine but three days when I began to improve. Continuing with it, I am now better and stronger than I ever expected to be. It has purified my blood and given good circulation. I have had no return of my old troubles since." MRS. W. KANE, Media, Pa. Hood's Sarsaparilla is

All in the Eye.
Dr. Fitchett, brother of the editor of the Australian Review of Reviews, was a member of a colonial parliament wherein one day a certain eccentric and elderly member named Taylor insisted on making a speech on education. The oration consisted of a hyperbolic eulogy of the board of schools in Mr. Taylor's constituency. Doctor Fitchett interjected some jocose expression of doubt.

"Why, sir," said the irate Taylor, turning upon him, "at this very moment I have a school in my eye—"

"No, only one pupil, Mr. Taylor," retorted the doctor, and the orator's eloquence was drowned in laughter.

A Recent Discovery That Is Working Wonders.
The most prevailing afflictions that for a century have been engaging the most scientific skill of the medical world are rheumatism, neuralgia, cancer, sciatica, lumbago, and their kindred ailments. The country is full of sufferers from these complaints. Although the most learned experts of the medical profession have labored for a century to produce a cure, until quite recently no positive results were effected. To the Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co., 167-69 Dearborn street, Chicago, belongs the credit for having produced the new remedy. It is being extensively advertised under the trademark of "Five Drops." The trade-mark is self-explanatory. Five drops make a dose. The effect is magical. In days gone by other alleged cures have been marketed with the promise to take effect in thirty days or more. Five Drops begins to cure at once. Immediate relief is felt. In order to more effectively advertise its merits the company will for the next thirty days send out 100,000 of their sample bottles of this positive cure for 25 cents a bottle by mail prepaid. Large bottle, 300 doses, $1. (For thirty days 3 bottles $2.50.) Those suffering should take immediate advantage of this generous offer and write them to-day.

The Rule of Three.
Heart disease carried off a Brooklyn man the other night. An old friend was so shocked at the news that he purchased poison and killed himself. His sister then went to the druggist who sold her brother the deadly dose and gave him a piece of her mind. The druggist, whose heart was weak, became excited and dropped dead. People who believe in the rule of three may be interested in this singular train of fatalities.—New York Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

ANTHOUSES IN AUSTRALIA.

Mounds in Which Millions of the Insects Live.
One mound in particular, a gloined conical structure, was eighteen feet high. This was not far from Port Darwin. The discoverer believes that originally the mound was conical in shape. The sides were smooth. It has evidently been in use for many years, and the conical effect noticeable, he believes, is due to the fact that the ants, incessantly traveling the pathways up and down the mound, produced the grooves that are seen and resulted in giving the effect of a conical formation.

The entrance to the mound, examination showed, had varied in location, for there was distinct evidence that apertures of this sort had been walled up in several instances.

The interior of the mound referred to showed as much as anything the remarkable instinct of the ants.

It was divided up very much after the fashion of the tall buildings which are now becoming so common, with an immense court within the structure itself—that is, there were hundreds of tiny cells built in from galleries which were terraced one above the other. The galleries were connected by paths or stairways, each of these being constructed with architectural exactness. The cells remind one, the explorer said, of the cell of a monk.

The earth in each instance was as hard and smooth as marble, and bore evidence of long continued usage.

A portion of the ground floor, or basement, of the mound had been divided into store rooms, and here it was evident the ants had carefully packed away the provender which they had secured from various points about.

The Dog Voted.
The Rev. J. C. Wingo was recently re-elected pastor of the Baptist Church at Carrollton by the most unanimous vote ever cast by its members, says the Atlanta Journal.

It was at the annual church meeting, over which Doctor Pitts was presiding, one of the members has a pet dog that has been taught a number of tricks, one being to rise to his hind legs and walk at the command "stand."

Doctor Wingo had retired in order that the church might vote on the question of his re-election. One brother had moved the re-election of Doctor Wingo. Another had seconded the motion, and several speeches had been made, while the pug dog, blinking solemnly, sat in the front part of the church. The question was called for, and Doctor Pitts put it:

"All who are in favor of the re-election of Brother Wingo will please rise and stand."

Everybody rose, and then the pug dog got up very solemnly on his hind legs and walked around in front of the pulpit.

Everybody laughed, and then Doctor Wingo was informed that he had been re-elected by the unanimous vote of the members and the dog.

Hopeful Words to Childless Women.

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to a childless and desolate old age.

Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to some great lack of strength in the organs of generation. Such a condition is nearly always due to long continued neglect of the plainest warnings.

Frequent backache and distressing pains accompanied by offensive discharges and generally by irregular and scanty menstruation, indicate a nerve degeneration of the womb and surrounding organs, that unless speedily checked will result in barrenness.

Read Mrs. Wilson's letter:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—No one could have suffered from female troubles more than I. I had tumors on the womb, my ovaries were diseased, and for fifteen years I was a burden to myself. I was operated upon three different times, with only temporary relief; also tried many doctors. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me by a lady friend, and after taking four bottles I was like a new woman. I had been married nine years, and had no children. I now have a beautiful little girl, and we feel assured she is the result of my taking the Compound.—MAY B. WILSON, 223 Sassafras St., Millville, N. J.

Modern science and past experience have produced nothing so effective in treating diseases of the female organs as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash used according to special directions.

If you know any woman who is suffering and who is unable to secure relief, or who is sorrowful because she believes herself barren, tell her to write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and ask her advice. The thousands of Mrs. Pinkham's cures are all recorded for quick reference, and a reply will be promptly sent wholly without charge, that will direct her what to do.

Mrs. B. BLUM, 4940 San Francisco Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes:—"It has been my great desire to have a babe. Since taking your medicine my wish is fulfilled."
