FOR PRESIDENT
OF THE
UNITED STATES,
U. S. GRANT.

GIVE US GRANT.

THE old soldiers of the North and South can never vote for any man with as good conscience, as they can vote for the "Old Chief."

GIVE US GRANT. We want a man who has the nerve and ability to teach the Democratic Congress that this a nation with a big N.

ALL the prominent candidates are good men and able Statesmen; but no man has so engrained himself in the minds of the people as Gen. U. S. Grant.

THE Anti-Third Termers, at St. Louis, resolved that there is a "potent idea" some where and went home.

It will take about 40,000,000 such ideas to beat Grant.

WASHBURN, the Pale Jackass of Republican politics, has nine delegates, all from Wisconsin. If he could get one from Illinois he would have ten.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Yes, and we will say that in the course of human events, the sneaking Hyena, of the Enquirer, will feel the usual kick.

MRS. MARIAN EVANS-LEWES (George Elliott) was married one day this week to a Mr. Cross. As a writer she ranks with the foremost novelists. Her works are read in every land where civilization has carried literature. She had her own notions in regard to social relations, having lived with Mr. Lewes without having had the ceremony performed, which usually precedes such events. Her marriage with Mr. Cross was a surprise to all her friends.

At the anti-third-term convention at St. Louis yesterday, R. S. Hill, of Indiana, made a brief address in a humorous vein. "Who is R. S. Hill?"—Indianapolis Journal.

Robert A. Hill is a lawyer of Evansville; a native Indian; son of Rev. James Hill, a prominent Methodist minister formerly of this state, now of Ohio. He (R. A. H.) is in the prime and vigor of life, and is a man of very decided ability, and as an orator has few equals. He has always been a devoted Republican, and is a man whose services the party needs. Samuel Archer, another delegate to the anti-third-term convention from this state, is a banker of Evansville; an old and honored citizen; and a sterling Republican. They were appointed by a meeting of Republicans there who were opposed to the third-term principle. It will not be "healthy" for the party to ignore the wishes of such men.—Express.

We are glad to learn that the manager of the Express has seen fit to pronounce such a profound eulogy upon his distinguished fellow citizen Bob Hill, who was the son of Jim Hill who was—well; not Sam Archer, who happened to be one of the "fellers," who happened to have been selected by a general happening of a lot of fools who happened to happen to come together, who happened to have no other business to attend to, other than to make themselves very "odorous," by attempting to cast unnecessary reflections upon the reputation and character of that great and good man, General U. S. Grant, a man history will regard with a zealous care and who in the same category with the above named individuals cannot be thought of, and should never be mentioned, except with bated breath, for fear of slander.

THE SALE OF THE JOURNAL.

The Indianapolis Journal was sold yesterday to John C. New for the sum of $85,000. The transfer will take effect tomorrow, and the first paper under the management will be issued next Monday. It is not known what changes will be made. Possibly Col. W. W. Dudley will be political editor; John E. Vought, managing editor and Mr. New's son city editor.

The Journal, under the management of Mr. Martindale, has done a wonderful amount of good work for the Republicans of Indiana. He has established its high grade of journalism, and we hope that Mr. Martindale will be successful in what ever vocation he plies himself with. As to its management, under the supervision of John C. New, we need say nothing. His name attached to a Republican journal, is a guaranty of its success and worth.

We announce ourselves to-day in favor of General U. S. Grant as the most suitable candidate now before the public for the Presidency. We had thought that on account of the great personal enmity towards General Grant from a very large faction of politicians who were more or less interested, directly or indirectly in agitating the third term question, so that it would injure Grant should he receive the nomination at Chicago, and that to alleviate the whole trouble, we proposed as a compromise man Hon. E. B. Washburne.

Mr. Washburne has refused to allow his name to be used at all in connection with the Presidency. Mr. Washburne being out of the way, and we having something to say as an individual, return to our first choice, and we will to-day renew our faith and pledge ourselves to use all honorable means to secure the nomination of General U. S. Grant as the Republican candidate for President, believing as we do, that his almost omnipotence in the battling for his country in time of war, and in time of peace, will again be our "star of light" which all true Republicans will gladly follow through this dark and uncertain battle of human rights. We exhort every true and honest Republican to buckle on his armor, and spring to the front in defense of his country, marching on and on to that victory which surely awaits you, led by that brave and strong commander of yore, let no malicious scare-crow arrayed in most hideous aspect with the pale faced spectre of third termism affect you. It is idle talk, and used for a base purpose either to advance personal interest or the interests of cliques and rings, and he that heeds not these false and base appeals is worthy the name, soldier, patriot. And for the benefit of those whining pusillanimous pressmen called "Apers," we say fall upon your knees and listen to a prophet, and may this reverberate and echo into the uttermost corners of this broad land of ours. Just as sure as the sun rises on the morn' of the 3d of June, its sitting will announce to the world that U. S. Grant has received the Republican nomination at Chicago (if he wants it), the "kickers" notwithstanding, and the 4th of March, 1881, will see him inaugurated President of the United States.

INGERSOLL.

The appearance of Col. Robert G. Ingersoll at the Opera House to-night and the magnificent audience which will greet him, naturally causes us to stop for a moment and think about the wonderful change which has been growing in the minds of the intelligent people of this country during the last twenty years in regard to the relation which exists between the church and the people.

There is no doubt that the church has ceased to be the intellectual chain gang it was then, and there is no doubt of the liberal views held by many orthodox ministers to-day.

We think this decline in Orthodoxy and the wonderful progress of infidelity has grown out of the great advance in scientific research, and the absurdity of many things stated in the Bible as being God's words. In comparing Christianity and Ingersollism, we find that Christianity teaches that God is an eternal existence without body or passions. An essence that contrives plans hate and loves, yet a being free from infirmities and unchangeable. A being infinite in goodness; yet seeing little children die with loathsome diseases inherited from their parents.

Ingersollism teaches that nature is eternal and is chained by an invariableness of law. That life is a property of force inherent in matter, and that all its forms have been evolved from the simple to the complex, and from the special to the general.

Ingersollism teaches that the finite mind can have no possible conception of an infinite, and that the teachings of reason and the lessons of experience are the only revelations which man has received.

It teaches that the Bible should be tested by the same rules of criticism that are applied to other ancient books.

It teaches that the universe is full of natural mysteries above the comprehension of man, but all due to natural law.

And lastly, it teaches that woman is the equal of man in every particular, and exists for him in the same sense in which he exists for her.

Ingersollism teaches that there is but one true religion, and that is the religion of humanity.

For teaching these things Col. Ingersoll is called the enemy of the church.

How much nicer it would be if all church members in the city would read Col. Ingersoll's "Liberty of man, woman and Child," in the family circle to-morrow evening instead of listening to a dry discourse on the probabilities of bathing in that lake of eternal fire and brimstone. There are sentences in that lecture, the pathos of which can never be equalled nor forgotten; and no mother or father can read them without tears of purest and holiest memories dropping from the most hallowed chambers of their souls.

MORE new post-offices are now being established than at any time previous in the history of the Government.

SPRING GREETING.

Spring has come, and considerably ahead of its usual time. Yet we have anticipated the coming, and are pleased to offer our customers and friends such a line of Clothing and Furnishings as has been rarely if ever seen in this market. Our shelves and counters are full of beautiful goods, elegant in style, select in materials, and perfect in workmanship. Our ample capital and large resources have never availed us greater advantage in manufacturing clothing than at the present time, and we propose to give our customers all the benefit from it that is possible.

Having preconceived the idea of a heavy advance in woollens, we bought largely of staples before the advance, and to-day we are able to offer to our customers these woollens manufactured into cloth at but a slight advance over last year's prices, and at least 20 per cent. less than other dealers can buy the same in New York.

Since occupying our present room our business has so vastly increased that we have been compelled to enlarge our already spacious room, that we may the better accommodate our daily increasing trade. The additions made are in the rear of our present room, and will be used exclusively as our Boys' and Children's Department, being neatly carpeted and furnished with chairs, sofas, tables, mirrors, etc.

We have never been fixed so well as now to add to the comforts and wants of our customers. In our selections of cloth, and manufacture of Boys' and Children's clothing, we certainly never had such an array of beauty in design of cloth and make-up in style as we are able to present to the citizens of Terre Haute and vicinity this Spring.

While others have croaked we have worked, and that our work has been effective, not only for our own benefit but for the good of the people at large, is attested by the generous patronage we have been accorded. Be assured it is cheering to receive such tokens of appreciation, and we shall not remit our efforts to merit them hereafter. We have no occasion to disparage our neighbors, and have no complaints to offer of honorable and fair competition. We transact our business on strictly business principles; buy in large quantities such goods as we do not manufacture at our own mills; manufacture our own clothing; sell to consumers at the same price that the New York Jobber charges the ordinary merchant; sell for cash only, and thereby save all loss from bad debts; mark our goods in plain figures and never deviate therefrom; have spacious store-rooms and gentlemanly salesmen with whom it is a pleasure to deal, and our guarantee is absolute and unqualified.

We shall be pleased to serve you. A personal visit will afford you more satisfaction than what we can say here, and we would most gladly welcome you in our new quarters.

RESPECTFULLY,

OWEN, PIXLEY & CO.
